Paintings on Pediatrics

A cartoon carnival has been created on 7-East, Pediatrics. Children on the ward are greeted by the familiar faces of Donald Duck, Tweetie Bird, Daffy Duck, Yosemite Sam, the Pink Panther, Winnie the Pooh and his friends Piglet and Tigger. Another area is dedicated to "Sesame Street" where cheerful paintings of Big Bird, Bert and Ernie and the Cookie Monster brighten the walls.

These fantastic cartoon characters were all painted by October's Sailor of the Month, HM3 Geoffrey Bjorgan and his lovely wife, Angie. Just a glance down the hall shows this man and wife team's great talent.

Through their efforts, small children who must be hospitalized feel a little less lonesome and unhappy just knowing their good "friends" are just outside their door.

You can make 1976 the Year of the 'Pro'

What is a professional? In civilian life we have the professions of law, medicine, etc., and we know that the men who follow them spend years of study before they are ready to practice. But as professionals they never, throughout their careers, stop studying and disciplining themselves to acquire greater skill and knowledge.

What is a professional military man? The answer might be: He's no tyro. He has chosen the service as a career. It is his way of making a livelihood by service to his fellow men, just as the doctor and the lawyer serve in their respective fields.

Your real military pro, having elected his service, does more than commit himself to it like a barnacle on a rock. He proceeds methodically to make it his own. He takes over. How? By giving himself to it.

It isn't anything like sacrifice. How could it be, when one of the distinguishing marks of the pro is pride and confidence in his service and in himself? It is no chore for him to be constantly expanding his knowledge of that service and its ways because with greater understanding comes greater confidence.

Why this confidence? He has come to believe in the service, in its mission and its way of life. He has identified himself with it, completely and irrevocably. Even when he retires he won't shed it. He can't. It is in his thinking, his manner, his behavior.

You can spot the pro against the amateur, the dabbler, because this identification with a tradition, a single honorable career, makes his life meaningful. He moves and speaks with a purpose that springs from knowing exactly what he is and what he will be tomorrow — the same, only better.

Think of yourself, then, as a pro in the year ahead. Don't make 1976 a year of vacillation and self doubt.(AFPS)

THE SHORT SHEET

New reenlistment regs

Effective January 1, 1976, the decision to reenlist will involve the Navy as well as the individual. If the Navy needs more people within the person's rate his chances of being okayed for reenlistment are good. But if there are more people within his rate than are needed he may be asked to change to another, less crowded rate.

These new rules also work to the man's advantage. In less crowded rates there is more chance for advancement. Changes can often be made without loss of grade. Check with the career counselor for details.

Medical grants to be given

In an effort to recruit second and third year medical and osteopathic students for the Armed Forces Health Professions Scholarship Program the Navy will be providing grants of more than $5000 a year, plus tuition, fees and books.

Write to the Chief, Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Code 314, Department of the Navy, Washington, D.C. 20372, for further information.

New Year's thought from the Chief Master at Arms

As we walk through Med Center each day,
Look around you, I'm sure you will say,
"Our military bearing and personal pride Might have slipped just a bit in '75."
Whatever position, whichever your corps,
Our pride and personal worth we must restore.
What happened to that spirit of "We're the best?"
Correct yourself; set examples for the rest.
There's a sailor with no cover, his uniform a rag,
He didn't even stop as they raised the nation's flag.
Many patients we're treating fought hard for our nation.
With this coming year I hope to hear their quotation:
"There's a corpsman, a doctor and a nurse,
The most proud organization on earth."

LT Bob Newquist (Environmental Health): "Greetings and sanitation!"

HM3 Louis Unis: "To play more golf so I can join the varsity golf team."

Pediatrics: "We resolve to strive for better communication, improve knowledge, keep charts current, eliminate unnecessary lab work, notify 'the boss' when in doubt, terminate tardiness, conserve energy, nullify nit-picking, strive for neatness in notes, innovate, accommodate annoying situations and to lift long hair from ears and collars." (Sounds like a good resolution for us all!)

SANTA AND MRS. CLAUS visited in the Officer's Dining Room before proceeding to the Pediatrics ward. Mr. and Mrs. Claus passed out Christmas cards to the children, asking them to write down on the card exactly what they wanted this year from Santa. (Just to keep Santa from forgetting?) Lottie Raines and Robert Evans were the ones spreading the good will. Ordinarily you'll find them working in Food Service.

A New Year of savings begins

Clearance sales are the BIG news this month at the Navy Exchange, and smart shoppers know that this is the period when markdowns are made on a variety of holiday and seasonal merchandise. Look for unannounced specials in clothing, and spectacular reduced-price offerings in seasonal items which will be just as useful eleven months from now as they were last month. We're talking about things such as holiday greeting cards, ornaments, toys, accessories and gift sets.

Hedge against inflation by considering the many markdowns being featured at the store that offers more...the Navy exchange.

On the shelf...

Here are just a few of the national best sellers now available on the shelves of the Crew's Library, building 101.

THE GREEK TREASURE (Irving Stone). A faithful, if weighty, novelization of the life of Heinrich Schliemann.

LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR (Judith Rossner). A woman finds death at the end of the singles-bar trail.

HUMBOLDT'S GIFT (Saul Bellow). Fame, poetry, power, money, death are the concerns with Bellow in good form.

SHOGUN (James Clavell). A Westerner becomes enmeshed in 17th-century Japanese intrigue.

NIGHTWORK (Irwin Shaw). A night clerk with 100-grand joins up with a con-man; a funny, sardonic romp.

In the non-fiction section you can find some of these new selections: HIM/HER/SELF: SEX ROLES IN MODERN AMERICA (Filene); PERSONAL FINANCIAL PLANNING (Hallman); THE MILITARY AIRPLANE: ITS HISTORY; CHILTON'S MORE MILES-PER-GALLON GUIDE; DOG DAYS AT THE WHITE HOUSE; OUTRAGEOUS MEMOIRS; MAN IN BLACK: JOHNNY CASH.

Bits and Pieces

News Flash! Pharmacy recognizes an ancient nostrum for '76.

It cures most ills, alleviates the pain of all ills, has countless sources, many dosage forms are available, it's very inexpensive, has no counter-indications, is positively addicting, has a high incidence of cross-sensitivity and works best when given away free of charge.

It's generic name is love.

Trade names are agape, aga'pi, ahavah, ai, aloha, amor, amore, ask-sevgi, elskou, houb, iubire, karlek, kjaerlighet, l'amour, laska, Liebe, libe, liefde, ljubav, lyubof, mitosc, mo ghradh, pag-ibig, rakkavs, szeretet, tjinta, upendo.

What good idea did HMI Bob Pierce come up with when he returned home from Okinawa last week that his wife, Mary, hasn't slept since!?

One of CAPT Angelo Petoletti's nicest Christmas greetings this year was a beautiful, autographed photograph from an old friend — RADM Paul Kaufman, Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Medicine for Material Resources. Their friendship goes back to a time when RADM Kaufman was a LCDR and CAPT Petoletti held the rank of Lieutenant.

RADM Sparks bids a fond last farewell to CDR Nancy MacDowell. The staff will certainly miss her presence.

TAKING LIFE IN SHORT BURSTS

For years I wanted to climb a mountain with my son. We had first talked about it in 1964 when we lived in New Orleans. But no mountains are there - only the vast Mississippi Valley with no elavation, not even a hill. Then we moved to the Republic of the Philippines. The beautiful Zambales Mountain Range could be seen from our dining room windows. A lot of history is centered in those mountains. In 1942 the Japanese army pushed our fighting forces out of the Zambales Mountains and on to the Bataan Peninsula and received the surrender of Bataan and Corregidor. My son and I used to look at those green mountains covered with jungle foliage and banana trees. We talked about climbing one, dreamed of doing it, set dates, and then - interruptions. In my study at home, for a long time, was a full page of things I had promised to do. At the top of that list there used to be this line: "Climb a mountain with my son." It had started in 1964. Not until June of 1971, just outside San Francisco, did we "climb" our mountain. It had been seven years of obstructions, but we did it - finally.

Just by the very nature of things, the movement of the hands on the clock, and the passing of the seasons, changes come which will surely bring interruptions. "Constant change is here to stay" is more than a slogan. It is a fact. So, what is one to do, especially with rude and tragic interference? Senator Edward M. Kennedy has a word about this. In March of 1971 he said, "I've had more than my share of tragedy and disappointment. The pendulum swings wide, and when it does, you develop an ability to live with these changes. You take life in short bursts."

The man who is among the ranks of the banished is usually there because he could not, or would not, adapt himself to disturbing disruptions. And it is true the other way too. The man who moves on toward successful living with himself, his kin and his society is the man who has learned how to adjust to interruptions.

$500,000 still unclaimed by Ohio families

More than $500,000 is still unclaimed by next-of-kin of deceased Ohio veterans of the Vietnam Era Conflict, according to Randall W. Sweeney, Director of the Ohio Vietnam Veterans Bonus Commission.

"These funds," Sweeney said, "have been specifically set aside by the people of Ohio for the survivors of persons who were either killed in action, or who died as a result of illness or injuries sustained in Vietnam service. They can claim as much as $1,000 compensation."

He explained that Department of Defense records indicate there are 511 deceased Ohio veterans, whose next-of-kin have not yet applied. A veteran's surviving spouse is the primary beneficiary, followed by surviving children or surviving parents, in that designated order.

NRMC accredited for two years

Naval Regional Medical Center Oakland, has been accredited for two years by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH).

The chief aim of the Hospital Accreditation Program is to help hospitals in their pursuit of excellence and thereby provide a higher quality of care to patients.

NRMC's accreditation is a result of an on-site survey made by field representatives of the Joint Commission's Hospital Accreditation Program. Accreditation indicates that NRMC has met the standards of operation set by JCAH, a non-governmental, non-profit organization.

NRMC's first baby for '76

Little Jennifer Lee Rodriguez was the first baby to be welcomed by NRMC in 1976. Weighing in at 7 pounds, 2 ounces, she made her arrival at 4:19 a.m. on New Year's Day.

Her proud mother is Kathy Rodriguez, wife of PN3 Ruben Rodriguez who works in Personnel at the Naval Air Station, Alameda. LT John P. Navins, MC, was the attending physician.

WATCH OUT FOR THE BULL!

Once again the Bull has been passed... this time to ENS Ladislaus Gollesz. Passing the Brahma Bull was CDR Hubert Sowers, Director of Administrative Services. All the ceremony is due to the fact that the Admiral's Aide, Gene Hart, was just promoted to Lieutenant Junior Grade.

The tradition of the Bull Ensign began in 1973 when CAPT E. B. Miller (former Executive Officer at NRMCO) decided to "honor" the region's Senior Medical Service Corps Ensign.

Ensign Gollesz, who heads the Special Services Branch, is the eleventh proud owner. When he joins Mr. Hart with the rank of LTJG he will then enjoy the honor of passing the bull to the next senior Ensign.

SM1 makes Sailor of the Month

In just five short months since his transfer from the USS Coral Sea, Signalman First Class Stewart A. Martin has made a name for himself as permanent Chief of the Day at NRMC.

Aboard the USS Coral Sea, SM1 Martin was selected Supervisor of the Month for March 1975. He has now earned himself another honor—Sailor of the Month for December. Only one other general service rating has ever been selected Sailor of the Month at NRMC.

Rear Admiral Henry A. Sparks stated that his "initiative has been responsible for unequalled standards of efficiency and responsiveness at the Information Desk... Serving as an inspiration to subordinates and superiors alike, Petty Officer Martin's enterprising devotion to duty has immeasurably assisted the delivery of health care at this center."

With 14 years of service to his credit, Martin boasts about the number of ships he's been stationed aboard: four destroyers, two mine sweepers, one guided missile cruiser and one aircraft carrier. But Martin's ambitions don't just stop with the Navy. He is currently enrolled in classes at Chabot College and is working toward an Associate in Arts degree in Supervision.

Our Sailor of the Month hails from New Hampshire, but now makes his home in Hayward with his wife, Ahava, who just happens to be one of NRMC's dedicated Red Cross workers. Carpentry work, dabbling in the stock market and working with underprivileged children top the list of his favorite off-duty interests.

the Chaplain's Corner

In this two-hundredth year of our nation's life, Americans are being faced with the necessity for reviewing our values and priorities. This is a great nation, but in the bicentennial year we are more aware than ever that the qualities of greatness are largely a part of our past heritage and not altogether the product of one generation's enlightened effort.

History has repeated itself many times in emphasizing that the moral conscience of a nation is its principal foundation stone of survival, strength and stability. This is one of the central themes of the Hebrew wisdom literature of the wise men who played such a significant role in shaping the cultural patterns of Israel. They expressed this firm conviction in such poetic sayings as: "Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." As that nation grew strong, great leaders like Solomon took care to blend wisdom and prophecy into instructions for developing sound individual and social ethical standards. As long as these high standards of personal and national conduct were observed, Israel was a great nation.

The Old Testament wisdom concerning righteousness has relevance for every age. Its prophecy of the inevitable deterioration of those who forsake the moral principles of the universe has come to fulfillment in many of the great civilizations of the past.

Today in America we see a wave of events which give rise to suspicion, frustration and insecurity. We cannot feel safe in our person or even within our homes, and the threat comes not from some outside source but rather from other American citizens who are willing to abandon moral principles for personal gain. This should call our nation to a deeper realization of the fact that it is not by power, wealth, noble tradition, nor numerical strength alone that a nation is genuinely strong. What better time to ponder the real source of this nation's true greatness and commit ourselves again to live out those principles in our own generation?

ARBA issues commemorative '76 medals

The official 1976 Bicentennial commemorative medal, authorized by Congress, is now for sale.

Available in bronze ($5.00) and silver ($25.00), the medal is issued by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA) and produced by the United States Mint.

Orders for the medal should be sent to the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, P.O. Box 1976, San Francisco, California 94101. A check or money order should be enclosed.

The medal commemorates the famous ride of Paul Revere and depicts the Minuteman Statue on Lexington Common as a tribute to the small band of volunteers who "Fired the shot heard around the world."

Order forms for official 1976 commemoratives can be obtained from local chapters of the Disabled American Veterans, who have joined hands with the ARBA to help raise funds for Bicentennial projects and programs.

Bits and Pieces

Grown from just a two-foot baby is this eight foot tall giant dumb cane (dieffenbachia amena). Shirley Cober of Civilian Personnel is the proud owner... and she's only had it two years. Watch out 'Jack in the Beanstalk'!

Our most recent skateboard casualty is CDR Charles Benninger of Dermatology who broke both his tibia and fibula of his left leg. And he can't blame it on kids leaving toys around, either; he was actually skateboarding!

If you take the first letter from the key phrases of Pediatrics' New Year's resolution (in our last issue) you'll find they had the spirit of '76 in mind. The letters spell "bicentennial."

After 21 years of Naval service, CAPT Gilbert LeBlanc had the honor of swearing in his 21-year old son, Stephen. At a ceremony at the Recruiting Center in Oakland Stephen followed in his father's footsteps by joining the military. But he sidestepped a little by signing up with the Air Force.

CREW'S LIBRARY BOUNTY! The spirit of giving was exemplified in this stack of paperback books donated by the Marketing 101 class at the College of Alameda. Enjoying first choice are DKS Mary Wehrly of Disbursing and Ella Powell, Library clerk. The books will be distributed to patients, outpatient clinics and are available to NRMC staff and dependents on the Library's "Trading Post" table.

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the patients and staff of the Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, I wish to thank all those who visited our hospital during this holiday season. Your thoughtfulness and spirit of good will helped brighten the hospital stay of many.

Such demonstrated interest is of major importance in the recovery and rehabilitation of our patients. They are cheered by the knowledge that you are aware of their sacrifices and wish to make their hospital stay as pleasant as possible.

I am certain I express the sentiments of our personnel, both patient and staff, in saying that without your kindness our Christmas would not have been as merry, nor our New Year as happy. Your interest in the welfare of our patients is deeply appreciated. Again, my thanks for your thoughtfulness.

Sincerely,

Dancers with Veteran Hospitals' Christmas Committee

The 1975 Christmas season was a busy one indeed! Getting the holidays off to a fantastic start was Mr. Bob Hope. His visit was the first of many.

Some of the good people warding off ole Scrooge were Pacific Southwest Airway's stewardesses, the Veteran Hospitals' Christmas Committee who decorated the hospital and presented a variety show, the Women's Volunteers of America who passed out Christmas gifts to patients, and the Golden Gate Revue performers. Christmas carols were sung by groups from St. Paschals School, the Chinese Bible College, Camp Fire Girls, the Mitchell Evangelical Center, and Oakland Chinese Presbyterian Church.

May the spirit of Christmas never be forgotten.

Rescue citation awarded

Recently commended for "performing duties in an exceptional manner during the evacuation of an injured woman hiker" was HM3 Michael D. Loveless.

In the Squire Creek Area near Darrington, Washington, a mountain climber fell, breaking her back and a leg. Mike, on duty with the Search and Rescue Team at the Naval Hospital, NAS Whidbey Island, was sent to her aid. He alone was lowered from a helicopter which hovered at over 3,000 feet on the side of a deadend ravine.

He placed the injured woman on a backboard; she was then raised to the helicopter and taken to a nearby hospital for treatment.

RADM Henry A. Sparks, presenting the award on behalf of Boeing Vertol Company, lauded his actions "in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Navy and the Hospital Corps."

SOC Aids

The Servicemen's Opportunity Colleges (SOC) Program is designed to aid servicemen and women to obtain college degrees despite the inherent mobility of military life. The nearly 250 two- and four-year institutions which are now designated as Servicemen's Opportunity Colleges represent a network of schools across the United States and abroad which have recognized the needs of Servicemembers. The cooperation among these institutions, their similar policies on admissions, transfer and residence requirements, and their participation in an organized effort geared to opportunities for program completion represents an educational environment which understands and assists the mobile Servicemember.

A complete catalog of Servicemen's Opportunity Colleges and detailed information on the program may be obtained by writing:

You don't have to be brilliant to be in college. In fact, you may already have some college credit available from technical training you have received in the service. If you've been hesitating about getting into college studies, why not visit the Education Office and get all the facts to help you make that decision?

Is college for you?

Enlisted Mess to reopen in building 133

In July 1975 the Enlisted Mess Open was razed to give way for construction of the new regional medical warehouse. Previous proposals for new construction and renovation of existing buildings have proved fruitless because of austere Department of Defense funding.

A grant of funds from the Chief of Naval Personnel has been received, along with approval to utilize available Mess resources. Renovation of building 133 will begin on Monday, Jan. 26, 1976. The building is located near the Mountain Boulevard entrance to the Naval Regional Medical Center complex.

The remodeling of the building will provide full club facilities, including a complete food service operation. The completion date for the renovation is unknown; however, the order for "full-speed ahead" has been directed by RADM H. A. Sparks, the Commanding Officer.

Black History Week set at NRMCO

The week of Feb. 9-13, 1976, will be observed at NRMCO Oakland as Black History Week, and a special program will be held in the main dining room at 2 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 12.

Last year's program was an outstanding success, with some 350 persons in attendance. This year's speakers will include Mrs. Julia Robinson, of Langley Porter Institute, San Francisco; Mr. Morrie Turner, from the Oakland Tribune; and Pastor J. Alfred Smith of Allen Temple Baptist Church.

The theme of Black History Week is WORKING TOGETHER IN THE BICENTENNIAL YEAR. All Hands are invited and urged to be present.

RADM H. A. SPARKS holds center stage as he briefs the Inspection Team concerning NRMCO Oakland. Admiral Lonergan and Captain Mateik are to his left.

IG and BUMED complete inspection

Command inspection by the Inspector General, Medical, RADM W. M. Lonergan, MC, USN, and his assistants, has been conducted Jan. 15 through 30, 1976. Besides Admiral Lonergan, the BuMed team includes CAPTs E. D. Mateik, MSC, USN, and J. C. Smout, MSC, USN, Medical; Capt. R. E. Osman, CHC, USN, for Religious Matters; CAPT J. E. Schanberger, MC, USN, for Graduate Medical Education; CAPT K. Wilson, NC, USN, for Nursing; LCDR E. E. Brighton, SC, USN, for Supply Matters; LCDR A. O. Woods, MSC, USN, for HM Training; and Mr. B. AMERICA

...For All Americans

The contributions of black Americans to our nation are given special recognition during February 1976, which has been designated as Black History Month. "America for all Americans" is the theme of this fiftieth annual celebration of Afro-American history.

Blacks have been actively involved in the history of America from the time of its discovery and exploration. It is strongly asserted that Pedro Alonzo Nino, pilot of one of Columbus' ships during the 1492 voyage, was a man of black ancestry, and that Diego el Negro, who sailed with Columbus on his fourth voyage in 1501, was a Negro.

However uncertain these claims might be, subsequent involvement and patriotism of blacks in the making of America are undisputed historical facts. Yet, until recently, such facts were seldom included in history books. Black History Month aims at increasing an awareness that the black presence in virtually every field of endeavor is woven inextricably into the whole American fabric.

During this Bicentennial year, American history recounts that Crispus Attucks, a black seaman, was the first to die in the revolution, and that 5,000 blacks joined the fight for freedom from England. Moreover, blacks in uniform have made noteworthy contributions throughout American military history.

Black soldiers and sailors were there during the War of 1812 and in the Civil War. They were there as the "Buffalo Soldiers" during the winning of the Southwest. They were there as chaplains and fighting forces during the Spanish American War and the Philippine intervention. They were there in World War I: although black Americans comprised 9 per cent of the draft eligibles, 13 percent of the enlisted corps were black. And they were there in World War II, the Korean War and the Vietnam War—and as always, fighting, dying, and receiving decorations for valor.

In 1976, black American men and women continue to serve in the U.S. Armed Forces. Through their dedication and service they are writing contemporary black history and American history, while sharing the responsibility and credit of protecting "America for all Americans."

BUOYANCY IN WORK, REPOSE IN SLEEP

It has not been too hard for me to help those distraught persons carrying the millstone of past mistakes around their necks. There is aid to be given to those desperate souls bearing the dead weight of misdeeds upon their shoulders. But there isn't a great deal that can be done for the man who has no idea of what he really wants from life. And yet, there's nothing in the world which helps a man surmount his difficulties, survive his disasters and keep his health as the knowledge of a life task worthy of his devotion. When a man can take a sheet of paper and a pencil and put down in clear, decisive statement just what he wants in this life, he's back on the main road; and life takes on a flavor and zest that the aimless never know.

Someone has noted that man has 2-1/2 minutes of life - one to smile, one to sigh, and a half to love. And it is in the midst of the half that he dies. In the shortness of my earth life I have a very precious store of energy and it is not to be squandered. It is good sense to undertake no task or set out to reach no goal until I have convinced myself that the purpose is good and that reaching it will be worth the effort. With that condition satisfied, I will never feel myself restricted in any way, either mentally or physically. Better still, there is buoyancy in my work and leisure, and repose in my sleep.

Martin Luther King remembered

Memorial services honoring Martin Luther King Jr., were held in the Chapel of Hope on Jan. 15, 1976.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." (Matthew 5) So began LNC Clarence Atterbury's reading of the scripture which formed the basis of Chaplain L. Wayne Rushing's memorial meditation.

The philosophy and memory of Martin Luther King have not been forgotten, as evidenced by the standing-room-only crowd attending the service.

Hats off to "Outstanding" employees

Civilian employees are evaluated annually by their supervisors on their work performance. When an employee is judged "Outstanding," it is a truly singular tribute. It also means that a supervisor has taken time to critically evaluate the total performance of the individual. Quality of work, quantity of work and the employee's adaptability receive judgmental evaluation.

A NRMC Oakland instruction gives guidelines for the rating. "A rating of Outstanding recognizes an employee whose performance has been sustained at a truly exceptional level above the performance standards of the position."

Meeting those qualifications and honored in a special ceremony in the offices of the Commanding Officer are the following very "exceptional" civilians: Julia Clouse, administrative assistant at the Naval Dispensary, Treasure Island; Elee Cross, housekeeping aid; Rutha Jones, food service worker in Food Management Service; Drusilla Joseph, housekeeping aid; Lela Mattos, supervisory clinical nurse; Elnora Mixon, housekeeping aid; Arthur Moser, medical technician (chemistry) in Laboratory Service; Margaret Nielson, editorial assistant in Clinical Investigation Center; Leon Pence, medical technician at the branch clinic, Concord; Lucille Showaker, clerk typist in Ob-Gyn; Mary Smith, nursing office clerk; Robert Valentine, hospital file clerk in Outpatient Service; Rachel Wells, Food Management Service; Elizabeth Winsby, contact representative in Patient Affairs Service; and Helen Zlibin, medical records technician in Surgery Service.

The Bay Area Federal Safety Council unanimously elected Matthew W. Riley as chairman. Mr. Riley is NRMC's safety manager.

The Council is made up of personnel from federal establishments which are located in designated geographical areas throughout the United States and outside the United States. Their purpose is to advise the Secretary of Labor on matters relating to the occupational safety and health of federal employees.

LTJG Edward L. Robinson

O' Club has new manager

Replacing LTJG Jay Roberts as manager of the Commissioned Officers' Mess (Closed) is LTJG Edward L. Robinson, a young man new to the Navy. He comes to us with a background that should eminently qualify him for his position. LTJG Robinson came directly into the Medical Service Corps, from the Cornell University School of Hotel Administration. His degree—Masters of Professional Studies.

He says food comes first as a hobby even before skiing and tennis. Incidentally, in his 25 years, Edward has acquired no ring on that special finger of the left hand. He is staying at the BOQ, Treasure Island.

He says he is looking forward to the challenge of his job. He invites helpful suggestions and wants people to continue to look forward to exciting times at the O' Club.

All this came about when it was determined that the time had come for LTJG Jay Roberts, who served as manager of the O' Club from January 1974 to January 1976, to familiarize himself with the operations of Food Service. Thus he has turned attention from recreational feeding of the military to hospital oriented feeding or health care. His title is Assistant Food Service Director.

Upon his transfer from the O' Club to Food Service LTJG Roberts received a Letter of Appreciation for a job "well done."

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

A groundbreaking ceremony for the construction of the Alameda Coast Guard Federal Credit Union is Friday, Feb. 6, at 11:30 a.m. Officials from the Credit Union, the Coast Guard and the Medical Center will be present.

Fred Taylor elected housekeeping pres

If you're standing near an elevator and note a gentleman stoop to retrieve a bit of litter someone missed throwing at the smoking stand, the man just might be Fred Taylor. He's just being himself after a lifetime of housekeeping awareness.

On Jan. 17, Fred was elected and installed as president of the newly formed Oakland Bay Area Chapter of the National Executive Housekeepers Association. For many years the executive housekeepers of this area were part of the San Francisco Chapter. There are some 30 Bay Area health care institutions involved in the professional association. Because it took 12 months of diligent effort to prepare the groundwork and recruit the 40 members for the new chapter, Mr. Taylor resigned as president of the San Francisco Chapter in January 1975.

He started work at NRMCO in 1969. In 1973 he was granted administrative leave to obtain his national certification, which required 160 hours of instruction in courses such as purchasing, budgets, safety practices, environmental controls, personnel management and housekeeping techniques.

Over the years, Mr. Taylor has shared his professional skill with many of his associates and has been instrumental in convincing several retired military personnel to choose positions as executive housekeepers. Among them are Ollen Langston (LCDR, MSC), with Mills Memorial Hospital; John Wall (HMCS), with Kaiser, Walnut Creek; Dick Langley (DTCM), also with Kaiser, Walnut Creek; Bob Walton (HMCS), with Fremont Schools System; Don Hofer (HMCS), as assistant at Samuel Merritt Hospital, Oakland; George Hatcher (HMCS), at an out-of-state hospital.

Mr. Taylor is to be complimented on his professional achievements. He states, "With employee productive time (actual cleaning) averaging 20 cents per minute, gains of just 10 minutes per day in productive time easily yield true savings of several hundred dollars per year, per employee."

Yassou Greek Dancers entertain

On Nov. 8, 1973, the Yassou Greek Folk Dancers gave their first performance here. They had no costumes, little experience and little publicity, hence practically no audience.

Fri. 23, 1976, was a different story. They were back again in authentic, hand-sewn, elaborate costumes, performing an hour of native dances at the Clinical Assembly. They proved so delightful they were invited, and graciously consented, to take their Grecian folkloric to the Commissioned Officers' Mess (Closed) for the enjoyment of some 140 guests gathered to honor VIP personages aboard. Many of the guests joined in the dances.

Women Marines commemorate reopening to women in 1943

The San Francisco chapter of the Women Marines Association will hold its 33rd Anniversary Luncheon on Saturday, Feb. 7, at the Marines Memorial Club in San Francisco. CAPT E. D. Mateik, MSC, USN, Executive Assistant to the Inspector General, expressed particular enthusiasm for the troupe. His wife is from Greece, and has given him first hand appreciation of the songs and dances of her native land.

The dancers performed a potpourri of movements. Their instructor, Ann Marcoulis, first explained the steps, which stemmed from the mainland, the islands and the taverns. She interpreted the songs, but when the shepherds leaped in springs of joy to the exciting music and song of the sheep owners' daughters, there was scarce need for interpretation.

Blood Bank accredited

The American Association of Blood Banks (AABB) announces that the Naval Regional Medical Center of Oakland has been accredited by the Association for another 2-year period.

This certifies that the level of technical and administrative performance within our blood bank and transfusion service meets or exceeds the standards established by the AABB.

Bernice M. Hemphill, president of the AABB, emphasized that "the patient who receives a transfusion of blood provided by a blood bank accredited by the American Association of Blood Banks can have full confidence that the bank has voluntarily met high standards of procedures and is continually striving to offer the best service possible."

This blood bank is one of more than 1,700 blood banks in the United States which have been accredited through this program.

Personnel of NRMCO will be given yet another opportunity to support this program at the next Irwin Memorial Blood Bank drive set Tuesday, Mar. 9.

Inspection

When an inspection team comes aboard, it is almost as if each Service, through the eyes of Washington, gets both an objective and subjective mirror image of what they really are doing. The evaluation covers the effectiveness of the command, adequacy and management of available resources, organization including compliance with directives, and the quality of health care and training programs.

For the personnel carrying on the inspection, compliance with the objectives contained in OPNAVINST 5040.7G calls for mostly all work and no play. Even the Inspector General himself confessed to a day extending frequently from 7 a.m. to 9 or 10 p.m.

Every phase of operation of the hospital is reviewed. If NRMCO's laundry seemed to receive a slight bit more attention than some other departments, it is understandable. Admiral Lonergan began his Navy career as a corpsman there in 1944. He personally toured that operation. Also, it was not the first time here for LCDR A. O. Woods. He was Chief of Patient Affairs when he detached in May of 1974, having seen duty here since 1968.

A final report of the team's findings with such recommendations as may be considered appropriate will be submitted to the Command at a later date. One member of the team, CAPT K. Wilson, hinted that she believes NRMCO Oakland will survive its circumspect evaluation quiet nicely.

Whatever the report, the team has earned our tribute of "Well done," and the Command can vouch that their hard labors certainly earned for them last Friday night's evening of relaxation at the buffet dinner at the O'Club.

TRANSFER TELEPHONE CALLS properly. Nobody likes to be transferred, so always help the caller yourself if possible. If you must transfer, do so properly, and always make sure the caller understands he is being transferred and why. For instance, "Mrs. Evans, I believe the Personnel Office can help you. May I transfer you?"

Never use lighted candles in molded polystyrene foam or other plastic holders or near decorations made of these materials. When they burn, they quickly give off highly toxic fumes which could be fatal. Instead, use sturdy metal or wooden holders that won't tip over.

USO, a place away from home

Bored with evenings at the BEQ in front of TV? Not tuned in to local bars? Waiting for our Enlisted Mess to be reopened? Try the USO—it's free and it's fun!

For over 30 years the USO's have been boosting the morale of armed forces personnel and helping whenever and wherever they can. In the Bay Area, there is no slacking off. Maybe your own CFC dollars have helped see to that.

There are three main USO's in the Bay Area. The San Francisco USO is at 1019 Market Street; the Oakland USO, at 518 17th Street; and a lounge, at the San Francisco International Airport.

The San Francisco USO has a dining area where a gourmet dinner is served every Friday night for only $1. There is live music in the basement for dancing and a variety of entertainment—books,

Dental Health Week begins Monday

National Dental Health Week is Feb. 2 through 8. It is one week of the year when emphasis is put on teaching good dental health habits. Dentists frequently lecture within the schools, and flossing particularly is stressed.

Within the Dental Service of NRMCO it is agreed that the application of fluoride to teeth helps protect them from decay.

Dependents of active duty staff personnel of NRMCO are eligible to have their teeth cleaned and topical stannous fluoride applied. Ask your dentist for fluoride protection. A fluoride toothpaste is also recommended.

If you are eligible for dental service, phone 639-2255 for an appointment. Please remember that the proper use of a toothbrush and dental floss is as important as the frequency of use. The Dental Service has available a film on flossing and proper dental procedures which patients may ask to view.

Once proper techniques are learned, remember that it has been proven that a lower intake of sugar reduces decay also. Dental Service's admonition is "Go easy on between-meal sweets!" Try fresh fruits or finger foods such as celery or carrots for that between-meal snack.

And stretch Dental Week into Dental Year.

record players, chess partners, a place to write a letter home.

The Oakland USO is smaller, but it is a home away from home where you can be comfortable—a place to cook, should you feel inclined; pretty junior volunteers are there to make you feel at home.

Watch area bulletin boards, too, for special trip announcements. The USO offers just about anything a service man or woman wants. For you, included!

West Virginia seeks Vietnam veterans

Whether an applicant served in Vietnam or not, if he qualified during that conflict as a veteran, he may be eligible for a bonus. West Virginia authorities state that only 78,000 of 110,000 eligible veterans have made claims. Maybe your state is looking for you! Check eligibility with the Legal Service, ext. 2482.

Insurance costly for drunk drivers

An unmarried serviceman could pay hundreds of dollars more for insurance coverage after being convicted of driving while intoxicated, service traffic safety officials said. The conviction remains on insurance company records for at least 3 years, further boosting the premium rates.

VA will pay for GI tutoring

If any veterans and servicemen currently enrolled in college under the GI bill need tutoring this fall, the Veterans Administration will pay for it. VA officials announced that under the current law the VA is authorized to pay up to $60 per month for tutoring, not to exceed a total of $720. Tutorial benefits are also available to widows, wives and children who are studying under the VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance Program.

POGA "rules the roost"

"How long?" seems to be the question, but right now POGA (Peds/OB/Gyn/Anesthesiology) says "Forever!" as they jump into the lead in the 1976 Intramural Basketball League at NRMC. They are proud of their record of 6-0 as they hold the distinction of being the only undefeated team in league play. Dental upsets PT-OT

With team captain Gary Sawdy paving the way with 14 points, Dental upset high riding PT-OT by a score of 51-45. The way Dental has been playing lately it was just a matter of time before they got back into the win column.

Mid winter's bluster

In today's economy, when a financial institution shows a 42.7 percent growth rate in assets for the year 1975, it is news. It is to be expected that somewhere down the line operation management must note that growth and make physical changes to accommodate.

On Friday, Feb. 6, at Naval Regional Medical Center Oakland such accommodation began with the lifting of a first shovelful of dirt on a compound site in the vicinity of the Bank of America and Education and Training offices.

Rear Admiral H. A. Sparks, MC, USN, Commanding Officer of the Medical Center; Captain D. W. Starr, Chief of Staff, Twelfth Coast Guard District, San Francisco; and Captain Paul W. Meyer, USCG, Commanding Officer, U.S. Coast Guard Training Center, Government Island, Alameda, Ca., each wielded a gold handled shovel. The ground-breaking signaled construction of a new building for a subsidiary "Oak Knoll" office of the Alameda Coast Guard Federal Credit Union (ACGFCU).

A short 3 years ago, the offices of the Credit Union on the Oak Knoll compound was open twice a week for 2 hours. In 1973 hours were expanded to 5 days a week, 6 hours a day, and a small expansion was accomplished at that time. In 1973 also, interest rates went to 7 percent on regular accounts. Over a 5-year period assets of the ACGFCU increased from about $4 million to $23-1/2 million. Membership increased from 7,309 to 19,995 members.

Eligibility for membership in the ACGFCU includes military and civilian personnel of the Naval Regional Medical Center; the U.S. Coast Guard assigned within the Twelfth Coast Guard District; members of the U.S. Armed Forces eligible for and receiving benefits from the two installations and persons retired from those services; also certain immediate family members as prescribed.

Miss Peggy Griffin is the manager of the subsidiary office. She has hopes that by August 1976 the credit union will be fully operational in its new 6,100 square foot building—estimated to cost $500,000. The building is planned to accommodate wheelchair patients, and its contemporary design includes a safe deposit vault for individual deposit boxes and will afford all advantages of a full-service credit union.

THE MISS WHO REALLY DOES THE WORK for the ACGFCU is the Branch Manager, Peggy Griffin, shown above with the shovel. The Board of Directors, credited with much of the planning for the new "Oak Knoll" Credit Union are Mr. Neal Purseglove, Member; CAPT Carl

E. Johnson, USPHS (Ret), President; LCDR Antonnealle G. Townsend, USCG, Secretary; Mr. Woodrow W. Robarge, Member; CDR H. H. Sowers, MSC, USN, member (and Director of Administrative Services, NRMC Oakland); and Mr. Walter R. Terry, Treasurer/Manager.

the Chaplain's Corner

Living a productive and dynamic life can be an absorbing venture. A moment of deep communication with another person, a need that can be met by your efforts, a finished product made by your own hands—these are things which quicken our lives and bring enough joy to last through the rougher times. At such times we are hardly aware of the power that sustains us, for we are absorbed in the process.

The presence of God is the very heart and breath of our lives, the Power that sustains us in everything we do. Our faith ought to enable and sustain every act and attitude of our lives, but the effectiveness of life would be diminished if we were constantly measuring the power that makes it possible.

Life calls us to meet its demands, and we begin to exert ourselves as responsibly as we know how. But every now and then there comes the chance to pause and be aware of the Power that makes our lives possible. This is the pause that really refreshes and enables us to live life more fully.

God gives us life to live it, and it is in the responsible living of life as His gift that God is both glorified and enjoyed. How wonderful it is to pause for rest and renewal, aware that the Creator of all the universe is also the Giver and Sustainer of our lives!

Phaseout of Red Cross Rec Workers poses critical question

The smiling lady in a blue and white pin-striped dress enters a ward room. After a cheery "Good morning, how are you?" she notices an air of boredom among the patients. Obviously the men need something to do to while away the hours.

As a Red Cross recreation volunteer, she has been trained to spot patients who need an activity to stimulate new thought. Many times she carries cards, games or puzzles so she can offer some diversion. Other times during a discussion she finds where their interests lie and makes note for return visits with a suitable activity.

Her volunteer work, whether it is one or more mornings or afternoons a week, is part of a program involving a large group of volunteers who are concerned. The training of these volunteers, scheduling and coordinating their activities, and working with them in meeting the recreational needs of the patients, are responsibilities of the Red Cross career recreation workers.

At this Center, Beverly Johnson, Margaret Gough, Ahava Martin and Kathryn Van Ronzelen are the career staff members who plan, coordinate and maintain continuity of the recreation program carried on here.

Currently the American National Red Cross programs and structure are being closely studied by a special financial planning committee of the organization's Board of Governors. Mr. Charles Warfield, First Vice Chairman of the Board of Governors, is the chairman of the committee. Among the tentative proposals submitted for consideration is the phasing out of career recreational staff who supervise the recreation programs in military hospitals.

Such a phaseout would have a decided impact at NRMC Oakland.

Anyone who feels that a recreation program without career staff direction and expertise would not approach the effectiveness it now has should write to Mr. Charles Warfield, Special Planning Committee, American National Red Cross, 17th and D Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Speak up if you think our present program has value!

MAYBE KATHERINE TAYLOR deserves nomination as Sweetheart for the month of February?

Decedent Affairs Office has heart

The multitude of tasks within the office of Decedent Affairs are basically performed by one person, Katherine Taylor. In the last issue of THE OAK LEAF her husband Fred was introduced. Mrs. Taylor performs an equally important function here at Medical Center. She is the Decedent Affairs' civilian assistant.

She has the pleasant job of interviewing all mothers of the newborn and registering the vital statistics of their birth. But her job also entails handling a sadder reality of life—death. She must deal with the next of kin at a time which is frequently one of bewilderment, when, at loose ends, they feel engulfed by sadness.

At such a time it is very beneficial for the family to deal with someone who is kind and sympathetic, but also with someone who has knowledge of rules and regulations—Federal, State and County—which apply to an inpatient or active duty demise.

Stay calm!

In case of nosebleed

Last weekend the Ear, Nose and Throat Service took an educational display on nosebleed (epistaxis) to the California Medical Association meeting at the Hyatt Regency, San Francisco.

The display showed many of the causes of nosebleed in children and advised what should be done to stop the problem. Nosebleed may stem from an inherited allergy; it can be caused by picking, sneezing, harsh wiping, fracture, or it can be totally spontaneous.

The ice pack, however, is a passé method of treatment. It is far better to elevate the head and, as the poster shows, to apply digital (finger) pressure to the nostril. Of course, if epistaxis is frequently recurrent, a local or vascular abnormality may be suspected and home management is not the answer. In that event, consult your physician.

Bits and Pieces

The good news first: LT Cody Martin, NC, did not detach to Camp Pendleton, but received a Letter of Appreciation for services performed there. The bad news, this publication has to check up an error for having reported her as detaching.

And while in the confession mood, CAPT Vernon L. Goller's board certification should have headed that congratulatory list; however, once the paper has gone to camera, a reshoot can cost as much as $50. Isn't it great how much we can save by not correcting our errors and by letting you find them!

"Shucks, do we really have to go to school this morning? We want to stay home and play in the snow!" That was the guff most parents in the Bay Area received on finding their lawns white last week.

"In Washington they set the watch when it snows," Marge Lesage reminded CDR Hubert Sowers, Director of Administrative Services.

"That's not here," the Commander informed Marge; but nevertheless PT/OT School sent its employees home early when the heating facilities proved very inadequate to challenge the dropping thermometer and chilling winds.

A FEB. 14 BIRTHDAY GAL is ENS Nancy Earle, NC, USN, who works on 8-West. A co-worker said, "She really is a sweetheart!"

Have we any leap-year birthdays on base?

LCDR STEWART BAUKNIGHT stands behind a poster which was exhibited by ENT Service at a recent medical association meeting. Number One direction for home management in case of nosebleed is to "Stay calm with head elevated."

Beauty Salon under new management

The Navy Exchange Beauty Salon, under new management, continues to cater to hair needs for men, women and children. Whether you want a hair raising or hair lowering (press) experience, the operators stand ready to give that new flair, offering hair styling, permanents, tints, bleaches, chemical relaxers, shampoos and sets.

The telephone number for appointments remains 639-2000; hours of operation are Tuesday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. (Closed Sunday and Monday.)

Navy Lemoore's Sailor of Month

Hospital Corpsmen Third Class Phillip S. Fordice, recipient of two Purple Hearts, is Sailor of the month for Lemoore Naval Hospital.

He works in the Emergency Room at the Chief of the Day's desk at Naval Hospital Lemoore (where our former Executive Officer, CAPT Edwin B. Miller, is Commanding Officer).

Petty Officer Fordice was with the Third Marine Division in Dong Ha, South Vietnam, at the time he was wounded. He left the service in 1968 only to reenlist again in 1974 because he liked the Navy's preventive medicine program. His goal is to go to Preventive Medicine Technician School and to go on to receive his Bachelor of Science degree in Environmental Health.

Already he is working in that area. He recently took charge of and completed a health care survey in the family housing area aboard NAS Lemoore. He is the Restricted Barrack's Sick Call Corpsman, and in that position he organized a new system for conducting Sick Call at the barracks. His nomination letter reads, "He was instrumental in developing research data which directly improved the effectiveness of our entire infection control surveillance effort."

Body shaping, anyone?

Special Services seeks an expression of interest from dependent wives about scheduling an exercise class for Tuesdays and Thursdays, 9:30 to 11 a.m., in the gymnasium. John Embody, a physical education major from Merritt College and their Number One cross country runner, will instruct.

TAYLOR

Mrs. Taylor must coordinate with pathologists, physicians, coroners and morticians, as well as set up travel schedules and arrange for escorts. Quite frequently she is required to purchase burial clothing. She must maintain a very close liaison with the Casualty Assistant Officers, and she must know financial and billing procedures.

Death does not respect 8-to-5 office hours, so her duties must be covered 24 hours a day. To that end, she conducts inservice training for hospital corpsmen within the Patient Affairs office. And to the end that all tasks of the office may be performed more smoothly in her absence, a procedural manual, giving explicit instructions with documentary samples, has been written by Mrs. Taylor.

As just a little extra chore, she performs Notary Public services for the staff.

It takes only a few minutes to give blood

How is a 260-pound guy like a 110-pound gal?

If you expect the answer to be a joke, it isn't.

Both can be blood donors. Size, strength or sex doesn't matter. Neither does race, creed nor color.

Every blood donation is of equal value. Each donation can save a life. With today's technology, one unit can help more than one person.

You don't have to be handsome or beautiful, but you do need a good hemoglobin.

Finally, you don't need hours and hours of spare time, just about an hour. (Blood donors could give every eight weeks, up to five times a year).

Being a blood donor isn't fattening, costly or difficult. You rest for a few minutes on a donor table, have a cup of coffee and some cookies, and receive the thanks of all.

You get something else, too — a warm inner glow that comes from knowing that you have done a job that "you" know matters.

So, come one, come all! Plan now to give blood on Tuesday, Mar. 9, 1976. Details in the next issue.

In the Bicentennial Year—

WE WORK TOGETHER WITH RAINBOW POWER

While Mr. Ambrus Turner, Housekeeping Supervisor for NRMCO, was waiting at the flagpole for his famous cartoonist brother to arrive, Mr. Morrie Turner was himself already aboard and upstairs entertaining some 300 staff in the main dining room. The occasion was a program climax to Black History Week.

The program of Feb. 12, 1976, marks its second annual observance to be held at the Medical Center. Ms. Julia Robinson, Institute Administrator from Langley Porter Institute, San Francisco, told the attentive listeners, "If we love, we can be ourselves." As the 10th child from a family of 15 children, she averred, "I've got to be me . . . to know who I am I have to discover the God in me." She suggested that we all build on love, together. The crowd applauded.

Applause also rang true after HM3 Rose Burleson and HN Charles Bell sang a duet a cappella, "He ain't heavy, he's my brother." And Neal Colzie drew a laugh in defining Black History Week in little boy definition as "The week they make it easier on you in class."

CAPT Ira J. Woodstein, MC, USN, Director of Clinical Services in opening remarks said, "We must continue at all levels in the tradition of nondiscriminatory policies. We can overcome any barrier. This is our commitment at NRMCO Oakland."

Also helping make the program a success was Pastor J. Alfred Smith, of East Oakland's Allen Temple Baptist Church; LNC Clarence Atterbury; Chaplain Colon S. Jackson; Ms. Fran Lopez; and Weldon Miles, Deputy Equal Employment Opportunity Officer; and many, many volunteers who brought homemade cake and cookies for the refreshment of all.

However, it was Morrie Turner, the author of Kid Power, who captivated the audience with his rapid drawing of Oakland Tribune's Wee Pals. Connie, Randy, Sybil, George, Rocky, Jerry and Wellington were each sketched faster than assistants could tape paper on the blackboard. Their personalities were explained. Resident intellectual Oliver was not forgotten. It was he who defined a racist as a fellow who wins in a rare contest of speed. But it was Nipper (Morrie's alter ego) who gave the coup de grace to the celebration.

In order not to abort America the Beautiful, Nipper asserted that he favored—not White power, not Black power, not Yellow power, not Red power, not Bagel power, not Girl power, not Brown power—but RAINBOW POWER.

Rainbow Power is the power of the whole, blending together.

Save a spot for Red Cross Open House

On Wednesday, Mar. 3, from 2 to 3:30 p.m., patients and staff of NRMCO will have an opportunity to honor our 60 Red Cross volunteers at an Open House in the main dining room, Bldg. 500. The focus will spotlight the history and service of the Red Cross. Refreshments will be served.

VOTE UP OR SHUT UP!

LCDR Robert C. Simmerman, SC, USN (Ret) is trying to see to it that Alameda County's first time voters and persons who have moved recently have no excuses for not voting. He has been in the lobby of the Navy Exchange Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. since Feb. 4; registering voters and as of last Friday only 55 persons had registered.

He will continue his worthwhile volunteer service until April 19, which is the last day to register to vote in the primary election this June.

VOTING INFORMATION on local issues of all the states is available in the Legal Office. Through absentee ballot, you have a voice. Defend America's heritage—VOTE!

Cost reduction campaign extended

Come up with a suggestion for a measurable ($5,000) cost reduction in government and win an incentive award and the President's gratitude and commendation.

The 1975 campaign for economy in government received such favorable attention that it has been extended through May 5, 1976. To date, 677 civilian and military personnel with 22 departments and agencies have been recognized for their contributions which have produced first year benefits of $39.6 million.

Civilian Personnel has been requested to expedite preparation of recommendations and to eliminate unnecessary levels of review. Becky Pappas, in Civilian Personnel (ext. 2116), can furnish guidelines. Further guidance for submission of suggestions is to be found in Civil Service Commission Bulletin 451-9, dated May 22, 1975.

This is your chance to speak up about waste in public places.

the Chaplain's Corner

Frequently the chaplains who contribute to "The Chaplain's Corner" write articles from their own point of view or philosophy. This time Chaplain Thompson is sharing a very sensitive and expressive prayer written by HM3 Leolyn Meyer. We agree that no words written by a chaplain could provide a better model for all of us to live by than these words of prayer.

Dear LORD, Thank you for the life I have to lead and the time ahead of me to love and give. Thank you for my burdens, for they will help me not judge skin or actions of others by what I carry inside me; but understand that all people have burdens that are heavy for them however light they might seem to me.

Give me the courage to look at others and see that what I think I dislike is only my fear of something about them, or my ego pouting from neglect. Let me see others not on a rated scale from my limited judgement, but all things as working parts of a beautiful whole, each doing what was meant for them.

Help me not veil in righteous pride the meanness in me, my inconsideration for others, and inconsistency of love I show others in the name of humanness.

Dear LORD, help me feel in your name the Love of all things animate and inanimate surrounding me; constantly reminding me that anything is possible within Love energy.

And thank you most of all for the beautiful people and all the beautiful things touching and surrounding me day by day.

Leolyn Meyer, HM3

Sailor of Month, super achiever

Medical equipment, as well as people, needs preventive maintenance. HM2 Alvah Bethune Jr., electronics repairman in the biomedical equipment repair facility, implemented a preventive maintenance program covering all medical equipment in the region. His record of solid accomplishment has greatly facilitated the mission of this large graduate training medical center. It has won for him selection as Sailor of the Month for January.

"Concerning himself with high productivity, Petty Officer Bethune has displayed that extraordinary effort so characteristic of superior achievers. ...

His steadfast dedication, remarkable enthusiasm and high sense of responsibility are in keeping with the highest traditions of the Hospital Corps and the United States Naval Service."

He has earned a hearty Navy "Well Done," and becomes entitled to one point in awards credit for ensuing Navy-wide examinations for advancement.

POGA and Lab showdown for 1975-76 crown

By virtue of a 55-46 win by POGA over Personnel and a 54-44 win by Lab over EENT, the two teams played for the highly coveted intramural basketball championship on Feb. 25.

In the POGA-Personnel match, POGA out-scored Personnel 32-19 in the 2nd half, after trailing Personnel 27-23 at half time.

Mike Masters led POGA scorers with 18 points, followed by Larry Cordell with 13 points on four field goals and five free throws.

Jerome Conerly led all scorers in a losing cause with 19 points on seven field goals and five free throws. John Scavuzzo followed with 11 markers to highlight all the scoring in this game.

Chase and Sarha star for Lab

Howard Chase and Gene Sarha each scored 15 points to lead Lab past EENT. Mitchell Wright followed close by with 12 markers.

Jeff Schicker led EENT with 24 points to cop scoring honors in the game. He scored all but four of his team's 21 points in the 1st half. Not a bad evening's work!

FLASH! FLASH!

At press time it is learned that in Wednesday's hot contest, Lab beat POGA 51-49.

HM3 Bienvenido Malanzo, of Lab, won the 12thND 176-pound judo championship and will advance to the West Coast All Navy championship at Treasure Island on March 3, 1976.

EM TECHS FINISH COURSE

On Feb. 6, 1976, 17 members of the first state-approved Emergency Medical Technician class received their certification. CAPT G. E. Metz, the course director, presented certificates in a ceremony held in the Clinical Assembly.

NRMC Oakland was approved on Nov. 6, 1975, by the State of California as a certifying institution for Emergency Medical Technicians. The course includes 40 hours classroom instruction, 10 hours emergency room experience and 6 hours of actual or simulated ambulance experience.

A state-approved examination is administered in addition to an intensive practical examination. All students are then certified as EMTs in this state. For certification in other states graduates may take the National Registry Examination at their request if the registry is recognized by that state.

Scholarships offered children of Feds

Ten or more $500 awards will be offered children of Federal Civilian employees or for youth employed under the Youth Opportunity Programs (the President's Stay-In-School Campaign or the Summer Youth Opportunity Campaign).

Applications and rules governing the scholarship may be secured at the offices of Special Services, bldg. 38. Applications must be postmarked no later than April 2, 1976.

Marcy Bachmann, syndicated columnist with the Oakland Tribune, is frankly sorry that a "lady" is almost a vanishing breed. She spoke to the members of the Officers' Wives Club at their February meeting. Although she is definitely part of the women's movement, she thinks women should not try to "bite the whole apple at once."

It is sad that the courtship ritual has been stripped away, says Marcy, and she believes females have tread so heavily on the male ego that they may be in for a tragic backlash.

Many fans of Marcy's had wondered what she would be like. Would she look in person like the woman pictured in her column? Would that aura of pensive sadness show in a crowd?

NAVAL REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, OAKLAND

To Dona and Navy Mothers

March is RED CROSS Month

THANKS
Volunteers

Rear Admiral Henry A. Sparks, MC, USN, at the Red Cross Open House on March 3 in the Enlisted Dining Room, stooped and planted a kiss on both cheeks of Mrs. Gladys Niemann. "I knew her when I was 2 minutes old," he said. (She was the OB nurse at the time of his birth.) Then he presented a service award to her in recognition of 37 years of service to the Red Cross, 8 of them spent as a personal service volunteer here at NRMCO Oakland.

For some 34 years, Mrs. Dona Beard, on her own and on behalf of Navy Mother's Club #13, Oakland, Ca., has devoted at least one day a week to the patients at this facility. The orthopedic ward, 7-North, has been a particular favorite of Mrs. Beard's. She brings cookies, sacks of fruit, lap robes and other surprises to the patients, but she also gives of herself — a cheery smile, a friendly visit.

This month Mrs. Beard moves from the Oakland area to make her home in Grass Valley, Ca. On Tuesday, March 2, patients and friends gathered in the Commanding Officer's conference room to honor her. A letter of appreciation was read; the Commanding Officer presented her with a plaque; she received a long-stemmed red rose expressing love.

Although Mother's Day is not until May 9, NRMCO would like to extend the recognition paid to Mrs. Beard to the many mothers in the Bay Area and across the country who, like her, are determined that our service men shall not be forgotten. A Navy Mother during times of war remains a Navy Mother during times of peace, and over the years many Navy Mothers' Clubs have been our benefactors.

Last year Navy Mothers' Club #27 of San Jose contributed a very large sum to purchase drapes for our Adolescent Clinic; Clubs #202 of San Francisco and #213 of Modesto, Ca., are regular contributors to the recreation fund. The ski equipment checked out by a corpsman for this week's good powder was donated by Navy Mothers' Club #13, Mrs. Beard's unit.

Mrs. Hilda Hansen and her husband will help carry on here in Mrs. Beard's absence. Although Mrs. Beard departs from her unit and their place of operation at Blue Jacket Haven, it is not likely that she will "retire" from being a Navy Mother. Just to assure that she does not quit being active, she was given an address to put her in touch with a Grass Valley group (Operation Cookie) whose members over the years also have been friends of "Oak Knoll" hospital.

Sock-hop date set

A sock-hop with Beowulf's Band returning is planned for Friday, April 2, in the gymnasium. Enlisted personnel are not snooty and have thrown the dance wide open to Command staff who care to attend. A $2 admission entitles to free beer and an evening of fun from 8 p.m. to midnight.

He thanked all of the volunteers for their dedicated service and invaluable assistance over the years to Naval Regional Medical Center. Close runners to Mrs. Niemann, in terms of service time, are Mrs. Helen Ayers, who has worked with the Red Cross for 34 years; Mrs. Helene Straughen, 33 years; Mrs. Ella Rose, Mrs. Gloria Hewitt and Miss Peggy Gruner, 26 years; Mrs. Anne Allissandrotos, 25 years. Eighty-five volunteers received awards for having given at least the year 1974-75 to "the friendly neighbor."

Not forgotten in the granting of kudos were the supportive services. Mrs. Lois Trumbull, Chairman of the volunteers, gave recognition to the Red Cross chapters from Berkeley, Oakland, Alameda and Diablo. The supportive chapters generously provide transportation, knit slippers and crutch protectors, roll surgical bandages and give welfare assistance to military families of their respective communities.

Captain Kathryn Zabel, Chief Nurse, expressed appreciation to all the volunteers on behalf of nursing service personnel with whom they work on the wards and in the clinics.

The Open House was hosted by the Center's Red Cross career and volunteer staff. Over 100 guests, including hospital personnel, patients and career and volunteer Red Cross staff partook of the tasty refreshments and examined displays of Red Cross activities, past and present.

In the 1974-75 fiscal year Red Cross performed services to the Armed Forces which totaled over $52 million. In the area of emergency messages alone, 752,711 were sent.

Whether in time of disaster or just when a patient is blue and needs someone to talk to, the Red Cross is there. For many of us who cannot be present as a volunteer, one way of being there is by giving dollar support.

The Red Cross extension is 2524.

Chaplain's Corner

Try everything except surrender

According to Voltaire, the only thing left to do in a disordered world is to forsake it and dig in your own garden. But Voltaire was never able to take his own advice. There is just no place for solitary diggings; no heaven; no island of refuge; and no permanent retreat. This is the case because there has not yet been invented the perfect escape mechanism.

A man in Australia who was a student of international affairs became convinced in the mid nineteen-thirties that a destructive world war would soon come. And it seemed to him that Australia would be attacked and bombed. So he decided that the wisest thing to do was to move to a remote spot where there would be no danger of being engulfed in war's agony. He carefully studied a map of the South Pacific Ocean and picked out an island just below the equator.

He moved there believing he would be perfectly safe. Having departed his threatened and disordered world he set out to dig in his own garden far from the beat of war drums. The pitiful part of this true story is that Guadalcanal was the name of his new island home. That piece of remote real estate became, in 1942, the scene of one of our worst battles of the whole war. The people of that island experienced disaster on a terrible scale.

It is often said, "When a place is bad, get out of it." Sometimes the best thing to do in a bad situation is to pick up and leave. Leaving room for the exception, it has been my experience that I have not saved or corrected any situation by withdrawing from it. There is almost always a measure of defeat for those who run away. No matter how rough the world seems; no matter how many times you've been set back, it is better to go out fighting to the last ditch and in the last ditch, than to go out whimpering.

Try everything except surrender.

BOOKS AVAILABLE FOR VISUALLY HANDICAPPED

Information about literature services for the visually handicapped is available from the Braille Institute of America, 741 North Vermont Avenue, Los Angeles 90029.

The Talking Books Program of the Library of Congress provides records or tapes of many, many titles which are dictated by volunteers. The programs are administered by the California State Library in Sacramento through the local public libraries. Information may be obtained from the reference desk of the public library. Application also may be made to the Lions Blind Center Library, 3834 Opal Street, Oakland, Ca. 94609. Once a patron qualifies as a visually handicapped person, as certified by a medical doctor, this center will issue a machine for playing the records or tapes, with raised numerals for self-service. The lists of titles available are sent from the California State Library, and when the patron selects his preference it is mailed postage free to his home address, with provisions for return in the same container.

Large-type books are printed in 20 point type, more than twice the size of the letters in ordinary print, and are designed in crisp black and white to be easy on the eyes. They are published in all fields, from children's books to current texts, mystery novels and best sellers. Many public libraries maintain special sections for large type books, and list them in a special drawer in the public card catalog.

These books make fine gifts, not only for the visually handicapped, but for persons who like to read but whose occupations cause eyestrain by the end of a busy day.

ALL IMPORTANT SERVICE PAPERS may be recorded at your local County Clerk's office without charge. And a certified copy of such documents can be obtained from the county clerk when needed for any purpose. Certificates of service, discharge and so forth have a tendency to get lost, misplaced or destroyed in fire or flood. Protect your records. File NOW.

NON-UNIFORMED, NOT ALL CIVIL SERVICE

The three persons pictured right have names, but they here represent some 112 nonappropriated fund employees of this "Oak Knoll" facility, having a payroll which runs about $45,000 monthly.

Often when we think about the Naval Regional Medical Center "family" our nonappropriated fund employees have a tendency to be overlooked. The Athletic Director is one such employee, paid from the budget of Recreational Services (Special Services). Bookkeepers, secretaries, sales clerks, waitresses and bowling alley attendants also are to be found within this third category. The cook who prepares your hamburger at the snack bar and the girl who sells you a roll of film are paid from the nonappropriated funds of the Navy Exchange.

We here acknowledge the nonappropriated fund personnel, a vital group who help keep our ship on even keel and operating smoothly.

WE ARE NOT civil service employees, nor are we military members. Riddle us, riddle us, who are we? What are we?

OFFICERS FROM THE REPUBLIC SINGAPORE NAVY receive instruction in water sanitation from HM2 George Gambasy, Preventive Medicine. LT Tay Liang Chang, CPL Philip Low and CPL Lim Teck Hoi are from the RSS Mercury and RSS Jupiter.

Six keep us steamed up

Down in building 22 the bowels of a 24-hour operation, very vital to the Medical Center, are to be found. Five huge boilers there generate steam for the hospital's heating system, swim pool, laundry, galley and surgery. Outside the building are two 12,000 gallon oil tanks, which can provide standby energy in case there is an emergency.

Pictured tending a valve is George Littlefair, who says that it is quite easy to detect, even above the steady regular hum of the boilers, anything that might go wrong. However, the six attendants at the plant seldom permit any irregularity. The personnel manning the boilers, in addition to Mr. Littlefair, are "boss-man" Frank Gonzales, Harry Staedler, Claude Weaver, Walter Champion and Ignacio Cruz.

BITS & PIECES

The $2 bill will be reissued April 13. In a way that makes the 13th rather lucky for us. We're lucky all bills and coins below $5 weren't discontinued back in 1966 when the Monticello $2 note went out of fashion.

Speaking monetarily, a 3-inch gold National Bicentennial Medal, "a collector's dream," may be purchased for a mere $4,000 from ARBA, P.O. Box 1976, S.F. 94101.

But before rushing out and buying, a news feature from the Armed Forces Information Service warns that the pay outlook this year is "belt tightening." Military and civilian pay raises due in October will be limited by budgetary restraints to an increase in the 3 to 5 percent range.

Vera Hardy is Optical Manager

Some months ago Carl Thompson left the Optical Unit to go into his own business. The manager to succeed him was right on deck in the person of Vera Hardy, who had been his right hand optician for some 4 years.

Vera is now manager, but gives the same service with a smile that she was always known to give. She solders gold frames, repairs broken frames and straightens them for customers and verifies the doctor's prescription.

She would remind you that if a prescription is over 2 years old, a new examination is needed before the prescription is filled.

Invest yourself in a Howard child

What's your hobby? Sewing, macrame, singing? Whatever? Want to give an hour of your time once a week to teach a Howard School 3rd or 4th grader a new horizon in a 4-week mini course?

Then please phone Mrs. Williams, 632-0912, to find out what it is all about.

Educational opportunities offered on base

There are two courses being conducted at NRMCO by Merritt College, one in English and the other in Mathematics. Education and Training desires to have Merritt aboard again in the fall. Call 2237/2238 with suggestions for fall classes.

Plans are made to continue a French class on base. A beginning conversational French class will start on April 1 and end June 3. The class will be on Thursdays from 5 to 8 p.m. Get your name on the list.

The current Speed Reading course ends March 19. If sufficient interest is shown, it will be repeated. Call 2237/2238 and express the hour you desire it to be offered, whether during the noon hour or once a week on an evening.

Each Tuesday and Thursday from 2 to 4 p.m., in building 105, a class is offered in basic mathematics and English skills. The goal is to help raise GCT/ARI scores. There is still room for additional students, but a chit of release from your department head is required.

There has been some interest shown for a class in English as a second language. Anyone interested in this class should make it known. Any ideas for other classes are also welcome.

Human Relations Council serves you

"Because discrimination in all forms is present in our society and uniformed service, it is incumbent upon all of us to eradicate this stigma for all time." This is an excerpt from NRM-COAKINST 5350.3 establishing a Human Relations Council which is authorized to investigate all such complaints regardless of the accused's title, position, rank. Personnel from all ethnic groups are encouraged to join the Council. Anyone who has a complaint or desires to become a member may contact any of the following incumbent members:

Metabolic Research Ward in transition

Beds, typewriters, supplies, stationary, TVs and a pile of jumble is the status quo of the metabolic research ward that was formerly housed in building 62-A. The tumbled mess is part of the Clinical Investigation Center which will, before Spring advances, give birth to a sparkling, clean and efficient hospital-like operation on 9-NE.

A laboratory is being installed, pipes are in for a separate diet kitchen; when the ward is in full operation the staff, which is now in limbo, will give 24-hours coverage. Alas, Barbara Yohanan, RN, who has been a vital part of the CIC staff for some 2½ years, may not be around to see the ward's metamorphosis. She is planning to depart the facility sometime in May. However, the search for answers will continue.

The capacity of the ward will be for eight inpatients. The studies to be done here will cover research in Hypertension, Somatostatin (diabetic study), Androstenedione (obesity study), calcium and pituitary functions. Eventually the chaos will turn into stability, and the findings made here will — maybe — bring us fame and our patients improved control or restored health.

EMBODY places again

Some 200 runners, from age 11-year-old girls to 60-year-old men, set out to run the annual race along the San Francisco beach on Mar. 7, 1976. John Embody, of Special Services, who had placed 2 weeks earlier in the Valentine's Day run added to his collection of medals by placing second in the 5-mile beach run.

Again, congratulations!

CHAMPUS Corner MAJOR CHANGES IN CHAMPUS

Congress has enacted important changes in the non-emergency inpatient care provisions of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) which affect all beneficiaries.

The most far-reaching change is that all beneficiaries of CHAMPUS who live within 40 miles (straight-line, not road miles) of a uniformed services hospital (Army, Air Force, Navy or Public Health) now must apply to that hospital for non-emergency inpatient care before being authorized such care from civilian sources at Government expense. If the uniformed services hospital cannot provide the needed care, it may issue a Statement of Non-availability to authorize the patient to obtain the care.

This change has a major impact on retired military personnel and their dependents, who were formerly authorized care from civilian sources regardless of the proximity of their residence to a military hospital. Such patients formerly had full leeway in whether or not they desired to obtain inpatient care from military or civilian sources. This freedom of choice has been eliminated. Now, only when a military hospital within 40 miles of the retiree's residence cannot provide the inpatient care, can the retiree (or his dependents) go to a civilian hospital.

The three military hospitals in the San Francisco Bay Area, and their CHAMPUS or Health care benefits advisors, are:

ARMY: Letterman Army Medical Center
Presidio of San Francisco, CA 94129
Advisor: Area 415: 561-3147

NAVY: Naval Regional Medical Center
Oakland, CA 94627
Advisor: Area 415: 639-2041

AIR FORCE: David Grant USAF Medical Center
Travis Air Force Base, CA 94535
Advisor: Area 707: 438-3341

Any one of these three military medical centers can issue a Statement of Non-availability on behalf of all of them. Therefore, a retiree living within 40 miles of all three military medical centers would not have to apply to all of them for inpatient care before being issued a Statement of Non-availability.

Another important change affects spouses of active duty military personnel residing with or apart from their sponsors. Formerly, such spouses were allowed freedom of choice between military and civilian inpatient care if they resided more than 30 miles from a uniformed services hospital. This radius has now been extended to 40 miles.

You may be wondering: How far is my home from Travis Air Force Base, or the Naval Regional Medical Center in Oakland? For the answer to this and any other questions on your eligibility for CHAMPUS benefits, or whether or not you need a Statement of Non-availability, telephone or visit the CHAMPUS Advisor (also called Health Care Benefits Advisor or Counselor) listed above at one of the three military medical centers. BE SURE TO INQUIRE BEFORE OBTAINING NON-EMERGENCY INPATIENT CARE FROM A CIVILIAN SOURCE; otherwise you run the risk of having the Government disallow your claim!

The above changes, or "tightening up" of CHAMPUS are the result of a law enacted by Congress (HR9861, Section 750), not an arbitrary decision arrived at by the military.

IF YOU MUST TRAVEL with a dog, be aware that, even with a window cracked, as the temperature within the car rises your dog can receive irreparable brain damage in a very short time. A dog tied on the outside will not be happy, but if he is not stolen he will at least have a breath-of-life chance. (There are many many additional reasons why a child should not be left alone in a car. Never take that chance!)

NAVAL REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, OAKLAND

IT'S HISTORY, AND FOR THE RECORD

Take a pretty bow, maybe even of bicentennial design; drape it across a doorway or entrance. Call a group of officials and dignitaries together. Put a pair of large shears in the hands of one person. Pose your people and say, "Smile." Then have a snip of the ribbon.

It is the thing to do. History is made.

A "ribbon cutting" frequently signifies that a place is open for business — officially. A sentimental moment, a moment for the record is launched, even without champagne.

The ribbon cutting which took place on March 16 at 10 a.m. marked the opening of the entrance to Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, from Keller Avenue. Immediately thereafter, the Commanding Officer's car, with it's two stars, moved through the gate to exit; then it returned in the next moment to be the first automobile to enter the compound.

On the exit from the hospital grounds, the view is northeasterly toward horses peacefully grazing on the Sequoyah Hills. Hansom, Skyline and Phaeton drives are up above.

On entrance to the hospital, the view, looking past the sentry, shows cars predominating the landscape. A few of the World War II wooden buildings remain, but they are part of an ever-changing horizon.

The Keller Avenue entry off of MacArthur (580) freeway has been under construction for about a year and a half. The construction is part of a $4.4 million package which includes the air conditioning of the hospital.

LCDR Marshall Absalom has been the resident officer in charge of construction; Mr. Larry Hengle is the civilian contractor for Scott Company of California, Oakland.

Please note that the gold letters set in concrete at the Keller Avenue entrance carry our correct regional name. That entrance will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The old Mountain Boulevard entrance will continue to be open on a 24-hour basis; and buses will continue to use the old approach, as will suppliers who have business at our regional warehouse.

Outpatients and the general public and many employees will find it much easier to use Keller Avenue. There will be less congestion at rush hours and throughout the day.

A ribbon cutting is usually more than a history-making event. Most often a ribbon cutting brings a lot of pluses for everyone. The March 16 ribbon cutting was no exception.

MAKING HISTORY are LTJG Gene Hart, Aide, RADM Henry A. Sparks, Commanding Officer; CAPT Ira J. CANDIE IS SWEETIE SAILOR OF MONTH

It is hard to get in touch with Candie. HM3 Candie L. Unis is nearly always "In surgery." As a surgical scrub and assistant in the Plastic Surgery Branch, she has shown exceptional achievement to win for herself recognition as Sailor of the Month for February. Her commendation reads that she is "cheerful, flexible and totally committed to team performance." Her teammates vouch for her, and a few added even more superlatives in describing her.

Failing to reach Candie, finally her husband, Lou, who works in Physical Therapy, was reached. He could talk only of one thing. They are going to be parents. Candie likes dancing and music. "We are going to have a baby." Candie likes camping and the outdoors. "Candie is going to be a mother."

"May I announce it?"

"Sure, you may," HM3 Lou Unis said in that announce-it-to-the-world attitude.

The two will shortly be singing Bell Bottom Trousers. Will the words be, "He'll give ultrasound like his father used to do," or — as they bounce "her" on a knee — "She'll work in plastic surgery like her mother used to?"

Anyway, a hearty Navy "Well Done" to both of you.

MAKING SKIES BLUE WITH ENCOURAGEMENT

I have just been reading in the Old Testament about Job, a man who was tempted to curse the day he was born. In the midst of a terrible season of suffering, he cried out in perplexity against life and recited his woes and humiliation. One of his few remaining friends interrupted to remind him that in other days and under other circumstances his words had upheld those who were stumbling. In other words, he had been a source of amazing strength to hard pressed souls.

It is a magnificent matter when a person goes through life encouraging those who are stumbling, terrified and dismayed. There are too many of the other kind. There are those who spend most of their waking hours putting other folk down, pinning ears back, taking the heart out of others, spreading lies that sear the skin and deflating the hopes of already terrified souls.

Many, more than we know, have tasted life's fury and are lonely people in want of encouragers. Some are stumbling men and women who have lost faith in themselves, walking at all times amid shadows, seldom dreaming dreams and often having nightmares.

To be an encourager requires no rare gifts, no special training. All that is necessary is a good spirit, the grace of appreciation, a complete indifference to the traffic of gossip, a willingness to listen to a talker's present plight with some sympathy for their humiliation and pain, and an honesty in prayer that is bold enough to fling before the Lord's feet the sack of his own promises to help us all in our human situation.

WOMEN IN ACTION at their March 12 meeting made tentative plans for the rest of the year. They decided that monthly meetings are very important; and they geared for another fine week of emphasis for August. The April meeting is to be announced. Watch for the time and date. Be there (and bring your boss)! We hope by then to report positively on a lunch room for brown sackers.

"Coupling" now Navy thing

HM3 Lou Unis and HM3 Candie Unis met in San Diego in Corps School; they married after they came aboard. There are several other Navy couples working on base under the "New Navy," which permits the concept of team assignments to further family togetherness.

Randomly naming a few couples, there are Cherilyn and Harry Caldwell, HM2s, with Physical Therapy and Special Services;

Robert and Candace Casey, MM2 and HN, Nuclear Medicine and PT/OT School;

Melissa and Andrew Goodrow, HM2s, LPO Branch Dispensary, Naval Supply Center and Physical Therapy;

Bits and Pieces

One OOD of 15 years ago remembers the night the entry sentry watch phoned, perplexed, "A kangaroo just came hopping through the gate. What shall I do?" The OOD answered, "Get his liberty card!" (Eventually Knowland Park Zoo came and picked up the escapee.)

Anyone wishing to study engineering may do so down at the tennis courts daily. The scuttle is that a popular Public Works employee is rapidly gaining for himself the name "tennis engineer." He's willing to teach or learn from officers, enlisted or civilians, in rain, snow or sleet.

Free Saturday night buffets are starting again at the San Francisco USO; on Friday the "Gee-dunk stand" is open and then at 7 p.m. a live band gives forth for 3 hours.

But to take care of your daylight entertainment, it is suggested that you check with Special Services about the nature hikes for April. The East Bay Regional Park District has some dillies for the Sunol Regional Wilderness, Coyote Hills and Tilden Park.

MUCH ADO ABOUT SOMETHING happened last week as the Word Processing "family" gathered to pay tribute to members pursuing the road to higher education. Virginia Berman, Dolores Fry and Gerry Slocum completed courses in Human Relations. They are pictured with their Chief of Service, LCDR Joe Steiner. Mickey Duerst completed a Medical Terminology course, as did June Adamic of Data Processing. Virginia and Gerry previously completed Medical Terminology courses through the College of Alameda, with Virginia now enrolled in Part III. Dolores is currently enrolled in a supervisory course through that college.

Orderly talks of MacArthur

Mr. James Matthews is here to be fitted for a 1976 artificial limb. Although he has been retired since 1947 and is now 85 years old, he is ever faithful to the memory of General Douglas MacArthur. He knew the man first hand and not from rumor.

Mr. Matthews was the Orderly for the General for two years. He says that MacArthur did a lot for his troops that other generals did not do. When in the Philippines he found his men were ill trained; he retrained them and saved lives by doing it. Matthews stands ready to squash any rumors about the General not being up front with his men. He didn't just wade in and wade out, according to Matthews. And Matthews should know, he was there with him.

Acting as MacArthur's personal valet, Mr. Matthews has other insights about the World War II leader. "He never wore a tie or carried a gun." But in that regard he told his boys "Do not do what I do."

In Matthews, MacArthur had a loyal follower. But MacArthur probably could have bragged about his Orderly, too. Without education, James Matthews, who now lives in Berkeley, advanced to Master Sergeant, and in his locker of memories are 12 medals, including Good Conduct and Purple Heart awards among those attesting to expertise in pistol, rifle and machine gun.

Fleet Reserve supports bill to prohibit military unions

The Fleet Reserve Association applauds and pledges its full support to Senate Bill 3079, to prohibit military unions. The FRA asserts that the impracticality of military unionism poses a sure danger to our national defense. Master Chief Petty Officer Joseph D. Morin, the FRA's National President says, "I sincerely believe if military personnel would join and support the national military associations, we could provide the same pay and benefits protection as a union, yet not jeopardize the military chain of command and our nation's defense."

SPORTS

Volleyball takes FIRST

by The Mind Master

The NRMCO volleyball team won the 12th Naval District "B" championship March 20 at NAS Alameda. The team came in 5th in the overall competition won by Moffett Field.

The volleyball team, headed by Coach Jeff Katzenmeyer and Assistant Coach Cheryl Westberg, had much higher aspirations. Their team had previously beaten Moffett Field and Alameda, the two top teams.

The tournament began Friday evening and continued through early Saturday evening. In this length of a tournament not only the physical exhaustion takes it toll, but with 13 games played it becomes difficult to get "psyched up" for each game.

The opening jitters and the excitement seemed to bother the team as they lost to NAS Lemoore 7-15, 11-15 in a long one-hour match. The young team was not used to the longer play and was quickly worn down. And this was just the first match!

The night ended with a heartbreaking loss to Mare Island 9-15, 15-12, 13-15. Spikers' Mike Skurja, Dominadore Luisortiz and Paul Westberg, along with Setters' Dale Harrier and Dave Laxton were impressive in Friday night's play.

Saturday found the NRMCO team arriving early to face NAS Alameda. Errors seemed to persist as Alameda won two close games 12-15, 12-15. Katzenmeyer and Britt Blum showed outstanding play.

Moffett Field was the next conqueror. They obtained an early psychological advantage and breezed to a 7-15, 1-15 win. Fortunately, lunch was the next opponent as the morning drew longer.

A rejuvenated team led by Larry O'Shea, Bill Halderman and Dennis Spillane came on to crush the Marines of Hawthorne 15-0, 15-2.

The last match for NRMCO finally found the team holding on to the lead, which they were unable to hold against earlier opponents, and slipped by the Coast Guard 15-13, 16-14.

The volleyball team showed much promise, and a vote of gratitude goes to all who participated.

CHAMPUS

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES NO LONGER AUTHORIZED

The Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) is no longer authorized to pay for Christian Science services.

The 1976/7M Defense Appropriations Act prohibits CHAMPUS payments for any service or supply which is not medically necessary to diagnose and treat a mental or physical illness, injury or bodily malfunction as diagnosed by a physician, dentist or clinical psychologist. This prohibition, according to Defense officials, precludes payment for Christian Science services.

The prohibition went into effect on Feb. 9, the date the Act was signed into law.

NAVAL REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, OAKLAND

MUCH LIKED CHIEF PIPES OVER

THE FAMILY OF HMC OSCAR C. WILLIS and Rear Admiral Henry A. Sparks are pictured. Mark, the Marine, was busy taking pictures and is not shown.

Behind the scene, two devote hours to patients' recreational therapy

By Bill Hattwick

Few of the Naval Regional Medical Center's patients are aware of the two dedicated "senior" Red Cross volunteers who are responsible for creating the handcraft materials and kits which are dispensed in the hospital by friendly recreation workers.

Mrs. Helen Ayres, 78, and Walter Leigh, 85, devote each Thursday to working in the Red Cross craft shop. They cut leather and other materials and assemble kits which the Center's patients make into wallets, key cases, identifying cases, ladies' purses, moccasins, stuffed toys and other items. With the craft program, over the years they have made the components for literally thousands of handcrafted items. All assist patients in making the long recovery hours seem shorter.

Has the crafts program been a success? These volunteers think it has.

"Recreational therapy is important to recovery," Mrs. Ayres believes. "Working with their hands stimulates the patients' minds and makes idle time pass more quickly. We feel the crafts program is important in combatting boredom."

"Not only that," Leigh adds, "we feel the patients are able to create a useful item to take home with them as a remembrance of their stay at the Center."

A Red Cross volunteer since 1942 with East Bay Red Cross chapters, Mrs. Ayres has worked with the recreation program at the Center since 1950. She takes particular pride in encouraging patients to become interested in handcraft. She recalls the time two deaf patients became so enthusiastic about leathercraft that they returned to their homes in New Mexico wanting to join their fathers in the saddle making business.

Walter Leigh, who retired in 1958 after a career as an industrial chemist, has been an active Red Cross volunteer for the past 18 years. He served for 12 years as a Berkeley Chapter

The largest friendship audience in many years gathered April 2 in the Commanding Officer's office to attend the retirement ceremony of HMC Oscar C. Willis. The overflow crowd was packed in the hallway and conference room, and friends joked that perhaps the Navy Band should have been present and the ceremony held in the Clinical Assembly.

As the Commanding Officer was about to read all the letters of commendation and proceed with the official duties, the big surprise of the morning happened. Lance Corporal Mark Willis, USMC, thought by his parents to be in Okinawa, stepped forward with his brother Michael, a Junior in college at Cal State, Long Beach. The two sons had been sequestered clandestinely and their presence secretly arranged by a family friend, Mary Pierce. The emotion of parents and the other two children, Derry and Shenitta, was shared most enthusiastically by all the friends present, almost to the extent of a "This-is-your-Life performance," with the shedding of a few tears.

Although Chief Willis has been U.S. Navy for some 24 years, his retirement came about more suddenly than planned when he was offered a position with the VIVO Centre Medical Laboratory, Medford, Ore. That was too good to be refused.

Aboard NRMCO only since Jan. 7, 1975, he has served in Operating Management Services administratively rather than as a laboratory assistant. In reputation, he is said to have a knack of being firm while making friends, of carrying out administrative duties so as to get much accomplished unobtrusively.

He will be missed, but he is wished FAIR WINDS and FOLLOWING SEAS.

driver and has been working with the Center's crafts program since 1964.

While these two Red Cross volunteers may be "seniors" in terms of age and experience, their enthusiasm is that of the young at heart. Using their skills in creating recreational materials for our patients is a source of pride to them when they know they are helping younger people make a difficult period pass more quickly.

Spirit of the Season

Yahweh is my strength, my song, he is my salvation.
This is my God, I praise him;
the God of my father, I extol him.

These words from the Book of Exodus capture the spirit of the Jewish Days of the Passover as well as the Christian observance of the Passion and Resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The Passover Festival commemorates the dramatic struggles of the Israelites for freedom from slavery and their redemption from Egyptian bondage in the days of Pharaoh. In this observance the Jew is reminded that one must never take freedom for granted. Through the practice of Maot Hittim, wheat money, he is reminded that the needs of the hungry must be met.

The Christian Feast of the Resurrection commemorates the victory of Christ over sin, over death, and gives hope to the Christian that through identity with Christ, he too may share in that victory. In celebrating the joy of the Resurrection, the Christian is reminded of Christ's teaching that through love and sharing he can fruitfully accomplish that fulfillment.

Together, then, Jew and Christian are concerned that the hungry be nourished.

As we observe the Passover Festival, as we celebrate the Easter season, may we be joyful and hopeful in the name of our God. May we also accept the challenge of striving in our own ways, and in every way, to answer the cry of the human family for responses to the anguish of hunger.

Deputy Comptroller chosen

Carefully this Weekend and Always.

Mrs. Eleanor Avila, the tall blonde in the Financial Division, is probably known by more people by sight than by name. She was chosen to succeed Mr. Harold Hitz as Deputy Comptroller of Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland.

In September 1975 Mr. Hitz, at an office reception, said farewell to his many friends. For some 33 years he had served as fiscal officer for our facility, which has grown to encompass, besides this Center, a hospital, a dispensary, and some 13 branch clinics.

Mrs. Avila, a grandmother of three grandchildren, has been on-the-job trained under the tutelage of her predecessor for some 21 years. She acknowledges that her training was "under a very good teacher." However, her further confidence in ability to handle the job stems from — in the new deputy's words — "the finest of fellow workers, who are able to work together."

The job is a big one and holds a challenge. On taking the reins, Mrs. Avila became one of the highest paid civil service workers on the compound (a GS-12). She supervises 15 employees while overseeing a regional budget of over $18 million. One of her most immediate challenges is to assure a smooth conversion of the Center's accounting system to meet the new Navy requirements for fiscal year 1977.

Happy Easter

Who's been doing what...

"O WAD SOME POWER the giftie gie us to see oursel's as ithers see us!" Jeff Nelson, patient on Ward 7-North at least saw himself in cookie image as his friend Janis McCarthy sees him.

AN AUSPICIOUS BASH, of the wetting down of many stripes, happened on April 2, and there was no April Fool about it! CONGRATULATIONS to the new Captain, Commanders, Lieutenant Commanders and Lieutenants and Lieutenant (Junior Grade).

Student groups regularly tour NRMC

THE JAPANESE EXCHANGE student signing the guest register in Rear Admiral Sparks' office resides in the home of Norman Woehrmann (Laboratory Service). He is one of ten Japanese students having an interest in health care who took a tour of the Medical Center.

One or two days a week the Admiral's Aide may be found conducting a junior high school or high school group on a tour of the hospital. They are first given an overall introduction to the Medical Center in a slide film presentation. Then it is likely that the tour may proceed to the Navy Prosthetic Research Laboratory.

Last week a group of boys and girls from McKinley School of San Leandro was described by Mr. Charles Asbelle, their lecturer at NPRL, as being a particularly sharp and inquisitive mix of juniors. After Mr. Asbelle had finished demonstrating a flexible ankle and other mechanisms in the manufacture of artificial limbs, the question of one young man was, "Are we close to developing the bionic man?"

When the youths were touring the Laboratory Service, HMC Harold VonGross took a pint of blood from refrigeration and explained that it must be used within 21 days. One alert inquirer asked, "And if not used, instead of being wasted, could it be returned to the donor?" Whereupon, the Chief explained that the human body would have already replaced the blood. Nevertheless, today's students pose pertinent questions!

It is possible that staff members who have been aboard for years really know little about the internal operations of this vast facility. To sneak alongside the next tour might be to learn that we now dry a cast in a microwave oven in 17 minutes instead of in 24 hours. One might also learn that many more of our amputees are here because of accidents with motorcycles than with sharks!

Super duper swap planned for May 29

Because our facility is an educational one, each year about the time of June graduation families begin to sort belongings and pack up for their big move. Interns come, interns go. New assignments this year, however, would seem to be causing a larger upheaval in the military population than in previous years. Consequently, the Officers' Wives' Club is organizing a swap meet and flea market expected to surpass all "garage sales." The general public is invited.

The affair will be held at the O'Club parking lot on Saturday, May 29, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Everyone is encouraged to hold on to their discards until that date. Then they should rent a space at minimal fee, set prices and mark their items, have their own change and paper bags available. And as it usually works, sell their wares and buy a neighbor's.

It is planned that by 4:30 all the wonderful goods of each vendor will be sold; they will clean up, count their money, gloat over bargains, and be back at the club by 6 p.m. for a big togetherness barbecue.

It should be fun. There should be many good swaps to add to the poundage to be shipped. For information phone Shirley Elliot, 562-5844.

Lab dethrones POGA for 1976 basketball crown

Sarha stars

With Gene Sarha splitting the net for 21 points, followed closely by Mitchell Wright with 14 points, Lab pulled off one of the most electrifying comeback wins this Command has witnessed.

POGA was leading by 10 points with only 1 minute left on the clock, when a series of turnovers by POGA enabled Lab to close the gap and go on to win by two points. Mitchell Wright scored two free throws for the deciding two points.

Team Captain Howard Chase added six points to aid his team's win.

John Darden also chipped in four points for Lab.

William J. McDaniel, a physician in Orthopedic Service, is an Interservice Wrestling Champion. At Ft. Dix, N.J. on March 15-18, McDaniel took a gold medal in the Greco Roman and a silver medal in freestyle. (More about him next issue.)

NROTC scholarship available this fall

Chief of Naval Education and Training has developed a new 2 year Navy Reserve Officer Training Corps Scholarship. This program will provide an individual with full tuition, books, uniforms, other educational expenses, and $100 a month. Depending upon the institution a person attends, the scholarship can be worth as much as $10,000.

The requirements for this program are that you have enough units to be a junior when classes convene next fall, a semester each of calculus and physics, or two semesters of calculus, be under 23 years of age on June 30, 1976, and be admitted to a university with a NROTC unit on campus. There are 58 such universities in the country; U.C. Berkeley, UCLA, Penn State, MIT to name a few.

Application procedures require taking the Officer Aptitude Rating, interviews, physical examination, review of transcripts from previous college work, and character and employment references. Completed applications must be received prior to May 1, 1976, in Recruiting Command. Applications should be initiated immediately. Personnel who are interested, both active duty and civilians, should contact the Navy Officer Programs Office in Oakland at (415) 273-7377 as soon as possible. All application paper work will be processed through that office.

Tip-a-canoe course offered

The Red Cross lessons in canoeing are being offered again beginning Monday, May 17. The first 2-hour session is at the station pool beginning at 7 p.m.

Mrs. John Vander Meer is the very excellent instructor and will be happy to explain in detail. Telephone 582-6898.

Active duty military personnel are encouraged to attend. "Rough waters here they come!"

YOUNG GASPER ABBATE is taught by an expert that protective head gear is important in bike safety. A foursome from a Howard School mini-course interviewed the Chief. The other journalists are Brian Kennedy, Domingo Corral and Kathy Strauss (not pictured).

HMC Paul T. Lightfoot, of Preventive Medicine Service, should know a bit about bike safety. He has pedaled 15,000 miles in the last 3 years without major catastrophe. Consequently, when he spoke to four children from Howard School, who are taking a mini-course in journalism under Jo Spivey, he was speaking both with authority and from experience.

Dressed in his racer clothes, which includes a red sweat suit so that he may be easily seen, he showed the boys and girls his special gloves and cleat shoes which help in bike control. He let them try on his protectively interlined helmet, and showed them where he carries his water bottle on a Sunday's 9-hour, 100-mile trip of wheeling fun. He demonstrated how he might repair a racer bike $30 spare tire, and showed them where he carries his spare pump.

The future journalists from Howard School may never compete in a race or own a $500 10-speed, but some of the safety lessons they learned are applicable to anyone who rides a bicycle. (They were acting as news reporters, and will write on safety for their school.)

A number one rule for bike safety, and one set forth in the California Vehicle Code, is that the cyclist must RIDE WITH THE TRAFFIC.

If a bike is to be used at night, a red reflector is needed in the back, a white one in the front, amber reflectors on both sides and pedal reflectors also—so that the cyclist can be seen at 300 feet by an approaching car.

Aside from safety, the Howard press mini-members learned that "wheelies" and curb jumping do not add to the long life of a bike, but can damage a tire, start the bike to wobbling and cause a brake not to work. The Chief assured the children that they did not need fancy hand brakes and other apparatus to conform safely to the bike code. A biker can be safe and keep within California law if he merely has coaster-type brakes and uses backward braking to stop, plus common sense.

One thing that was a real surprise for the young journalists was to be told that a cyclist has the same rights and duties under the law as a driver of an automobile. The cyclist must yield to pedestrians and stop at proper lights. Not to do so can mean a $25 fine!

Luckily for Paul T. Lightfoot, he did not gain that bit of information from experience.

NAVAL REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, OAKLAND

A story lurks behind our barber's shears

Three years ago, in the Spring of 1973, the Prisoners of War from North Vietnam were being given health care here at NRMCO Oakland. In press conferences some told of near death.

Last week the Christian community finished celebrating "the Easter Season and the resurrection of the 'King of the Jews.'" Here at Medical Center we have a barber, a Jew, who at one time in his life came so close to death that to be saved was almost like resurrection.

Back in the Spring of 1945, now over 30 years ago, Mr. Israel (Ike) Nadjari, who works in the building 500 barbershop, was in a German prison camp. He awaited death and had less than 2 hours to live when his group was liberated by a Russian unit.

His history reads: During World War II, as a saboteur from Salonika, Greece, the reality of Ike's future held nothing but genocidal death. As a Jew in Nazi occupied Europe, he had no nation. His nation had turned against his people.

He and his family were taken from their Salonika ghetto in 1942 and sent North into Poland. Of his mother, brother, two sisters, wife, two children and eight nephews who left Greece with him, only his brother and he returned from the Nazi horror chambers at war's end.

Death was not only his expectation, but in that period as a prisoner, Ike often wished for death. It was automatic for the weak; but punishment and forced labor were the only alternatives for the strong. His tasks were to build roads, to make bombs — and to cut hair. By cutting the hair of his fellow prisoners he occasionally was able to gather extra food. But such gleanings were inadequate to insure life.

Every month the prisoners were inspected and all weighing less than 120 pounds were exterminated. When Ike's weight dropped to 98 pounds, he, too, was packed into a truck with some 60 other prisoners and moved to an execution area. Only by 120 minutes did he survive Auschwitz and Buchenwald.

In 1956, Ike Nadjari came to work in this hospital as a barber. He will retire the 30th of this month. He is now married. He has a son and daughter and three grandchildren. The nightmares are slowly fading.

The tattoo on his left forearm will probably always remain to remind him of man's inhumanity to man. Is it any wonder that our quiet, efficient barber at NRMCO feels that he was rescued for new life from a cross that he was prepared to bear.

Military get extra months to use FY 1977 leave

Armed Forces members will get three extra months in fiscal year 1977 to use any accrued leave.

The 1974 Budget and Impoundment Act changed the fiscal year, effective in FY '77. With the change, FY '76 ends June 30, 1976 but FY '77 does not begin until October 1, 1976. This leaves the months of July, August and September as a transition period—labelled 1977.

Persons with more than 60 days accrued leave as of June 30, 1976 will lose the excess. However, the following three-month transition period will benefit Servicemembers because they will have 15 months instead of 12 before the end of the next fiscal year—September 30, 1977.

The extra three months of grace will happen only one time. However, the new fiscal year make-up will allow Servicemembers to take leave during the months of July through September 1977 without having to worry about losing it because it was not taken by June 30, 1977.

ALL HANDS: An upper division course in abnormal psychology, Psych 428, will be taught at NRMCO Oakland during the noon hour commencing May 10 and ending July 16. Dr. John Gigle of Chapman College is the instructor. The course will be held Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Call exts. 2237/2238, Education and Training, for further information.

In an emergency Keep calm; give all facts

TELL WHAT happened.
TELL WHO, giving names.
TELL WHAT help is needed.

Then give other person a chance to question. Be prepared by posting phone numbers near telephone.

Public invited to Armed Forces event

The Naval Air Station Moffett Field will open its gates to the general public on Saturday, May 8, in honor of Armed Forces Week.

The open house will feature static displays of both current and former Navy and Air Force aircraft, exhibits and displays, inside the landmark Hangar One.

In keeping with the bicentennial celebration, the theme of this year's observance has been designated "Honor America."

The station gates will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission and parking are free. Refreshments will be available.

THE BEST THINGS DO NOT ALWAYS COME TO THE SWIFT

Cameron Hawley, in his brilliant novel "The Hurricane Years," has his middle-aged hero comment and describe the typical up-tight man. The description went like this: He is the man who has been running like mad all his life, running not only because it was the thing his character urges him to do, but also it was what he was told to do, if he wanted to get anywhere. In his twenties it was easy. He ran with the natural energy of a young animal. In his thirties it was harder. The going got a little heavier. But there was something to keep him running—a better job, a bigger pay check, more status. And then he hits the forties. He gets tired then but keeps running. Natural energy is spent; but still he runs.

I know Hawley's runner. He's the poor fellow who has lost sight of whatever significant destination he may have had because the quest has become the goal. Or put another way, he's that unfortunate individual who holds the notion that the best things in life always come to the swift. He would quip: "Good things do come to those who wait, but they are the left overs from those who hustle." That sounds rather clever but so many poor gents I've known like that seldom do more than kick up dust.

Nearly everybody has his own ideas about this. Lord Avebury's illuminating remarks in his book "Ease of Life" actually sums up my whole point. "Rest is not idleness," he said, "and to lie sometimes on the grass under the trees on a summer day, listening to the murmur of the water, or watching the clouds float across the blue sky, is by no means a waste of time." There is just so much more to be done with life than merely increasing it's speed.

I think of Jesus and of how He lived in quiet Nazareth and obscurity for 30 years. There's no indication that He wanted to rush anywhere. Such is God's way. In all His works there is a conspicuous absence of haste and hurry. All He does ripens slowly. The great oak grows great and strong because it grows slowly and well.

SIGNS OF CANCER

April - Cancer Control Month

LIFETIME POLICY: See your doctor every year for a thorough health checkup, no matter how well you may feel.

DAY-TO-DAY POLICY: See your doctor immediately if you have any one of cancer's warning signs that lasts more than two weeks:

1. Unusual bleeding or discharge.
2. A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3. A sore that does not heal.
4. Change in bowel or bladder habits.
5. Hoarseness or cough.
6. Indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
7. Change in size or color of a wart or mole.

UP AT ENLISTED HOUSING this topsy-turvy world simply means all's fun with the world.

CDR Les Sechler, MC, USN, from the NRMCO Branch Clinic, Naval Air Station, Moffett Field, captured the 1976 Showboat Motel Military Golf Classic held in Las Vegas last week.

Dr. Sechler finished the 54 hole tournament, which was played under the scramble format, with a score of 23 under par. Over 300 golfers, representing the Navy, Marines, Air Force, Army and Coast Guard, reserves and retired personnel, participated at the three local courses — Paradise, Craig Ranch and the Sahara-Nevada Country Club.

For his outstanding performance, Commander Sechler was awarded with a set of Ping golf clubs with bag, a digital watch and a trophy. Awards were given by Showboat hostess Jeanne Cahlan and Bob Kenneth, Director of Public Relations.

Cadet Corps for someone you know?

Commander Robert McCullagh's son is a Sea Cadet under a volunteer youth training program for young men 14 through 17 years of age. Through the Naval Sea Cadet Corps (NSCC) the cadets are provided the opportunity to study in various disciplines, including Naval Officer preparatory courses and even medicine.

After satisfactory completion of advancement-in-rate training and examinations, a qualified cadet may be enlisted in the Navy or Naval Reserve at an advanced E-3 paygrade.

Sounds pretty good? For more information call LTJG Edward Smith, Executive Officer of the Preble Division, telephone 531-3785, for drill time and place.

NAVAL REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, OAKLAND

I.B.E.W. 2297 Signs Contract

In San Francisco, garbage piles up for weeks and buses fail to run while city workers remain out on strike. At a military facility in the Bay Area, labor negotiations have been known to take as long as 2 1/2 years, 4 hours a day, 3 times a week before a contract is signed.

At Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, on April 21, 1976, a contract was signed with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. It had taken only a very short time to reach accord and agreement. In fact, members had worked together so effectively and expeditiously that it was agreed they should meet every quarter to continue the productive interaction.

Other agencies might make note: The way to make it work is to have such mutual contractual terms to begin with that all that is required is an extension of agreement, which might read:

"In accordance with Article XXXIX, Section 5, this Agreement is renewed without change for a period of three years from its expiration, effective on 1 June 1976, upon approval of the Office of Civilian Manpower Management.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereto have entered into this Agreement on the twenty-first day of April 1976."

CHAMPUS rule changes

The Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services (CHAMPUS) is no longer authorized to pay for Christian Science services.

The 1976/77 Defense Appropriations Act prohibits CHAMPUS payments for any service or supply which is not medically necessary to diagnose and treat a mental or physical illness, injury, or bodily malfunction as diagnosed by a physician, dentist, or clinical psychologist. This prohibition, according to Defense officials, precludes payment for Christian Science services.

The prohibition went into effect on Feb. 9, the date the Act was signed into law.

DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY
DIRECTOR NAVY NURSE CORPS
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20372

13 May 1976

TO ALL NAVY NURSE CORPS OFFICERS

On the occasion of the Sixty-Eighth Anniversary of the establishment of the Navy Nurse Corps, I send to you my personal greetings and best wishes.

It is fitting that during the nation's bicentennial year we reflect upon the accomplishments and deeds of our Corps. We have much to be proud of. The distinguished record of our past has forged a proud tradition, a sense of purpose and dedication, and a status of professionalism surpassed by none.

We are now building for tomorrow - building with a fervor that expresses our commitment to excellence, to our patients, and to our nation. The next few years and those that follow into the new century can be as exciting as they are challenging. I am confident that our future endeavors will continue to enhance our proud heritage.

To each of you who serve in dedication and who pledge your efforts to our mission, I thank you. To all who share my pride in the Navy Nurse Corps, I wish you the greatest success.

Happy Anniversary.

Fire fighters live dangerously

Personal injuries and fatalities due to home fires rank third nationally after automobile mishaps and accidental falls in the home.

For fire fighters personally, their's is the most dangerous occupation in the United States. Eighty-four fire fighters per 100,000 lost their lives on the job in 1974. Even police work ranks third, with an on-the-job death rate of 51 per 100,000.

Help cut down the number of fires and help cut down the hazard. All good scouts do their part.

TO WHOM MUCH IS GIVEN

Pascal once said that most of the world's grief comes from "man's being unable to sit still in a room." He is about half right. My father gave another reason. "Much of the world's woe," he says, "comes from man's unwillingness to get up off his backside and work." That may not be the language of his son, but it is his son's sentiment.

I learned a long time ago that I cannot, even with serious effort, do much to help a man improve his position if he has no resolve to work hard. Having reached that conclusion, I am in the good company of Andrew Carnegie, who wrote back in 1895, "There is no use whatsoever trying to help people who do not help themselves. You cannot push anyone up a ladder unless he is willing to climb himself."

Slothful people are sometimes the subject of humorous stories. One I remember has to do with a small south Georgia town that offered a $5 prize for the laziest man in town. A man known to hang around the pool room, who had never been known to hit a lick of work, won the prize. The committee went to deliver the award and he was found, as expected, at the pool room asleep on one of the tables. The chairman of the committee shook him awake. That is, as near as they could get him awake at that time of day, and told him, "We had a contest to see who is the laziest man in town and you have won first prize; we have $5 for you." He sort of blinked his eyes slowly and said, "Well just roll me over and stick it in my hip pocket."

Sailors have liked that story. I think the reasons my shipmates can laugh at that is because they are, by nature, more inclined toward seeing the humorous side of slothfulness than toward seeing the sorrowful state such a condition can bring.

My own good fortune of health, training, position and a reasonable span of influence is regarded by me as an obligation to work well and hard. "Of those to whom much is given, much is required," are not words to be taken lightly. This thought is summed up best in the words of Albert Einstein: "A hundred times everyday I remind myself that my inner and outer life depends on the labors of other men, living and dead, and that I must exert myself in order to give in the same measure as I have received."

Exactly.

Lemoore hoists assist flag

Captain E. B. Miller, Commanding Officer, Naval Hospital, Lemoore, Ca. and Signalman Third Class, Loretta M. Kelly, are shown as they prepare to hoist the Navy signal code flags atop the Naval Hospital.

This code is used in the rescue of ships in distress at sea, and is particularly meaningful to the Naval Hospital at Lemoore. It ultimately summarizes the purpose of the health-care facility. The pennants, translated from Navy lingo, mean "We stand by to assist."

Miss Kelly volunteered her off-duty time and effort to hand-make the flags. She is currently stationed with the Naval Air Station, working in the mail room.

Jobs here aid students

Wesley Fong

Wesley Fong is one of the students employed at NRMCO under the Oakland Youth Work Experience Program. Working as student aid in the Data Processing Branch, Wesley is gaining valuable experience on the 1005 Univac. He has learned to wire the panel board for the collator, to use the keypunch and sorter; and he has gained familiarity with a computer language.

At the moment, Wesley is taking an auto mechanic course at Merritt College. There he has already gained his brake license. The two areas of study seem far removed from each other; however, by the time Wesley Fong spends 16 hours a week for 10 months on his data processing job, it is possible that "experience" may turn into "career."

Another student working at NRMCO is Don Askey. Don was with us last summer as a student aid. His work proved so satisfactory that he was continued under the Oakland Youth Work Experience Program last winter.

Don Askey

Don is a personable youth of 20 who knows that he likes electronics — almost as much as basketball and the guitar. He works 16 hours a week in TV Repair Branch, and goes to Laney College at night. His two learning experiences dovetail into a future career.

He has familiarized himself with the volt-ohm-meter, which helps check circuit voltage. He is also learning the more complicated oscilloscope which helps find problems. And he has become quite skilled in repairing the remote control pillow speakers used by patients.

Sorry, Don is not yet in the private TV repair business.

Space, unfortunately, is too limited to feature all of the 20 youth employed at the Center under the Oakland Youth Work Experience Program. Several have shown exceptional aptitude. Three are employed in Data Processing Section, two in Laboratory Service, one in Operational Management Service, two in PT/OT Service, two in Outpatient Service, four each in Food Service and Nursing Service and two in Radiology Service.

Bits and pieces

Mrs. Sarah Knight, secretary to ENT Clinic, has a son who is a lay missionary to Ecuador. St. Paschal's Parish of Oakland helps support some of the work he is doing. He writes that little by little he is gaining the confidence of the people and recently the leader of a communist-oriented group sought help in vaccination of sheep suffering from diarrhea. Although they are near the Equator, David says it is very cold there.

HMC T. Sparks, a student at the PMT School, has little trouble remembering his auto license. It is HMC USN.

Maybe you are not aware that part of the PT/OT School training is to know how it feels to try to make it up the hill in a wheelchair from building 38! Too, they get right in there and test that whirlpool bath.

Some wonderful stories come from Sea World (San Diego). One tells about a killer whale that beached herself. Examination disclosed an abscessed tooth, which was surgically removed. Now Sandy, the mammal, albeit a little hard of hearing, is healthy and being cared for at the cost of $35,000 a year by the park. They also care for a sea lion that is administered daily oral doses of Dilantin to control its seizures.

The NX reports that they expect to receive the Navy Band two-record album of heritage music produced for the nation's Bicentennial. The album is called Broad Stripes/Bright Stars.

A few weeks ago CAPT V. Goller was spied at the Mini-Mart buying tools for gardening. It should be about time for him to start sharing green vegetables...or was that flower seed he was putting in his basket?

Flip of switch yields cash return

Mr. Santos Marin, Laundry Branch employee, demonstrates for Lieutenant William A. Joseph, Assistant Chief of Operating Management Service, the simple switch that earned for him a nice "Benny Award" check of $135.

Mr. Marin's idea and beneficial suggestion will save at least 2,000 manhours a year. That multiplied by an average salary of over $5 an hour becomes a worthwhile savings for the NRMCO Oakland.

Formerly, to attain the high temperatures required for stained and isolation ward linens, an operator was required to stand and hold a button in place for 15 to 20 minutes. The button could be released only when pressure rose to 190 or 200 degrees; and at least three such loads were required daily.

Now, a flip of the steam adjuster switch and there is no waiting.

Lieutenant Joseph challenged the employees that if the 27 of them could find a way to pool their ideas and years of experience, that beneficial suggestion awards conceivably could be split 27 ways.

Mr. Tom Payne, who heads the Laundry Branch, replied, "It wouldn't surprise me at all for it to happen. We have the best esprit de corps here in the laundry than anywhere on base. We work together as a team." In fact, there have been three employees part of that team for over 30 years.

Medal of Honor markers recipients

Special memorial gravestones and markers will be provided to families of deceased Medal of Honor recipients as part of the nation's Bicentennial program. The special markers will bear an enlarged representation of the Medal of Honor in gold leaf on marble or granite headstones and in bronze on the cast metal markers.

There is no cost for the memorial markers, but they will not be presented unless requested by relatives of the deceased heroes. Veterans Administration officials indicated they would like to have all the markers in place by Memorial Day, 1976.

Next of kin should contact the nearest Veterans Administration office and advise of their wishes as soon as possible.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM THE CALIFORNIA WOMEN'S BOWLING ASSOCIATION are Miss Mildred Lowe, Mrs. Juanita Cubon and Mrs. Winifred Ford. Also pictured are RADM Henry A. Sparks and LTJG Gene Hart.

Bowling reaps more than health

Over the past 4 years the BVL (Bowlers' Victory Legion) has remembered Naval Regional Medical Center very substantially. They have contributed about $15,000 for much needed equipment and such desired items as the scoreboard in the gymnasium, the exercise machine that accommodates several persons, camping equipment and the like.

This year we are again the recipient of the BVL Fund's generosity, and with the funds a new kiln is being added to crafts of Special Services. We will soon be able to fire the greenware of patients and military staff members. Also, there will be funds left over with which to purchase new bowling shoes, pins and other much needed occupational and recreational supplies.

To each bowler who has ever made a contribution to the BVL for VA hospitals and institutions such as ours, we express our deep appreciation.

It has long been known that bowling is a healthful exercise, so Recreational Services personnel are not entirely selfish when they suggest a motto for the BVL. "Keep on a-bowling!"

OFF FOR WIN OR BUST to the North Shores of Tahoe! The 42 aboard came home declaring the trip, under sponsorship of Special Services, itself a winner.

TENNIS POPULARITY increasing nationwide? And why not! with such good form on the courts as Teri Wright, daughter of LCDR Ray Wright.

Five millionth prescription filled

At 11:25 a.m. on April 27, little Rebecca Michelson reached out from the arms of her mother to accept the five millionth — it looks good in figures — 5,000,000,000, prescription to be filled since the commissioning of this hospital.

The order of Dr. Robinson called for an antibiotic (Amoxacillin) intended to allay some ear trouble of the young patient, LCDR M. W. Moy was on hand to fill the prescription. And of course to mark the event as truly historical, our Commanding Officer, Rear Admiral H. A. Sparks, was present.

Ms. Michelson commented, "Guess I'll have to save that bottle."

NOT OUT OF LOVE WITH LIVING

During most of my life I have been reminded over and over that God is going to hold me accountable for my sins and for all the things I have done. Well, that is one view. Here is another. God is also going to hold me accountable if I have missed the good things he has put here for my pleasure and enjoyment. Think about this: God is going to hold us all accountable for the pleasures we did not taste; for the songs we did not sing; for the feelings we did not experience; for the flowers we did not gather; and for the gracious hospitality we did not accept from a well meaning friend or stranger.

I once prayed that I would be rid of my absorbing love for this world. I don't want to do that anymore.

Here is a prayer I offer now and I commend it to you: "O God, our Father, may I not be afraid to make this world, for a while, my home, since it is Your creation and I am a part of it."

I read in the Old Testament that the earth is the Lord's and all those who live here. Then there is Jesus in the New Testament saying that "God so loved the world. . . ." Let it be said of me that I took the Savior at his word.

He was not out of love with living. I think he loved this life. I know he loved this world.

Metabolic Research Ward Dedicated

By LCDR M. J. Hogan, MC, USN

On May 5, 1976, RADM Henry A. Sparks, MC, USN, officiated at the dedication of the new Metabolic Research Ward on Ward 9-NE. The Metabolic Ward is a division of the Clinical Investigation Center at NRMCO, Oakland. Since its inception in 1954, the metabolic ward has been utilized to conduct detailed metabolic research in various areas of disease and basic human physiology. Originally located in building 46-B with subsequent moves to 62-A as well as to its present location, the effort of the ward staff has been directed toward renal disease, lipid metabolism, calcium abnormalities and hypertension, to mention but a few.

In its present location, the ward's capabilities will be expanded to study a wider variety of disease processes under the direction of the head nurse, Barbara Yohanan, RN. Both inpatient and outpatient studies will be performed. As an adjunct to the metabolic studies, classes are held for diabetic patients and their families on the various aspects of this disease.

CINCO DE MAYO DAY OBSERVED

The 5th of May victory in 1862 of the Mexican forces over the French army was marked on the 5th of May in 1976 at NRMCO. It was a day of remembrance. Mariachi music was played in the dining halls, and leaflets were handed out detailing the retreat of the French in humiliation. Pictures of important figures and events of Mexican history were also displayed.

The Cinco de Mayo battle stirred the patriotism for resistance that carried the Mexican forces to victory. That battle and the people's faith in the Reform Party of Juarez ruined Napoleon's designs in regard to the United States. Thus Mexico and our Nation today have cause to celebrate.

ARMED FORCES WEEK was not overlooked at the Medical Center. The Navy Recruiting District of San Francisco helped provide many displays and ENS H. C. Daly, MSC, USN (Ret) provided many memoirs of the USS Solace (AH-5/APH15). HM1 Nathan Brown browses the displays.

Trackster dominates specialties

Despite chilling winds that blew over Moffett Field's track, John Embody, of Special Services, dominated his specialties in the first 12th Naval District Invitational.

Point honors were awarded to Embody as he made his winning debut in the 440 yard dash, two mile and high jump.

Lea Lind, also from NRMCO, was the only woman in the competition. Although she did not win her event, she holds high the old Olympic motto, "It's not the winning that is important, but the taking part!"

Nadler vaults to 3rd

In the Moffett meet, bad weather conditions cost Mark Nadler, of Dental Service, first place in the pole vault and aggravated back and leg injuries. However, at El Cerrito High on May 15, Mark took 3rd in the 12th Naval District's finals of pole vault (11' 6"), and thus NRMCO captured the "B" track championship as a result of Nadler's achievement. (Embodly did not run.)

ONE FLEW OVER THE CUCKOO'S

Dena Crouse

Our patients do smile occasionally!

Some imaginative corpsman added a pink bow to a surgical glove and "Polly Fingers" brought a smile to the face of Darlene Branson, a patient from Mokelumne Hill.

Darlene is entwined in such an array of apparatus that she should have learned her lesson about trying to do wheelies on a motorcycle. She found she was no competition for Evel Knievel.

* * * * *

"Tennis isn't a matter of life and death, it's more important than that!" That is the sentiment on the poster held by Dena Crouse from Lemoore. Down at Fresno and Visalia, Dena has taken two or three varsity championship titles and has placed second enough times to have

"Oh 15 or 16 trophies." Quite a start for a 15-year-old!

Dena was busy doing some crewel work and finding it very hard to turn to her chemistry book on the table.

The spunky gal will probably be back on the courts before long.

Navy Relief Drive "DAY AT THE RACES," for military and civilian staff, is set for June 10, 1976. Watch for leaflet giving details.

NAVAL REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER, OAKLAND

Show! Don't tell. Is Phase II emphasis

Tangible, visible change, not plans and rhetoric alone is to be the dedication of BUMED's Phase II Equal Opportunity Program.

At the June 2 assembly of Chiefs of Service, Branch Clinic officers and civilian department heads, Rear Admiral E. J. Rupnik spoke in terms of achievable goals and planned milestones for the Navy's race relations program. As Assistant Chief for Human Resources and Professional Development within the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, the Admiral suggested that BUMED is being spotlighted as a prime example for its dedication to Phase II, possibly because of the Navy's long history of exclusiveness and its progressive reversal.

Phase I of the Equal Opportunity Program at Naval Regional Medical Center was instituted to increase the understanding of personal worth and racial dignity. The Medical Center can brag of a record 77 per cent participation in the UPWARD workshops under Phase I, with more than half under voluntary response.

Phase II, aimed at behavior, not quotas, will have a flexible format. Guidance and assistance will be provided by a special detachment team oriented toward helping commands achieve specific results. Civilian interphase will parallel the military intervention in the Oakland area.

Affirmative Action is the key goal. Plans will be reviewed and updated; there will be a Command training team at NRMCO. Equal Opportunity indicators will be studied. The overall program will be an ongoing one providing for feedback; and feedback will be geared toward prevention of problems which give rise to complaints. There will be a data bank for quality measurement.

LCDR D. L. Kalfas, the Officer in Charge of the Equal Opportunity West Coast Detachment, suggested that Medical Center's activities will probably be completely implemented by October. LT B. L. Jones gave an overview of the civilian interphase of the program.

Mr. Jack Donahue and Ms. Lorretta Jackson, from BUMED, will conduct the program and train local persons to continue the program. Although the workshops for civilian supervisors will be mandatory, Lieutenant Jones said that the training would apply toward the 4 hour EEO requirement for supervisors.

Military medical librarians to meet

The Military Medical Libraries Group of the Medical Library Association will meet in Minneapolis on June 12 for a workshop on "Cooperation among Department of Defense health science libraries." The program will be presided by Jane C. O'Sullivan, Administrative Librarian NRMCO, who was secretary of the group this year.

The keynote speaker will be Frances Johnson of the National Library of Medicine, who will discuss how DoD libraries may participate in consortia under the regional medical library network program. Afternoon panel participants will include Terry Saylor of the Naval Medical Research Institute, Bethesda; and Pat Pepin of Letterman Army Hospital, San Francisco. Mrs. O'Sullivan will present colored slides illustrating the extension of medical library collections and services to outlying clinics of NRMCO.

The Medical Library Association recently conferred the Certificate of Medical Librarianship on Mrs. O'Sullivan. This award is evidence of academic specialization in the field of medical literature, in addition to holding the Master of Library Science Degree. Certification was earned by passing a nationwide examination which was held in San Francisco on March 19.

CRIME PREVENTION TIP OF THE MONTH

Citizen-band radios have become a very popular item; also popular among thieves. If you use a citizen-band radio in your vehicle, remove it and place it in the trunk when you are going to be away from your car.

A PASTEL BY HELENE LEBLANC received second place in the Senior Division/Pastels at the Treasure Island Art Show. Mrs. LeBlanc is the wife of Captain Gilbert A. LeBlanc, Chief of Urology Service. An oil painting by Dave DeKrey won first place in the Junior Division/Oils, and Debbie DeKrey took second and third place in the Junior Division/Oils. Dave and Debbie are the son and daughter of the Chief of Patient Affairs, Lieutenant Commander C. R. DeKrey.

Hospital Corps party set June 12 at O'Club

The Hospital Corps will celebrate its 77th year at a buffet dance at the O'Club on June 12. Admission will be by advance ticket sale only at $1 each, which will afford control in the preparation of food.

Are you ready to dance from 8 to 12 p.m. to a name band?

For women veterans

Back pay deadline set

The application deadline for women veterans eligible for a special retroactive GI Bill payment is July 1, 1976, says the Veterans Administration (VA).

Women who attended school under the GI Bill between June 1, 1966, and October 24, 1972, may qualify to receive a lump sum of about $30 per month for each month in training. The payment is to equalize benefits with male veterans who were married while in training.

Women veterans must contact a VA regional office before July 1 and must furnish proof of marriage while in training to be paid the retroactive sum.

Letters with a form on the reverse which should be completed and mailed to a VA regional office before July 1 were mailed by VA to 75,000 women veterans in February. This group attended school under the GI Bill during the specified time period, but the agency does not have the authority to pay without receiving applications from these veterans.

Women who trained after October 24, 1972, have already been paid on the same basis as their male counterparts. The law does not allow the additional amount for husbands to be paid to women who trained under the World War II and Korean Conflict GI Bills.

Assistance on applications can be obtained from VA offices and from veterans service organizations.

CU expresses appreciation

The Alameda Coast Guard Federal Credit Union reports that construction is progressing nicely on their new building. An early October opening is indicated.

The Credit Union regrets its occasional inability to expeditiously serve NRMC members on paydays which involve both civilian and military personnel. Credit Union office space is presently very limited and precludes the assignment of additional employees to ease the problem of waiting lines.

The Credit Union, however, will continue its efforts to extend the best service possible under the circumstances. The patience of members who must wait in line during rush periods is appreciated.

FEDERAL BENEFITS for Veterans and Dependents is a Veterans Administration fact sheet published Jan. 1, 1976. It is for sale by the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington 20402, under Stock Number 051-000-00087-1. Price 95 cents.

Comes disaster — what next? for individual

Naval Regional Medical Center Instruction 3440.1 sets out specifically and in detail the duties of the Disaster Control Center Personnel. In an emergency, the action to be taken by the Commanding Officer and other administrative heads are set forth. The Officer of the Day, the Transportation Center, Security Branch, Outpatient Service, Decedent Affairs and many personnel have had duties listed in writing, with much specificity.

But what about the rest of us, civilian and military personnel and guests on the compound in general? What is our role?

It is important that we keep communication lines clear. Stay off of the telephones; keep out of the way of the activity rush; help where we can the person nearby; protect ourselves from further injury. If possible, remain at our normal place of duty.

Anyone receiving important information pertaining to the emergency should report it promptly to the Officer of the Day at the OOD's office. In the event building 500 becomes inoperable, the alternate control center will be at building 501, the Bachelor Enlisted Quarters.

If called on to help in the Triage area or in any capacity in which our capabilities lie, "turn to" and try to be of service, forgetting the clock. It might be a very important post merely to stand and give directions to volunteer litter bearers.

Take time now to plan your action in case of an emergency. Maybe ducking under your desk as a first reaction to an explosive noise might be the most significant action you could take!

Bits and Pieces

Sorry about demoting Chief Nathan Brown last issue. He has worked too long and hard to deserve such fate.

Candy Unis spent her lunch period last Wednesday opening baby gifts at an office shower. One gift for Lisa-to-be (?) was a commemorative mint coin set of this bicentennial year. CAPT Deaner remarked, "Save that until the baby is ready for college and it may pay for the education."

The Officers' wives reaped a Bazaar profit of $1,138.85 and made $347 on their tasting dinner. Individuals are not telling the "take" at the May 29 flea market. CDR Hatch mentioned that his family did not plan a booth at the sale because the children had already spoken for "any usable good junk" that they might be discarding when packing for Guam.

Promotion was special for LT Carol Butcher on June 1. The date was her birthday; and although seven other nurses were in the ceremony with her, hers was a special glow.

Margaret Nielson spent part of her holiday weekend playing 'em across the board at Golden Gate Field. The Turf Club luncheon was a tasty buffet. Master Chief Axworthy reports that only 15 staff took advantage of the June 10 Navy Relief Day at the Races. Remember, you, too, had your chance to lose a portion of your hard-earned salary.

Lorraine Carly is not taking a Caribbean cruise; she is off on a Trans-Panama cruise which sailed Tuesday from Los Angeles. Betty Winsby is back from vacationing in Yugoslavia, wanting badly to turn right around and go back. Admiral and Mrs. Faucett found a bit of vacation fun in San Francisco and combined it with a visit of Medical Center. When here as Commanding Officer, the Admiral's duties were a bit too demanding to allow time for full enjoyment of the Bay Area.

Another artist receiving Honorable Mention at the Treasure Island Art Show is Sharon Gill, wife of Commander William Gill, Pediatrics Service.

Sparky says

*Children can be
and learn not to burn!*

A MATCH HEAD has no sense, but parents do. They should try to help children understand that any sort of fireworks, including sparklers, can be dangerous.

Keep matches, lighters and flammable liquids out of the "Strike Zone"—out of the reach of little children. And out of their sight, too, if possible.

Watch little children around barbeque fires, candles and other open flames.

Make a game of teaching young children to "Drop and Roll" to put out a fire. Join them, and know that in case of fire it is not a game.

Every child who has learned about fire safety can be one of Sparky's valued helpers in teaching fire prevention to younger boys and girls. At this season the grass is dry. Fire not only burns, FIRE HURTS! Hurts! And hurts!

Foundation seeks scleroderma answers

There is a disease called scleroderma, which affects connective tissues of the body, for which there is no known cause and no known cure. The disease is described by Mrs. Louis C. Hambley, wife of a retired Navy man and victim of scleroderma, as being very much like leprosy. She can vouch that it can cause excruciating pain and be very annoying.

There is a national Medical Research Foundation (MRF) providing research into the cause, effect and cure of scleroderma. The message the Foundation would like to spread is that they are seeking names of anyone having the problem. They ask that the report be sent to its founder Mrs. John Barlet, 704 Gardner Center Road, New Castle, Pa. 16101.

DoD revises directive on standards of conduct

Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements, Jr., has approved several changes to Department of Defense Directive 5500.7, "Standards of Conduct," in an effort to close any potential loopholes involving conflicts of interest.

The following language was deleted from the directive in the provision on "Gratuities" which permitted:

Customary exchange of social amenities between personal friends and relatives when motivated by such relationships and extended on a personal basis.

Transactions between and among relatives which are personal and consistent with the relationships.

In addition, the revised directive expands the number of military and civilian personnel required to submit statements of employment and financial interests. Following are changes in Paragraph XV of the directive which describes DoD personnel required to submit statements:

All civilian officers and employees paid at the level of grades GS-16 to 18 and at a level of the Executive Schedule in subchapter II of chapter 53 of title 5, United States Code.

All officers of flag or general rank.

Commanders and Deputy Commanders of major installations, activities and operations as determined by the respective Secretaries of the Military Departments and Directors of Defense Agencies.

Mr. Clements emphasized that the Department of Defense will not tolerate violations of standards of conduct policy and any variance from strict adherence to provisions of the directive will be dealt with severely.

Moffett still winning honors

It has got to be a record!

Once again the Moffett Field Branch Clinic has the "White Hat of the Month" for COM-PATWINGSPAC.

The Sailor of the Month program at the clinic went in full swing in May 1975, through the efforts of the administrative officer, LTJG F. H. Maurer. Since then, through April, the Clinic has had 11 separate opportunities to compete for the honor. There were 10 individuals who represented the clinic, and five out of the number were given the accolade. "The success rate is higher than I have ever seen for such a program," CDR F. A. Teague, Officer in Charge, said.

But for the whole story! In January 1976, the Commander, Patrol Wings, U.S. Pacific Fleet, RADM John V. Josephson, conducted a Sailor of the Year competition, and in that, too, the Clinic came out very well. HM3 Kathlene C. Eckroth was 2nd runner-up and HM2 Rommie L. Johnson was 1st runner-up. Two out of three possible awards!

The newest edition to this elite group is HN Gail Jean Doyle. She won the Moffett Field honor for April in ceremonies held May 12. With the honor were citations from the City of Mountain View, the Santa Clara Council of the Navy League, the Lions Club, the Rotary Club and the Kiwanis Club.

The two latter clubs provided dinner for two and the Santa Clara Valley Branch 101 of the Fleet Reserve Association furnished two tickets to the Circle Star Theatre. HN Doyle also received a $200 merchandise certificate from Levitz Furniture Company in Santa Clara.

Our Sailor of the Month for May is HMI Steven L. Spring. He is about as accommodating a gentleman as anyone would hope to meet.

Steve has been in the Navy since 1964. He lives with his wife and three girls in enlisted housing on base.

His chief hobby? Photography, naturally.

When he was in Morocco he took a correspondence course in modern photography. Steve then progressed on through the Navy School of Medical Photography, Bethesda, Md. He is working on his certification with the Biological Photography Association, and has behind him 3 years of a 5-year course.

Currently Steve is hip on macro photography and, like most buffs, uses an array of cameras, having several of his own. When Petty Officer Spring retires from the Navy, he anticipates continuing his career as a self-employed photographer.

Academic UNC conferences scheduled

Dr. William Parkos, of the regular University of Northern Colorado, Center for Special and Advanced Programs, will be at Medical Center on July 21, 1976, to talk with prospective students.

The question has been posed, "How does the University of Northern Colorado (UNC) program differ from that of the Southern Illinois University (SIU) at Edwardsville program?"

Briefly, the UNC program puts emphasis on specialization in health care administration, whereas SIU, although offering health care management courses, puts emphasis on the Master of Business Administration degree. The programs can usually be completed in one to two years.

This Center offers the rare opportunity to study specialties of primary interest right here on base. Personnel who have obtained training in administrative skills will naturally be more competitive for promotion and assignment as they pass through their normal career patterns in the Navy medicine field.

Phone Education and Training, exts. 3085/2237 for further information.

Preventive dentistry gets local emphasis

BUMED recognizes that bacteria in the form of dental plaque causes most dental caries. Within the Bureau, a dental plaque control program, attacking the problem of caries and of periodontal disease, is achieving favorable results.

Here at NRMCO the program consists of three or four short dental appointments, during which the importance of plaque control is explained. Methods of control are demonstrated and, most importantly, the patients are required to exhibit their ability to achieve plaque control.

If it is time for your dental checkup, phone ext. 2255 for an appointment.

Chaplain's Corner

For fathers only

In the Broadway play called "Fanny," there is a sailor named Marius who is the true embodiment of the saying: "A sailor has a girl in every port." In the port of Marseille he meets a lovely native girl called "Fanny." He deceived her by promising her his love. Then when he has stolen her most priceless possession he runs away to sea leaving Fanny to bear his child.

Fanny, in great distress, turns to Panisse, a huge, bristling, powerful man who is a tender Christian. He marries Fanny, gives her child a name and a father. Later Marius decides to return to Marseille and he is dumbfounded to find out what has happened. Of course he wants Fanny. Of course he wants his own child, and in a despairing moment he cries to Panisse, "Who is the father, the one who gives life or the one who buys the bibs?" And then the finest moment of the play comes when Panisse says tenderly to Marius, "The Father is the one who loves."

Bits and Pieces

Alas and alack! Although the Hospital Corps Anniversary Ball was the best in several years, there will be no pictures. It seems the flash and the camera were not synchronized. Thus, the youngest and the oldest cutting the cake did not go down in film history. They were, however, HMC George Canning, Recreational Service, and HA Karen Kozlik, Pediatric Service. A few bouquets for making the ball its big success should be showered on HM1 Hank Chinnery. You did a great job as Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, Hank!

Captain Jean Heath's new traveling abode is done in Spanish decor with deep red velvet motif. Captain Jean is eagerly awaiting the day when she can take off with her "gownless evening strap" to see the world.

THE PT/OT SCHOOL was caught holding an office conference in the "USS Titan," Captain Jean Heath's new landrover. (And expecting to get by with it just because the background music was sounding off with Anchors Aweigh!) HMC Jerry Koonce, LT Jim Walker and Mrs. Koonce are pictured.

USMC SSGT F.J. TAYLOR, a patient on 7-West, was discovered up by the warehouse last Saturday afternoon a-piping "McPherson's Lament" and other Scot tunes. He's a member of the Cameron Clan and has promised to bring his bagpipes to the 4th of July picnic.

CAMPUS ON THE LAWN improves a Southern Illinois University (SIU) session, whatever the subject. Echos were that the lesson had to do with the business aspect of making a profit on the sale of beer.

Howard Young discusses eating trends

Howard Young tabs himself a "hotel and restaurant observer," but what he observes rings dinner bells when diners make a choice.

In speaking to the officers' wives at their June 9 luncheon, Mr. Young suggested that the day of the Mamma and Pappa operation is "in" as far as eating habits of the area population.

Five years from now may be a time for "remembering when" you experienced one of the big restaurants for which San Francisco has long been famous.

Perhaps, however, you need not feel too badly about the passing of some of the older places offering gourmet delights. The chefs of many of those places are now cooking for the smaller restaurants. Mr. Young can tell you where.

The door prizes won by several of the O'wives will give them a chance to take their O'husbands to some of Mr. Young's choice selections.

Incidentally, do you realize that our forebears on The Mayflower had no forks. Fingers and knives had to make do.

THE CRUTCH MITTS given NRMCO patients by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fleet Reserve Association of Alameda's Branch 87 carried with the gift the full spirit of the Fourth of July. The covers were in red, white and blue. They were knitted by Mrs. Evelyn Perré, the President, Mrs. Sandy McNichol, the Americanism Chairman, and Mrs. Grace Liming, the Chaplain. Mrs. Armstrong accepted the present on behalf of the Red Cross, your friendly Good Neighbor.

Last weekend, by the light of the full moon, things were a'poppin for NRMCO staff!

A HAIL AND FAREWELL at the O'Club gave reason enough for California's wineries to treat those reporting and detaching to vintage selections. Upper left, Kinta and Dave Clark toasted Bill Leedom. Wines were shared by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fortino, lower left. To top the evening, Fritz and CDR Bill McKenzie will vouch that steak and corn-on-the-cob and chamber music by a Cal State Hayward quartet were the right accompaniment for the wine tasting event. The musicians pictured are Cathy Allen and Jim Hurley.

NEVER LEAVE YOUR PET inside an automobile on a warm, sunny day. On an 85° day, the temperature inside your car, even with windows slightly open, will reach 102° in 10 minutes, 120° in 30 minutes. A dog can withstand a temperature of 107-108-degrees for only a short time before suffering irreparable brain damage or even death.

FAMILY PORTRAIT? Not unless you call it Recreational Services' family. Chief and Mrs. Canning gave a farewell dinner for MM1 Al Pierce's (bowling alley attendant). And where was Al? Down in the game room with other friends gobbling up the seafood bouillabaisse prepared by the Chief.

CAPTAIN AND MRS. WOODSTEIN, preparatory to departing for Guam, joined the Officers' Wives' Club at the May 29 flea market. (It depends on how much a person buys of the other fellow's discards whether it is called a "swap meet.") The bicentennial bonnet, worn by Mrs. W., definitely was purchased from another booth.

SCORE • BOARD

SOFTBALL NURSES BEAT CAPTAINS BY SCORE 19-9

(read on)

The above headline is no printer's error. It is a deliberate lie.

As this reporter was leaving the hotly contested softball game between the Captains of Medicine and the Nurses of Human Kindness, a young man walking up the hill was queried.

"Honestly, now, who do you think is going to win?"

His reply: "The nurses, of course, because they are prettier and sweeter!"

Meanwhile, the doctors were beating the nurses something awful. Which gave rise to an all-rules barred situation. One nurse was seen taking a refreshment to a runner on third, and as he ran for home base the unidentified female trotted along too, holding the beverage mouth-high in front of the player. Progress was somewhat impeded. But what was just one more out! The captains were winning anyway, he must have thought.

It was a shame though that Shortstop Dillon of 7th deck got her bonnet dirty when she slid to third.

Doc LeBlanc didn't really hit that ball with the wrong end of the bat. He was just clowning for the grandstand. And Doctor Duane—or was it somebody else—was stuffing himself with a hotdog as he went on field. That, too, was just to boost the nurses' in-service training fund.

After all, with all the "nursing care" afforded everyone with the supply of homebaked goodies, nearly all spectators should agree that the nurses should have won! They really are smaller and prettier.

the worth of the INDIVIDUAL

By Msgt. Julian Mills

How important is an individual? What does one person contribute to the whole of our society?

It is the individual who makes up our society, and the Holy Scriptures teach that "one soul is worth more than the whole world." This puts a great deal of emphasis upon the individual. It says that he or she is most important. In fact, it very plainly states that he or she is worth more than anything in the whole world.

The golden rule tells us that we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us. However, sometimes it seems easier to do unto others before they do unto us. Plainly, doing the right thing is not always the easiest thing.

Human beings are born with an inner person or conscience. This is the "little voice" that informs us when what we are planning to do or say something bad about another one of these "most important" persons in our society. All of us have the mechanisms to lead us on the right path, and yet when we would do right, evil is always present. It is important to society, to the other person, and to ourselves that we listen to the inner voice of conscience that would lead us to do the right thing.

The next time there is the urge to do something harmful or to say something negative about another individual, remember—he or she is worth more than the whole world.

Have a good holiday,

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

The Fourth of July NRMCO picnic has been cancelled. Many families will be out of town for the three-day holiday, and all-day TV coverage nationally is attracting many stay-at-home viewers.

The Laboratory Service at NRMCO accredited

A certificate of accreditation by the College of American Pathologists, a medical specialty organization of more than 6,500 pathologists, was last week awarded to the Laboratory Service of NRMCO Oakland.

President of the College, Dennis B. Dorsey, M.D., stated that the laboratory received its certification from the College's Commission on Inspection and Accreditation. The laboratory has successfully met the standards for laboratory performance, determined from the results of an intensive, on-site inspection by a volunteer pathologist inspector from the College. An on-site inspection is carried out every two years, with an interim self inspection and constant monitoring of the laboratory's proficiency test results.

"This accreditation," emphasized Dr. Dorsey, "reflects credit to the institution and assures patients and physicians of the continuing accuracy and precision of the laboratory's services."

The Inspection and Accreditation Program of the College is recognized as one of the most outstanding medical peer evaluation systems in the world. Its goal is to promote the best possible laboratory performance via a program which examines and evaluates all phases of a laboratory's operation.

Chaplain Carey receives Ph.D

Lieutenant William H. Carey has been awarded a Ph.D in Religious Education by New York University. His dissertation was on "The Concept of Salvation in the Writing of Karl Rahner, S.J."

Oak Knoll's scholar in residence taught 12 years at St. Johns University in the Department of Theology. He has been ordained 17 years, and has received permission from his Bishop to remain with the Navy.

In congratulating Chaplain Carey, Rear Admiral Sparks stated, "There is always a definite need for professionals of all disciplines to expand and strive for more comprehensive knowledge. You have certainly brought credit upon yourself, your family, your church and the U.S. Navy by completing what I know to have been a most exacting program."

Inconsequential knowledge: Sea World's big killer whales consume about 20 marine mammal multiple vitamins each day.

Navy alcoholic program successful

WASHINGTON, June 18, (AFPS)—Seven of ten sailors who receive treatment in the Navy's alcoholic program are not only making it over booze but also are making it in the Navy.

"They are satisfying the contract with the Navy, getting recommended for reenlistment, getting promoted, receiving the same career opportunity they had before they went into treatment," according to Captain Stuart Brownell, Director, Navy Alcoholism Prevention Program.

Himself an alcoholic, Captain Brownell said that it's unfortunate there is still a social stigma attached to the disease and that a lot of Navy men fear seeking treatment will ruin reputation and career.

"I hated the admiral that sent me into treatment for the first time, but if I saw him today, I would thank him because he started me on the road to recovery," Captain Brownell said.

Appearing on the AFRTS-TV program "Directions 76," Captain Brownell discussed the disease called alcoholism, describing it as a three-fold addiction—physically, mentally and spiritually.

One problem of the disease, he said, is that, "People keep expecting the sick alcoholic to have a logical mind and be able to make a logical decision."

Like all Service alcohol prevention programs, Captain Brownell stressed that the Navy's program is tied closely to Alcoholics Anonymous, which has local groups meeting everywhere in the United States. For area meeting schedules, call 653-4300 or ext. 2252.

Miniature Schnauzer Club to hold fun match

The Miniature Schnauzer Club of Northern California will hold an A.K.C. sanctioned conformation and obedience fun match on the NRMCO ball field Saturday, August 14, for the benefit of the patients and staff. Exact times for judging will be published in the Plan of the Day.

Captain Heath, Immediate Past President of the club, states that the club held a similar match several years ago and that a good time was had by all—spectators and participants. Anyone desiring further information may contact Captain Heath at ext. 2085.

Retirement for Asbelle? Never!

Charles Asbelle recently participated in a disadvantaged/handicapped and manpower training workshop at Otter Rock, Ore. His topic was "Habilitation of the Physically Handicapped."

Charles Asbelle also recently received a letter of praise from Robert W. Straub, Governor of Oregon. The letter, signed "Bob," stated: "Your leadership role in amputee rehabilitation at the Navy Prosthetic Research Laboratory, as a Naval officer, and a civilian administrator, has enabled countless Oregon veterans to assume their rightful roles in our society."

Let it be remembered that Oregon veterans have no unique claim in that regard. Since approximately 1942, Mr. Asbelle has contributed not only to the rehabilitation but to the habilitation of countless amputees and injured veterans across the nation. In fact, his influence spans not only California and Oregon but extends into international spheres. He has given the boost, in many instances, that has helped many an injured service person face up to life itself.

On the lecture platform and before youthful school groups touring our facility, the man has helped numerous persons discard the word "handicapped" in thinking of themselves or their friends.

His "retirement" from this facility after over 33 years will be a great loss to the Navy, but his contributions in the name of research and humanity will continue to be felt for years to come. He and co-workers have preserved much of their research under Navy patents of several inventions.

At his recent farewell luncheon, Mr. Asbelle indicated that he would be leaving the career of research, artificial limbs and prosthetics to "sit back and sell insurance."

Does anyone want to bet on that?

Hearing conservation gains limelight focus

About the early sixties, families began tuning their hi-fis loud enough to wake the neighbors. Rock bands still continue to shock the sound waves in upper level decibels.

All of which has caused the medical profession to at last look at its responsibility for conservation of hearing. In accepting such duty, the Audiology and Speech Pathology Service on June 21-23 held an occupational hearing conservation course at which 14 corpsmen were certified.

The course is the only such course offered by a regional medical center, although the Environmental Medicine

GETTING PROMOTED TO CAPTAIN is a very special thing. The occasion is made more memorable for Captain Clarence Strom when it is shared by his wife, mother, four children and the Chief of the Otorhinolaryngology Service.

Medical Equipment Repairman Sailor of Month for June

HMI John F. Morgan, Jr., is an electronics repairman in the Biomedical Equipment Repair Branch. For a Medical Center such as ours, the maintenance requirements of the sophisticated equipment demands skilled expertise. Petty Officer Morgan has attended many seminars to qualify himself to maintain the new modern biomedical equipment used throughout the region. He has carried a heavy workload, but he has willingly given of himself without sacrifice of quality of performance.

His work has contributed immeasurably to substantial cost-savings realized by this command.

Petty Officer Morgan is a native of Texas. His Navy career spans 13 1/2 years. He has recently moved with his wife and two sons to the Hayward area. Some of his after-work time is spent as an umpire for some of the baseball games in the San Francisco area.

In keeping with the highest traditions of the Hospital Corps and the United States Naval Service, he has earned a sincere "well done" and congratulations.

FOR WOMEN ONLY!

In John Klempner's book, "A Letter to Five Wives," Addie Joss, a seductive, man-hunting, unattached female, wrote her social friends as follows: "Afraid I can't be with you, dears — I'm on a little mission which may interest you greatly because it's going to take me from you for good. Do I hear you shouting 'Good'? All right. Shout while you can. And then it will be my turn. I'd hate to leave you emptyhanded, so I thought I'd take along a little souvenir, something I hope you can spare — one of your husbands. Do you mind?..."

Which one? You do want to know, don't you, dears? Well now, it might be any one. Any one of five — five devoted husbands running off with Joss. Unfortunately, I could take only one. Someday I may make the rounds, but which one this time? Go ahead! Stare at each other. Try to look unconcerned. Pretend that it couldn't possibly be yours, and know in your heart it could. So worry, my dears, and suffer."

Each of the five wives who received this letter does worry and does suffer. Each reassures herself time and again that it couldn't be her husband; yet each, thinking back on her marriage, knows full well that it could be. Each, facing herself as a wife, becomes conscious of many things done, many things left undone, indifferences, that might have brought her marriage to this tragic climax. Each spends a long and unhappy day, waiting for the night to reveal one broken home. The story ends happily for all five; the tempted husband has changed his mind.

But the wives have learned a lesson: that you can't love a husband for a time and then ignore him; that keeping a man is a full time job.

Hearing conservation

Center of Pensacola, Fla., pioneered earlier courses.

The recent seminar at our facility was coordinated under the guidance of Dr. Charles Fankhauser. It is planned that similar courses will be offered on a quarterly basis.

It is vitally important that persons conducting the tests be properly trained to evaluate results and to prescribe proper ear plug fittings.

The curriculum will not only provide hearing testing and protection for patients, but it will qualify individuals for national certification.

Technicians certified under the first trainee program are: HM2 Gary Agnew, NAS Alameda; HM3 John Brennan, NRMCO; Mrs. Alvila Burkett, Oakland; HM3 S.T. Dahlstrom, NPGS Monterey; HM3 Mark Ferrare, NRMCO; HM3 Richard Gleason, NAS Moffett Field; HM2 George Gombasy, NRMCO; HM2 Melissa Goodrow, Industrial Health Clinic, NSC Oakland; HM3 Kenneth Hilliard, NCS Stockton; SGT Lacy Hudson, NAD Hawthorne; HM2 Steven C. Martin, COMTWELVE Treasure Island; Mr. Charlie Peoples, NSC Oakland; Mrs. Carole Rasmussen, Oakland; HM3 Darrel Thomas, NRMCO Oakland.

The next course to be offered for accreditation in occupational hearing conservation will begin in the fall. Call Dr. Fankhauser, ext. 2065, for information.

MS. DORA THEA PORTER, audiologist, supervises an audiology test practicum. HM3 Darrell R. Thomas does the testing and HM3 Joel A. Burgess gets the signal.

MANY NOISE EXPOSURES can produce a permanent hearing loss that may affect communication by speech. The amount of hearing loss caused by a given noise exposure varies from person to person.

Summer aid program yields mutual benefits

On June 18, 1976, the Oakland Youth Work Experience program officially ended; however, many of the same youths continued in employment under a summer or student aid arrangement, working in various departments of NRMCO Oakland.

The jobs provide meaningful work experience for the youths, which might well be related to their future careers. For the hospital, there is also value exchange. For instance, Leonard Brinston works in Operating Management Service and helps out in the mail room, in duplicating and central files. He has received "outstanding" evaluations and it is said of him, "He learns easily and is a willing and exceptional worker. We wish we had more of his caliber."

The young workers may be found in various divisions. There are three students in Data Processing, learning such things as key punch, how to wire panel boards, operation of electrical accounting machines, and, in general, good work habits. Public Works Service uses two of the students. Kevin Warren, for example, is learning electronics repair, familiarizing himself with nurse call systems and TV repair.

Student aids are pictured and work areas are designated: Corliss Price, Radiology Service; William Boyd, Jr., Food Service; Lillia Stanley, PT/OT School; Kenneth King, Orthopedic Service; Janice Reynolds, Outpatient Service; Wesley Fong, Data Processing; Eldridge Pooler, Data and Word Processing; Verdalia Williams, Navy Prosthetics Research Laboratory; Al Jones, Marilyn Ray and Linda Castro, Supply Service; Anita Lollis, Chemistry Laboratory; Steve Green, Blood Bank; Don Askey and Kevin Warren, Public Works Service; Marilyn Stewart, Safety.

"Real doctors" now

Graduation is over

On June 30, 1976, at 2 p.m., in the Clinical Assembly, 28 medical interns and five dental general practice residents were awarded the certificates of their profession.

Captain Delmer J. Pascoe, MC, USN (Ret), in his address, set forth for the new doctors "Some Fillers for a Doctor's Bag." He listed the first thing to be included as Humor.

He also suggested that an intern should know himself with 20-20 insight; he should possess the ability to adapt or change.

"Life is a ticket to the greatest show on earth," he said, "and interns have a front row seat."

Shortly thereafter, those interns and dental residents to whom he talked passed across the stage to receive certificates of graduation and the congratulations due them. Fortunately, 16 of the group will remain on the staff of NRMCC Oakland.

Kris Clemens

Kris Clemens, Secretary for Graduate Training, was made an Honorary Intern with rank of Lieutenant at the annual intern gridiron-type roasting by the Class of '75-'76. Kris proved to be a pretty good officer when she enlisted the aid of several of the graduates to help in putting gold tassels on the graduation programs. LT Chuck Rost and LT Ted Mettetal were particularly overworked.

Crew's Library orders records

The other day, one corpsman discovered that Crew's Library has a bin of records. "They're from the fifties," he exclaimed, rather excitedly.

That corpsman, and a few other service persons, may be pleased to hear that an order of new selections, year 1976, should arrive soon.

On order are such records as Stevie Wonder's Innervisions; and the Chicago rock group's Great Hits. Surely Barbra Streisand's Way We Were will have a following, as will Johnny Mathis' I'm Coming Home.

To name a few others, how about Aretha Franklin's Let Me in Your Life; John Denver's Back Home Again; Olivia Newton-John's Let Me Be There; Gladys Knight and the Pips Second Anniversary — not to mention the Boston Pops with Fiedler on record.

And would you believe it? The library now has earphones for three stereo players.

NOW YOU SEE THE REAL THEM, smiling broadly in celebration of the end before the beginning. The 1975-1976 intern class: Front Row: Stan P. Cowley, Jr. (DC), Samuel S. (Tut) Norvell, Bonnie B. Potter, Michael L. Kline, Barbara G. Anderson, Thomas J. Allred, Daniel A. Yurth, Robin M. Lake, Michael J. Little. Second Row: William R. Mackie, II (DC), Richard G. Smith, Larry A. Eninger, Roger W. Sheffield, Raymond L. Brown, William F. Graney, Willum T. Meshier, Robert R. Jarrett. Third Row: Charles T. (Ted) Mettetal, Matthew U. Glover, Randall N. (Nick) Pratt, Donald C. Teams in close race

As the intramural slow-pitch softball teams went into League playoffs, Ophthalmology was sporting an unblemished record of 13 wins and no losses, followed closely by Radiology (10-1) and PT/OT (10-2).

With the League in its final week of play, PT/OT and Radiology, clashed on Wednesday, July 14. The score was 15 to 5, with PT/OT coming out on top.

This year, the top six teams will qualify for the playoffs which are scheduled to start the week of July 19. Any team winning first place in the NRMCO League will be permitted two losses in the playoffs; all other teams will be allowed one loss before being eliminated.

Twelfth Naval District sailing championship fleet race, to be held August 6-7 at the Vallejo Yacht Club.

Continuous pocket billiards championships, August 13-14 at Naval Air Station, Lemoore.

RECREATIONAL TRAVEL trailering is popular with the military. Proper equipment means hydraulic or electric trailer brakes if the trailer's loaded weight is over 3,000 pounds. Experienced trailer haulers check the tightness of their trailer hitch and safety chain every time they stop for gasoline.

Story about David

A young boy was observed making a bridge (Golden Gate, no doubt) for his airplane to fly under.

Forty-five minutes later, the youth was still contentedly entertaining himself, working seriously toward producing a stop light.

"What is your name?"

"David."

"David who?"

"David."

"Is David David your name?"

"No, just David."

At that point Mrs. Martinez appeared to claim her David Martinez.

Introducing our new JAG

It is quite likely that business will pick up in the Legal Service when it is realized that our new legal officer is single and hovering under age 30.

Lieutenant Randall King Brooks reported aboard on June 3, replacing Lieutenant Philip H. Robinson. He was born in Honolulu, Hawaii; reported from NAS Norfolk. He received his BA from the University of Virginia and his Juris Doctor from Tulane University School of Law.

"Welcome aboard, Lieutenant Brooks. May you enjoy the Bay Area!"

Congratulations, 100 Percenters for Navy Relief Drive

Women's coordinator speaks

Women: the majority minority, but nevertheless, "We are Women."

Ms. L.J. Jackson, the first full-time Federal Women's Program Coordinator for the Medical Department, urged women, to whom she spoke on July 15, to "Get involved." She opened the meeting with a discussion on pro-sexist behavior. "Define it?" she challenged.

She congratulated the few men in the audience, including Captain David Q. Wilson, acting Director of Clinical Services, on their attendance. She indicated that more male involvement would make for better communication.

Ms. Jackson reviewed the history, dating from 1800, of the program's slow rise. It was not until 1967 that the Federal Women's Program was established; agency awareness and action programs to enhance opportunities did not really start in earnest until about 1971.

DO-IT-YOURSELF MOVERS TO PROFIT

WASHINGTON, June 18, (AFPS) — New DoD procedures that became effective June 1 incorporate a monetary incentive of 75 percent of the government cost to move a member by commercial carrier.

The following examples illustrate how the incentive payments are computed:

Assume an E-7 moves 6500 pounds of personal property in a 16 foot truck a distance of 860 miles.

Estimated cost of move by commercial carrier	$1100
75 percent monetary incentive limit	825
Cost of move under DITY moving program	600
Members' incentive payment	225
Savings to Department of Defense	$ 275

Assume an E-5 moves 1,000 pounds of personal property in a 4 x 6 trailer a distance of 400 miles.

Estimated cost of move by commercial carrier	$210
75 percent monetary incentive limit	158
Cost of move under DITY moving program	90
Member's incentive payment	68

How-To-Do-It

Generally, here's how the Service member goes about making a so-called Do-It-Yourself (DITY) move. Before making any move he first reports to his local Transportation Officer to be counseled on his entitlements and responsibilities.

If the member opts for the DITY move, he presents his inventory of personal property to the Transportation Officer who will assist him in selecting the proper equipment to make his move.

The rental equipment contractor will furnish the proper equipment and operating funds (for gas, oil, tolls and weight tickets) and bill the Department of Defense. In addition, the member may be furnished packing and crating materials.

Profit Motive

All Services offer the DITY program to give personnel more options, but it was felt that one provision needed to make the DITY move program more attractive to Service personnel was a monetary incentive to compensate members opting into the program for their labor and still generate a savings to the Department of Defense.

Personnel officer a forceful administrator

Lieutenant Commander I. D. Howard, MSC, USN, this month received nomination to the American College of Hospital Administrators. The college is a professional society, pledged to strengthen the practice of health care administration.

The nomination would indicate that members of the College recognize that Commander Howard fulfills well defined standards of academic preparation, personal character and professional competence. Admission to the ACHA is granted only after a rigorous examination of credentials of a candidate.

As we go to press, word has been received of Commander Howard's nomination also to the American Academy of Medical Administrators.

Tennis

Congratulations to M. Borowsky of Lab, Rick Crotoof of OB/GYN and Ken Roberts of Special Services. All have qualified for West Coast Regional Tennis Championships to be held at NAVSTA San Diego, Aug. 2 to 6, 1976.

Borowsky goes as the 12ND Men's Senior Champion and Ken Roberts as the 1976 Men's Open Champion. This is a repeat for Ken. He was the 1975 12ND open champ.

Slow-pitch softball

Congrats also to the Ophthalmology intramural slow-pitch team as they went undefeated for 1976 (15-0). Radiology came in second (12-3).

Note! Did you know that NRMCO had a girls' slow-pitch team entered in the 12ND women's slow-pitch tournament held here two weeks ago, and that our team came in second behind NAS Alameda. There is rumor going around that our girls have been invited to participate in a national championship to be held in Pennsylvania on Labor Day weekend.

Our men's varsity slow-pitch team won the "B" championship in 12ND competition for 1976. They also took third in the 12ND tournament out of 16 teams entered. Not bad, fellas!

Rick Evans, Ophthalmology, and Allen Alexander, of NP, were selected by the U.S. Coast Guard Base Alameda (1976 12ND slow pitch champs) to play on their team in the West Coast Regionals at NAVSTA San Diego, August 2 to 6.

The NRMCO is running neck and neck with NAD Hawthorne in quest of the 1976 Commandant's trophy. We won it last year and are trying for a repeat.

WANTED

Continuous pocket billiard players for 12ND championships to be held at NAS Lemoore August 13 and 14.

Skeet and trap shooters for 12ND competition August 18 and 20 at NAS Lemoore.

Our 1976 intramural flag football begins September 6. Start forming your teams.

Call ext. 2350/2479 for information.

ACTION PLAY at women's 12ND slow-pitch tournament. Final score NRMCO 7, NAS Alameda 6.

Statistically yours,

A review of Command History is affording a flow of information that might be of interest to readers. Who claims there is a serious decrease in the birth rate? Not so at this Center.

Births at this hospital for 1972 numbered 1,134; for 1973, 970; for 1974, 1,232; and for 1975, 1,009. However, on June 24, 1976, this Medical Center hit a first for the daily. There were 10 births on that day, the largest of any one day in history.

Our bicentennial baby born here at 5:08 a.m. on July 4, 1976, is Krista Cherri Souza, daughter of Deborah Ann and UT3 John Janero Souza. Krista weighed in at 7 pounds 5 ounces. John is a Seabee who has been helping to remodel the Enlisted Mess.

At another hospital, one of our employees, Maria Mitchell, who works in Word Processing, also delivered a Fourth of July bundle. He was named Stefan Emmanuel, and weighed 7 pounds 6 ounces.

Still historically speaking on OB& GYN items, in 1974 Captain Norman K. Takaki became the first Fellow in the establishment of the Reproductive Endocrine Fellowship in that department. That service offers the only such fellowship offered in the Armed Forces training program.

THE FIRE CHIEF, Al Constantine, has retired. Long live the fire chief!

Registrations taken for swim classes

Many a sailor has joined the Navy possessing a deep fear of water. However, at NRMCO, today's babes-in-arms are not taking to water like "their daddies use to do," but much Better-Than.

Instructor Jeff Manguiat, on July 26, started a new class for very little ones. Instruction also goes to the parent, who gets in the water and helps inspire confidence and lack of fear. The young one must be at least 3 months old to start lessons. In the first session of lessons the youngest swimmer was 13 months old. He learned the flutter kick, how to swim 3 to 6 feet, and how to swim under water.

Jeff, who comes to Medical Center with very fine teaching credentials, will be starting another series of lessons on August 2. His students are not all babies.

If you wish to get in a class, it is not too early to sign up through Special Services, ext. 2479. Ten lessons for $5, whatever the age.

GET IN THE SWIM! Whether 3 months young or 93 years old, you, too, might enjoy lessons.

Two get out to get in, as PAs

On August 4, two warrant officers received their official discharge papers from enlisted status.

They then stepped across the room in the Commanding Officer's office and received their appointments as physician assistants, the first two to be commissioned at this Command.

The ceremony was a climax for Andrew E. Anderson and Arthur J. Bonham of 52 weeks of intensive classroom training and 50 weeks of practical training. Families and a large gathering of friends crowded into the CO's office to wish the two success as they leave this facility.

Warrant Officers Bonham and Anderson will be serving at the Branch Clinics at Moffett Field and Alameda. Six other physician assistant trainees are now undergoing the practical training at this Command.

Lemoore Hospital accredited by Joint Commission

The Naval Hospital, Lemoore, has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH).

This accreditation, which covers from April, 1976 to April, 1978, is the result of an on-site survey made by field representatives of the Joint Commission's Hospital Accreditation Program (HAP). Accreditation indicates that this facility has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the facility has, in the main, met these standards.

It is not legally necessary for a hospital to be accredited, but health care facilities have sought accreditation because it represents a benchmark of quality that is higher than governmental licensure alone.

New policy guidance affects in-patient care under CHAMPUS

Some new guidance concerning non-availability statements is so far reaching that it is advisable to seek advice from your CHAMPUS counselor, as space is too limited to afford satisfactory review.

July's Sailor of the Month

Work came to a halt in the Military Personnel Office. The crew had been called together and they awaited expectantly. Their administrative officer stepped from his office: "I just want to announce that HM3 Diana Morrison has been named Sailor of the Month for July. That's it!"

Whereupon, 24-year-old Diana was as surprised as anyone.

She comes from a small town in Oregon, near Medford; has been in the Navy for 2 years; lives in Hayward; is single; likes to bowl, and has around a 170 average; plays the piano; devoted 1 year of her life to Nursing School, but when she leaves the Navy she is thinking in terms of a career in horticulture.

So there you have a girl who also performs so well in her work that she has received the traditional Navy, "Well done!"

IT IS NOT AN INFREQUENT OCCASION for Medivac to go into operation to bring a critical patient from Lemoore Hospital or one of our branch clinics for health care. This helicopter arrived on its mercy flight on July 27, and touched down on the ballfield where a hospital crew was in readiness.

The duties of heading Red Cross volunteers at NRMHC are detailed to Mrs. Ann Mount, left, new Chairman of Volunteers, by Mrs. Lois Trumbull who is leaving this post after several years as Chairman.

Red Cross Chairman of volunteers named

by Bill Hattwick

Mrs. Ann Mount has been named Red Cross Chairman of Volunteers at NRMHC Oakland, assuming the duties formerly held by Mrs. Lois Trumbull.

As chairman, Mrs. Mount will coordinate the activities of some 70 Red Cross volunteers who devote time each week serving the patients and assisting hospital personnel.

Her duties include interviewing and assigning new volunteers, scheduling volunteers and coordinating their work with that of the Red Cross paid staff members.

Mrs. Mount has been active in the Center's volunteer program, since June 1974, working with the Red Cross recreation program, primarily in teaching arts and crafts to patients. Her husband, LTJG Charles Mount, is Charge Nurse in the Center's 9th floor coronary care unit.

Mrs. Trumbull has been a Red Cross volunteer at the Center for several years, joining the group in February 1973 as a clinic volunteer. She became Chairman of Volunteers several months later. She resigned the chairmanship in order to devote more time to personal activities but plans to continue her Red Cross work both here at the Center and at the Oakland Chapter.

THE OAK LEAF is a semimonthly publication produced commercially with appropriated funds in compliance with NAVEXOS P-35, Rev. Jan. 1974. Opinions contained herein are not official expressions of the Department of the Navy.

THE OAK LEAF receives American Forces Press Service and NAVY NEWS material.

Contributions from both staff and patients are welcomed and should be addressed to the Editor of THE OAK LEAF, Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, CA. 94627.

Statistically ours,

Let's take a look at Patient Affairs, statistically speaking. In 1972 14,097 patients were admitted, versus 12,526 in 1975. The patients transferred to Veterans Administration Hospitals or other government facilities equaled 551 both years.

Deaths remained relatively steady for the 4-year period. The average, about 174 processed annually; about 1,110 birth certificates, issued annually; and an average of 125 subpoenas processed annually over the period.

Insurance claims processed for the 4 years increased annually: 1972, 348; 1973, 604; 1974, 861; 1975, 894. But remember, regionalization took place in 1973.

There was a marked change in the requests made for medical information. In 1972, 466 requests were processed; 1,218 in 1973; 2,416, 1974; 2,214, 1975.

the Chaplain's Corner

NOT INTIMIDATED BY VASTNESS

During a pause in conversation, someone asked, "How does one get that inner steadiness needed so that a man can have some kind of peace and be able to face this business of life?"

"Now first you must do this and stop that," went the reply. "Dancing and amusement are out. Set those dark spots in your life straight. And don't forget to stop smoking."

That is known as breezy religiosity.

The troubled individuals I have known are not in need of an order to report for disapproval. Nor will they wait around very long to be quizzed on the sufficiency and correctness of their dogmatic beliefs. Most of them have learned by now that one's inner confidence is not maintained by the special talent for reciting difficult dogmas, nor clear skies gained by reciting long articles of faith. People with botched-up, and peaceless lives will eventually learn, too, that most secular minds are bankrupt and void of the hearty steadfastness needed in this day's fast moving torrent of change.

I will not pretend to speak for any other nor insist on a fixed formula for everyone to use in obtaining "that inner steadiness" needed to face the business of life with cheerfulness and confidence. I know very well what has helped me in my darkness and I will share that simply.

I believe in the grace, greatness and goodness of God. When my human situation has appeared utterly desperate, God has intervened and saved me from the darkness of disillusionment. When I have been bad, giving in to my most tyrannical and mysterious bias toward evil, God has never been so disappointed in me that he abandoned me. Since that has been my experience, I am not intimidated by the vastness of anything. Should I ever lose my belief in the graciousness of God I would be hopelessly doomed in this life and every dawn would be darkness.

WHOA THERE! Michael Bloom and his ward buddies, William Blackman, Mike Pompa and Tom Bell went a-sunning on the hospital lawn. On the return trip a wheel came off, and an SOS went out for more corpsmen to come to the aid of the crippled bed.

A helpful disability separation counseling program was established in 1973; in 1975, a retrospective patient care audit program monitored the quality of patient care, and 26 audits were completed. Also, in 1975 a clinical chart control program to identify discharging physicians was established.

Thus, one may begin to comprehend the amount of work performed by Patient Affairs, i.e., statistically speaking.

We urge every member to please review address and beneficiary designations at the time of paying an assessment.

New members are welcomed.

A GROUP OF SOME 20 RED CROSS CHAPTER volunteers who have participated, some for 35 years, in the organization's surgical dressing program were honored at an informal luncheon by CSR on July 21.

Surgical dressing volunteers honored

by Bill Hattwick

Some 20 long-time Red Cross volunteers, collectively representing thousands of days in preparing surgical dressings for the Armed Forces, were honored July 21 at an informal luncheon held in the hospital's Central Sterilizing Room (CSR).

It was an appropriate setting as many of the volunteers' hand-made products were utilized by this department.

The purpose of the luncheon was to thank the volunteers for their years of service upon termination of a program which was in operation for approximately 35 years. Over the years, volunteers at the Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley Chapters made a vast quantity of various types of dressings needed by our Naval Hospital.

Modern methods for preparing and packaging dressings have eliminated the need for hand preparation work performed by workers, such as these volunteers.

The volunteers, representing members from the Oakland and Alameda Chapters, were commended for their years of service by Captain R. C. Drips, the Center's Acting Commanding Officer and Captain A. R. Petoletti, Chief of Pharmacy Services.

Particular honor was paid to three volunteers, each of whom has devoted 35 years to the Red Cross volunteer work, primarily in the surgical dressing program. The three, Mrs. Georgia Statler, Mrs. Emma Stephens and Mrs. Toni Brown, are from the Oakland Chapter and began their volunteer work in preparing dressings during World War II.

Until the hand-made dressing program was discontinued last year, the volunteers prepared 4x4, 4x8 and abdominal pads. Materials and instructions were provided by CSR with the production of these items done by the volunteers at their respective Chapters.

SUSPICIOUS?

LEND US YOUR EYES & EARS

(SECURITY: exts. 2401/3094)

The Medical Center's Security Branch is on constant patrol, but it needs your help in preventing crime. Are you guilty of leaving a purse in open view near your desk? Be aware of your surroundings, and save someone the grief of being a victim of crime. Report any suspicious actions to Security on base, or to your local Police Department.

Listed are some circumstances that may well indicate something is amiss:

- A stranger strolling the hallway.
- Appliances or bundles being taken from a neighbor's home by an unfamiliar person.
- Strange cars parked in the neighborhood or school area.
- Loitering in a parked car or in secluded areas.
- Persons peering into parked cars, or persons leaving one car and driving off in another.
- A vehicle parked with a motor running.
- A scream heard anywhere, or the sound of breaking glass or loud explosive noises.
- Offers of merchandise at ridiculously low prices.

It will not be lost effort if you report your suspicions. Crime may be prevented if an alert is signaled in time.

Glider pilots to reunite

On August 19, 20 and 21, World War II glider pilots will meet at the Hyatt Hotel, Union Square, San Francisco, for their national convention.

Should you know the whereabouts of any of the colorful original 5,000 who played such an important role in the success of Allied D-Day strategy, please contact Elmer Johnson (415) 234-7248 or Dick Kennedy (415) 223-3161.

On display during the convention will be the cockpit of a CG 4A GLIDER, and some interesting stories will be floating around at that get-together, some 32 years after the invasion of Normandy.

Oh say, can you see?

1. It is Sunday. The Sunday flag is flying and also the Christian flag (and when unfurled it makes a beautiful sight). 2. Perspective is off, because the flagpole is not really taller than the hospital building, consequently the camera was aimed upward, and the photographer was not shooting from a window. 3. The Commanding Officer is not in residence. 4. Knowing the date, it could be surmised that the Commanding Officer was at the Olympics in Canada. You guessed it!

Enlisted wives to reactivate club

When a girl marries into the Navy, her entire life style changes. Her life is likely to become transient, and her interests are vastly different from those of girlhood companions who remain in more established homes.

The nomadic life may be more fun and more interesting, but an instinctive desire to have some semblance of an integrated community remains. And that is where the 300 Navy Wives' Clubs of America play an important role. They afford an opportunity for Navy families on the move to have someone with whom to identify.

Oak Knoll's club was chartered as NWCA #160; however, it disbanded about 2 years ago. Reassessment now shows a need for a club to draw wives of enlisted personnel, living both on and off base, together.

A future organizational meeting is planned. Wives of enlisted personnel are urged to express interest in reactivation of the club by phoning one of the following: Becky Schalla at 964-6581; Betty Rinehart 635-9227 (before 3 p.m.); Brenda Town, 635-5693 (after 3 p.m.).

Get in on the planning of an exciting fall program!

OFFICERS' WIVES CLUB (R to L) President, Georgia Barsz; Vice President, Lindsay Huurman; Treasurer, Nell Allen; Corresponding Secretary, Betty Graham; Recording Secretary, Shirley McDaniel.

HAVE YOU NOTICED "Lefty" cartoons of late? Lefty Burgess has 22 years of Army behind him and has had his work appear in Stars and Stripes; he recently has been sharing his skills with Medical Center. In World War II, Lefty was on the China, Burma, India front with General "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell.

Moffett holds Meritorious Mast

On Aug. 6, 1976, the NRMCC Branch Clinic, NAS, Moffett Field honored one of its most outstanding corpswomen, HN Kathy Ann Bairefoot during a Meritorious Mast ceremony.

During his presentation CDR Frank A. Teague, Officer in Charge of the Clinic, cited that "on several occasions when work pressures were relaxed, she aggressively sought to enhance her department's capabilities by completing unfinished work. She also continuously explored new avenues of experience to further her own education."

HN Bairefoot has been working at the Clinic primarily in administration, since March 23, 1975. During that period of time she was runner-up to Sailor of the Month on one occasion.

She has received very high evaluations for a long time; the most recent marks were predominantly 4.0.

Bit of history passes through patient's lineage

"The Congress is met; the debate's begun,
And Liberty lags for the vote of one—
When into the hall, not a moment late, Walks Caesar Rodney, the delegate."

— from Rodney's Ride

You may find a most interesting person by just sitting down by a stranger. And you might receive a bit of education of historical significance concerning the Declaration of Independence if you just listen.

Colonel Gordon Douglas Ingraham, USA (Ret), knows something of the inside story of that signing, albeit coming to him 4th or 5th hand. He is the great, great, great grandnephew of Caesar Rodney.

And who is Caesar Rodney?

Although the man was suffering from cancer, he rode 80 miles at night to be one of the delegates from Delaware to sign the Declaration of Independence, casting a very critical vote. He had left the Philadelphia convention on June 17 and gone back to Dover. In his absence, a resolution was passed that any acceptance of freedom from the rule of King George III would have to be by unanimous block vote. Therefore, a "Yes" vote from the delegate from Delaware took on added importance.

The pewter pitcher came to Colonel Ingraham from heirs of Caesar Rodney. The Colonel has recently passed the pitcher, thought to be designed by Paul Revere, on to yet another nephew in the male line of Caesar Rodney.

Communication in early days did not span oceans very rapidly. It is interesting that King George in his diary for July 4th wrote, "Nothing of special event happened today."

Little did he know the truth!

You are invited...

...to a presentation of the University of Northern Colorado concerning the San Francisco Bay Area Graduate Program. The presentation is set for 3:30 p.m. on August 20 at the Officers' Club. The study program leads to a Master of Arts in business, with specialization in health care administration.

A wine and cheese tasting will be a part of the hospitality featured.

T.I. Base holds craft fair August 21-22

The Navy will open Treasure Island to the public August 21 and 22 for a craft fair where area artisans will display and sell their handiwork. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Navy band concerts will be presented on both days.

SQUASSSSSSSH! Ya' ready?

Handball, paddle ball, racquet ball, squash! Take a choice, pick one of the two courts, or if you plain don't want to, go around to the outside court and practice your tennis. Only if you want to.

On Aug. 4, 1976, just about one year after the start, the new building for the ball sports was dedicated with all the dignity of ribbon cutting that announced to the world, "It's official."

The CBU-416 Alameda Seabees, along with help from Medical Center, were responsible for construction of the $10,000 to $12,000 project. Letters of Appreciation were presented to HM3s Daniel L. Foster and David W. Munson and a Commendation to BU2 Richard P. Debolt.

Patients attend Salinas rodeo

The Associated Veterans Council of Salinas, Ca., again this year hosted some 446 veterans. Ten patients from NRMCO were bussed to the area in time for lunch, served by courtesy of the local Elks club.

Then it was off to the rodeo, with the tickets being furnished by the California Rodeo Association. Before the return trip the Associated Veterans Council made certain the group did not return home hungry. They were served dinner, and after the dinner, many of the veterans returned to the hospital or veterans home with one of the 150 homemade cakes sent back to their buddies who failed to make the trip.

The Associated Veterans Council exists for the sole purpose of remembering our nation's service men and women. They aver that they "are already planning for next year."

The flag
can fly at night

A new law signed July 7, 1976, permits the display of an all-weather
American flag for patriotic effect 24 hours a day if properly illuminated during the hours of darkness.

Flying the flag at night has been technically possible for some time because of advances in outdoor lighting and all-weather flag materials, but the Federal Code was never adjusted to permit around-the-clock display of the flag.

Heimlich first aid can save a life

Last month, a volunteer Red Cross worker for some 33 years, met a tragic death from choking.

She was out with friends having a pleasant dinner. She choked on a piece of food, and beginning to cough, she excused herself to the ladies room. When she did not return shortly, her friends became uneasy; they found her in the restroom, too late to save a life. She was the victim of choking.

We may gain some warnings here. If something lodges in the throat, let someone know the severity. If it's a fishbone, quickly grab a piece of bread. Do not become embarrassed by the stragulation; seek help.

Maybe an alert can be sounded for a doctor. Sometimes a Heimlich thrust in the rib cage area is helpful. Sometimes an upside down position will help a small child dislodge a particle which may be blocking the windpipe. Hold the child over your arm or a chair and give it a firm rap with the heel of the hand.

Try to get assistance; don't take choking lightly.

ONE WAY TO HOLD A BABY to relieve its choking is shown. Be certain, whether baby or adult, that the head is down.

MEDIHC, a help when Navy income drops

Frequently a paramedic leaving an active duty tour in the military finds him/herself without a job. Sometimes the lack of a jingle in the pocket can cause a feeling of insecurity approaching near panic.

There is a program for such a person. It is called MEDIHC (Military Experience Directed Into Health Careers), and it can be a resource for the medically-oriented person. The program is designed to assist and motivate persons trained in medical skills who are interested in a health career upon return to civilian life.

MEDIHC has complete and up-to-date information on licensing requirements, certification and training programs. It offers employment counseling and job placement. As a federally funded program within the State Department of Health, all services are provided free of charge to the veteran.

The nearest MEDIHC Office in the Bay Area is at 2151 Berkeley Way, Room 800, Berkeley, Ca. 94704. It may be called collect at Area Code 415, 843-7900, ext. 281. Or ask Education and Training on base for guidance.

HN TED KEENAN demonstrates an upward thrust Heimlich maneuver to rescue HN Kenneth T. Herren, choking victim.

A CHOKING ADULT, is bent over a chair and then is given a sharp thrust.

A PRECISION COLOR GUARD, a cake walk with dignity, the finery of formal attire, good music, fine dancing, excellent cuisine, laudatory toasts—all added up to celebration of the Medical Service Corps' happy anniversary on the occasion of its 67th birthday.

Adult classes start

Oakland Unified School District has announced its adult education and fall schedule. The Neighborhood Centers Program starts its fall session on Monday, September 20. There will be classes in English as a second language and in civil service preparation. Don't let procrastination keep you from getting ahead. Call 452-1612 for information.

Phase II equal opportunity/race relations holds 3rd workshop

Do you know what an AAP is? Do you know what your rights and responsibilities are?

These and many other topics are currently being discussed in Phase II workshops at Bldg 70A by the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery West Coast Equal Opportunity Detachment and the NRM, Oakland, Command Training Team. Workshops will continue to be held through October 20, 1976.

The members of the NRM, Oakland Command Training Team who will continue to provide Phase II training upon the departure of the BUMED team are: Captain J. Heath, MSC, PT-OT; HMC D. Hogate, Skaggs Island Branch Clinic; HMC C. Crocker, Education and Training; HMC R. Pierce, X-Ray; HMC J. Santiago, Special Services; HM1 I. Gardiner, Laboratory; HM1 N. Petersen, X-Ray; HM1 M. Ryerson, Operating Management and HM1 H. Chinnery, Personnel.

New envelope
1876 design

An embossed envelope, which salutes both the Bicentennial and the Centennial of the United States, will be issued on October 15 in Los Angeles. The 13-cent first class mail embossed envelope is a replica of the three-cent envelope issued in 1876 at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia with only the dates and denominations changed. The 1876 design contrasted old and new methods of transporting mail at that time, showing a train and a Pony Express rider.

Orders for first day cancellations should be addressed to "Centennial Envelope, Postmaster, Los Angeles, CA 90052." Remittance should be by check or money order; postage stamps are not acceptable as payment. Customers are requested to send self-addressed envelopes of an appropriate size or return address labels with their orders.

AN EOPS (EQUAL OPPORTUNITY PROGRAM SPECIALISTS) detachment led its third class into consideration of the subject "Women in the Navy." Recommendations coming from Phase II workshop sessions will provide input for the Center's Affirmative Action Plan. Pictured are: HM2 H. C. Maier, LCDR C. L. Kalfas, HM1 C. Pope, MMC R. P. Arqueza.

Liability release essential for GI home loans

GI home loan eligibility was restored to more than 12,300 veterans and Service members who were released from liability for their former GI loans during 1975, and the Veterans Administration (VA) is urging others to apply. VA says all veterans should request a release when they sell homes purchased originally with GI loans, since without it, the seller could be held financially liable should the purchaser default on mortgage payments.

VA grants releases provided the veteran's loan is current, the prospective purchaser agrees to assume the veteran's liabilities and the purchaser is a good credit risk with sufficient income to meet assumed mortgage payments.

Prior to Dec. 31, 1974, veterans could qualify for restoration of loan eligibility if VA had been relieved of liability and if the property was disposed of for what was described as "compelling reasons."

Congress, however, removed the "compelling reasons" restriction and a veteran's entitlement may now be restored if the property has been disposed of and the loan has been repaid.

The law also provides that the original veteran's liability will be removed automatically if another veteran purchases the property and substitutes his VA loan eligibility for that of the seller.

The feet pictured above, during the noon lunch period, could have walked 1 mile. That is a distance from the front door of the Navy Exchange, down past the package store and around the ballfields, and return to the back door of the Navy Exchange. From building 500, twice down the hill to the bank is also a mile.

A mile's walk counts as one weight point if completed in 15 to 20 minutes. To keep normally healthy, 30 weight points are desirable per day. Twenty-five situps equal one point; nine holes of golf are a point and one-half if golf clubs are carried; 2 miles of biking gives a point if completed in 8 minutes, and three points are gained if performed in less than 6 minutes; a 200-yard swim will tally one point if done in 5 to 7 minutes.

Sadly, one doughnut sneaked at coffee break, or one 2-inch piece of cake with frosting at an office birthday party can add 250 to 300 calories. And if you indulged, or attended a Thursday's drug fair and had refreshments, it means most likely, that you need to take another sheet of paper and rewrite your 25 sentences.

Remember, Navy officials have issued the ultimatum: You better shape up, or else!

The senior championship was won by Melvin Borowsky of Laboratory Service, 6-2, 6-2. Borowsky and Gilbert LeBlanc of Urology Service took second in senior doubles championships.

Slow Pitch Softball

The final league standings in softball put NRMCO the Class "B" champs, with 11 wins and three losses.

Badminton

Men's and women's badminton championships are scheduled for August 31 to September 3 at NAS Moffett Field. Call ext. 2350.

Talent Contest

Rules are out for entry eligibility. Individuals with talents in singing, dancing, music, comedy, impersonations, drama, and variety should file an entry form prior to September 28. The district finals are set for October 6 at Treasure Island, and the All Navy Talent Contest will be November 14 to 18 at Little Creek, Va. Ron Brown, ext. 2350, has the details.

A bit of nothing

Some letters that pour into a hospital office are natural funnies.

There's the woman who wrote that her 72 year old father was losing his teeth. "Now, the same thing is happening to my 6-year-old son? Could he have caught it?"

Also, plastic surgery has a good one: "I want plastic surgery done like my friend's, Mrs. _____, but I don't want it so well done that no one recognizes who I am. I want everyone to know who it is that's looking so good."

Solve this one: "Dear Doctor _____: What can you suggest? I'm worried about my son because he's worried about me because he thinks I'm worried about him."

"Dear Doctor: I'm sorry I was late again today for my appointment. But you'll have to admit, it was the earliest I've been late yet."

IT WAS T-SHIRT DAY last Friday for the crew in Word Processing. Today in THE OAK LEAF it is "read 'em for yourself" day.

Bits and Pieces

U.S. Navy Medicine for July pictured the Surgeon General of the Navy, VADM Donald L. Custis, swearing in "the next generation of Navy medicine" as one of his many acts before retirement on August 1. The surgical intern with his right hand raised was none other than our LT Walt Mostek, University of Miami, now in Surgery Service.

Shoveling a bit of dirt has gotten our own Rear Admiral H.A. Sparks in the national news in Navy Times. It was raining in Bremerton, Wash., when groundbreaking was held for the Jackson Park Navy family housing. The officials didn't let that stop ceremonies; the dirt was brought indoors for what might be termed "breaking broken ground."

Our Commanding Officer was again pictured in Naval Affairs for August 1976. His publicity is overshadowed by the reason for it. He was accepting the annual donation from Fleet Reserve Branch 87, Alameda. Branch 87 gave a generous contribution to the Pediatric Clinic of NRMCO Oakland.

Dorothy Tovatt, formerly retired from OB & GYN Service, is still winning prizes with her decorated eggs. Four "bests" and two "best of show" are a bit of proof of her artistry. Dorothy will be back with us soon working as a Red Cross volunteer.

Perhaps many retiring military and civilian persons would like the address of the International Executive Service Corps. It is 622 Third Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10017. The IESC is a not-for-profit organization whose recruits serve in developing countries as volunteer advisers to locally owned enterprises that request managerial or technical assistance.

A beautiful party at the Alameda Officers Club said farewell to Helen Zlibin, Surgery Service, and Florence Sellers, Medical Records Branch of Patient Affairs. Best wishes to those two who will be missed very much by NRMCO Oakland.

The Goal

for the Combined Federal Campaign is 100 per cent participation.

We hope each person on base will show that he, individually, is a People Helper.

That each will show the spirit of a true volunteer.

A true volunteer giver is a free-will giver!

Our chairman of the Combined Federal Campaign, Captain Angelo Petoletti, climbed the mast for the CFC goal, and he made it!

We'll make it, too, with that same determination.

The kickoff for CFC was September 9.

There will be 1 week of intensive drive from September 20 to 24.

It would be nice if you became a fair share giver;

it would be perfect if you signed for the payroll deduction plan.

Help Naval Regional Medical Center Oakland reach its 100 per cent goal.

Keypersons and coordinating key persons have been appointed and will be contacting you.

MAKE IT TOO!

MAKE IT!

MAKE IT!

Jewish Holy Days Convey Age-old but Timely Message

The Jewish High Holy Days, Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur, which this year fall on September 25-26 and October 4, are the central events of the Jewish calendar.

This year Rosh Hashanah (Hebrew for "New Year's Day") begins the year 5737 of the Jewish calendar, which follows Scriptural chronology since Creation. This aspect of Rosh Hashanah, however, is secondary to the one denoted by the holy day's Biblical names, "Day of Remembrance" and "Day of the Sounding of the Shofar" (ram's horn).

Rosh Hashanah's primary significance is that it begins the period known as the "Ten Days of Repentance," which concludes with Yom Kippur (Hebrew for "Day of Atonement"). For Jews the world over these are days of introspection and soul-searching. Judaism recommends three ways—repentance, prayer, and acts of charity—to correct our inevitable failings in following the word of the Lord. Although these acts are encouraged throughout the entire year, they are emphasized during this penitential season.

ROSH HASHANA--Happy 5737

For Jews in the military and in all careers and endeavors, Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur convey a message today that is as timely as when these holy days were first celebrated more than three thousand years ago. In an age when we tend to emphasize the self, these days focus on our responsibilities to each other and our need to follow God's will to achieve true and permanent happiness. At a time when people are searching for meaning in their lives, these holy days teach that the Lord rewards those who live according to His plan. Finally, these days teach that the Lord does not make impossible demands upon His servants. In the words of the prophet, "What does the Lord require of you? Only to do justly, to have mercy, and to walk humbly with God."

NEUROPSYCHIATRIC TECHNICIANS completing the clinical phase of their training are (Row One) HM3 S. Forshay, HN M. Lamb, HN D. Busby, HN M. Ramber and nursing instructor LCDR J. Wilke; (Row Two) HN A. Captain Holm thrice returns

It is "Welcome Aboard" again for Captain Victor Martin Holm, who was last with us from 1966 to 1972 as Chief of Neuropsychiatry Service. "Almost as if I never left," Dr. Holm says. However, his curriculum vitae reveals that during the interim he has been a very busy man.

After spending 1 year in BuMed as assistant head of the Neuropsychiatry Branch, working with alcoholism, drug abuse and POW problems, he chaired the Department of Psychiatry at the National Naval Medical Center. He was Associate Professor of Psychiatry at Georgetown University Medical School and a consultant of the Group for the Advancement of Psychiatry Committee on Government Agencies. He served on the National Advisory Mental Health Council, and has held several other important appointments.

Meanwhile, he has somehow worked in a few writing credits with titles such as "Prognostic Scales for Personality Disorders in the Naval Service," made a video tape and film on "Combat Psychiatry: Vietnam," delivered major addresses on such subjects as the "Medical Department Responsibility in Alcoholism Rehabilitation," and been on panels to discuss such subjects as behavioral factors in aviation safety.

Doctor Holm received his M.D. from the State University of Iowa in 1956, and is licensed in Iowa and California. He was a resident at Naval Hospital here from October 1957 to October 1960. In 1966 he became a Diplomate of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology and in 1974 became a Fellow of the American Psychiatric Association.

On the home front, last month Dr. Holm celebrated his 26th anniversary, having wed Violet A. Jensen in August 1950. His full house consists of two girls and three boys.

A great believer in outside activities, Dr. Holm spends available spare time (and he says there is less every year) with hobbies which include amateur radio, music and bowling. He also flies his own airplane regularly.

NP Phase II finished

Lately considerable emphasis has been given to Phase II of Equal Opportunity awareness, but Phase II training in another area has also been in progress.

On July 5, 1976, 12 students arrived at NRMCOakland for Phase II clinical experience in the Neuropsychiatric Technician School. Six weeks prior to this the 12 students were members of a class of 33 students in Phase I of the Psychiatric Technician Class at the Behavioral Science Division, Academy of Health Sciences, U.S. Army, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

HM3 Thomas R. Kulesha acquired 947 points out of a possible 1000 points for Phase I and Phase II and graduated as the Distinguished Honor Graduate for the class of 33 students. HN Marianne D. Lamb acquired 943 points out of a possible 1000 points for Phase I and Phase II and graduated as an Honor Graduate.

During Phase II, the clinical phase of the school held here, the students received their clinical experience through the conscientious and enthusiastic support of staff preceptors and coordinators on each of the three psychiatric units where the students were assigned.

Women's week gives variety

DURING WOMEN'S WEEK, Karoline Gunter, a lassie from Austria, shared her arrival in our country. Other reflections of the heritages making for our greater America were voiced by Elisabeth Winsby, LCDR Michael Moy, CAPT Angelo Petoletti, LCDR Joseph Conavard, LTJG Vivian McFadden, CAPT Norman Takaki and Jo Lawrence. Through them we have a mingling of cultures of the Irish, Chinese, Italians, Croatians, Afro-Americans, Japanese and Scotch-Irish.

A large amount of camaraderie, a good bit of information, better communication, and a modicum's sharing with the opposite sex of what Women-in-Action is all about might be summarized as part of the value of observing Women's Week 1976 at NRMC Oakland.

For the first day, August 23, many of our own personnel shared their ethnic American backgrounds.

The second day's lectures sparked such interest in financial world matters that it is known as fact that several from the audience seized the opportunity to garner shares in a West Coast women's bank.

The third day of the interesting program taught in serious, but humorous, terms how to survive a rape attack. Many in attendance are now better informed on how to handle themselves in such a situation.

Day four not only brought 86 employees together to share an enjoyable luncheon at the O'Club, but also afforded an opportunity to hear Dr. Emily Stoper, from California State University, Hayward. She reviewed historically the role of women in politics.

The 5-day program concluded on Friday with a lively review by Kathy Vantine of the book Some Are Born Great, by Adela Rogers St. John.

Mrs. Elizabeth Winsby, the Federal Women's Program Coordinator who arranged the week's stimulating repast, announces that Women-in-Action will be planning monthly meetings of challenge and inspiration. Watch the bulletin boards and plan of the day for date and time.

Sea Cadets finish training

Naval Regional Medical Center has hosted its first Sea Cadet Program, and has concluded that the exposure of 10 cadets to Navy medicine was a worthwhile venture.

The cadets, from all of California, were ages 15 to 17 years, principally sophomores and juniors in high school. Their two weeks aboard, under Nursing Education sponsorship, were in classes covering general nursing procedures first aid and circulatory, respiratory and skeletal systems. Nine CPR (cardio pulmonary-resuscitation) certificates were awarded.

The youths attended a drug seminar hosted by the American Red Cross, half days were spent in the Laboratory, Pharmacy, Physical/Occupational Therapy and Food Management Services. Two days were spent on the wards on a one-to-one relationship with staff corpspersons.

Whether the students Go Navy or not, they have certainly had 2 weeks of pre-Navy exposure upon which to better make a decision about Navy medicine as a future career.

- You are invited! Blood can't be manufactured or mined. Blood comes only from people.
- Don't be frightened! Nearly everyone is a little apprehensive the first time they give blood. But watch out—donating blood is habit forming.
- Blood must be available when a patient needs it! That is NOW.
- You can safely donate blood three or four times a year.
- The demand for blood and blood products is constantly increasing. Don't wait for "the other guy" to give. The needs of patients must be met by more donors, people like you.
- Nearly all of us have blood to spare! The average adult has about 10 to 12 pints of blood in his body.

- Less than a pint is all that is taken. Your body manufactures new blood constantly. The volume you give will be replaced within a few hours.
- You aren't too busy! If you stop and think of all the good your blood can do, we believe you'll agree.
- It's safe! Prior to your donation, your medical history is reviewed, a sample of blood is checked, and a doctor must approve of all donations.
- Blood is needed every minute! This minute, decide to be a blood donor. Call ext. 2283 and make an appointment for Tuesday, Sept. 14, 1976.

FY 76 CHAMPUS

Deductible Certificates

Expire Soon

October 1 marks the start of a new year for CHAMPUS outpatient deductible certificates.

Defense Department officials remind beneficiaries of the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services—CHAMPUS—that deductible certificates issued for FY 1976 (July 1, 1975 - September 30, 1976) will not be valid after September 30.

The outpatient deductible is the initial amount a beneficiary must pay each fiscal year before CHAMPUS assistance is available for outpatient expenses.

For an individual, the deductible is the first $50 of authorized outpatient charges in a fiscal year. A family group of two or more is not required to pay collectively more than the first $100 of authorized outpatient charges in a fiscal year.

To obtain a deductible certificate, a beneficiary should accumulate itemized bills or receipts for outpatient services during a fiscal year until they total $50 or more for one patient or $100 or more collectively for a family. Then, the bills or receipts should be sent, along with one claim form per patient, to the organization that processes outpatient claims for the geographic area where the beneficiary normally receives care.

Bits and pieces

Frank Bueno of Housekeeping dropped a suggestion in the mill that was converted to Go action. He mentioned that the marquee should also be used to draw attention to honors received by civilian personnel as well as military—and it was no sooner said than done. However, all suggestions don't receive so positive a response. For instance, Operating Management Service was willing to try to be a central point of contact for car pooling, but interest lagged. So if there's anyone living near 35th and Foothill who can give Irma Nightingale a ride on a 7:30 to 4 p.m. shift, give her a call at ext. 2057.

CPO/EM club opens

Over a year ago when the old Chiefs' and Enlisted Clubs were bulldozed to make way for a regional warehouse parking lot, many persons on base had a feeling of lost identity.

In January 1976 it was decided that the need justified renovation of the unused building adjacent to the St. Lukes Chapel into a combined chief petty officer and enlisted club. HM2 Tim Town (pictured right) was assigned to help guide a working crew of our own and the Seabees from Alameda's Unit 416 in a project to turn the building into an open mess, now named the Tradewinds Club.

At a total cost of some $32,000 the ribbon cutting by Rear Admiral Sparks on August 25 marked the completion and the eagerly awaited opening of the new club.

Mr. Jim Rosen (pictured above, center) is the manager of the club; and he has announced that lunch and dinner specials will be offered on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Tuesday night is Bingo night, starting at 8 p.m., and the prizes displayed in the show cases of the club are inviting teasers to new patrons to take up the game.

Regular lunches are to be served Monday through Friday from 11 to 1:30 p.m. Dinners are served Tuesday through Saturday, 5:30 to 10 p.m., and good bands and other special features are planned for the club.

Mainly, however, the Tradewinds will once again give chief petty officers and enlisted personnel a place to call their own, a place to which they can relate.

Still time to vote absentee VOTE!

September 21 was Armed Forces Voting Day. Today is not too late to remind all hospital personnel and patients of the importance of exercising their responsibility as citizens to vote. The General Election this year will be held on Tuesday, November 3.

The Staff Judge Advocate's Office has available applications for absentee ballots.

Servicemen and their dependents who are eligible voters may vote by absentee ballot. For voting purposes, a serviceman and his dependents retain their residence in the state and county in which they were domiciled at the time they entered military service unless they have established sufficient contacts with another state to indicate an intent to become a resident.

The various states have established deadlines for the receipt of completed absentee ballots. These deadlines range from October 30 to November 18. In order to assure that completed absentee ballots are received by state and county voting officials prior to the deadline, all personnel are strongly urged to submit applications for absentee ballots NOT LATER THAN September 30. For service persons, completed applications for absentee ballots should be certified by a commissioned officer prior to mailing. In the case of a civilian voter, the application should be notarized. Civilian voters needing notarization to complete their absentee ballot applications may bring them to the Staff Judge Advocate's Office.

Detailed information concerning the specific voting regulations for each state may be obtained at the Legal Office.

Volunteers serve in Red Cross program

By Bill Hattwick

Many young people in Red Cross uniform were busy at NRMCO Oakland this summer learning new skills and helping their adult counterparts in various duties throughout the Center.

The young men and women, between the ages of 14 and 20, are part of an annual summer program sponsored by our Center Red Cross. This summer some 26 young men and women are involved in the program. They spend several days each week on the Center's wards, in clinics or other areas assisting the regular Red Cross career and volunteer staff, or hospital staff members.

To teach the young people the value of responsibility, they work under the supervision of adults, although at times they may work to some extent on their own. The volunteers are from a number of East Bay communities.

If you see a young lady in a pin-striped Red Cross uniform or a young man with a Red Cross patch on his shirt visiting with a patient or working in a clinic, you will know they are learning what it means to be a volunteer—experience that will be of value to them the rest of their lives.

HONG KONG FLU SHOTS for the staff were the preventive measure on last week's agenda.

Hispanic heritage week observed

To pay homage to the heritage of our Hispanic brothers and sisters means that we include the Hispano, Chicano and Latino, whose roots date back in our history much farther than a bicentennial period. Especially to be remembered are those Mestizo (Mexicans) who migrated north from Mexico to what is now the southwest portion of the United States.

On September 15, we at NRMCO paused to pay special tribute to the Hispanic contributions enriching our North American culture. A special table was set in the main dining room at Medical Center, designated for staff members having an Hispanic background. Many administrative officials of the hospital joined in the dinner of recognition.

In fact, all diners shared with mucho gusto in one particular feature of the Hispanic cultural heritage on that day. The menu of the day included tacos, enchiladas, guacamole, refried beans and other accompaniments. One thing was lacking however; there was no mariachi!

Statistically ours,

From the branch clinic, the Centerville Beach, Ferndale, Ca., facility treats an average of 2,600 patients a year and fills an average of 3,500 prescriptions annually.

The Naval Weapons Station Industrial Health Clinic at Concord, Ca., in 1975 cared for 2,519 civil service outpatients, 4,609 active duty, 598 dependents and 106 retired military outpatients.

In July of 1975 the medical department of Naval Air Station, Fallon, Nev., became a branch clinic. In the year 1975 there were 11,516 outpatient visits of which 5,307 were active duty and 5,962 dependent and retired military personnel. Some 247 persons were seen who were civil service workers.

At Fallon during the year 1975, 14,293 prescriptions were filled and 2,959 immunizations administered. There were 21,084 laboratory tests, 248 audiograms, 79 electrocardiograms, 54 eye refractions. There were 74 inpatient admissions and a total of 3,322 X-ray exposures taken.

Branch Clinic, Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey, Ca., on Jan. 1, 1975, became a branch of NRMCO Oakland. During 1975 a total of 19,701 outpatient visits were made; 10,666 laboratory tests, 6,108 X rays, 1,341 audiograms and 710 electrocardiograms were performed. A total of 28,064 pharmacy units were dispensed and 1,582 physical examinations were given, of which 477 were complete flight physicals.

CSC team completes review

The on-site personnel management review conducted by Darrel Davidson and Jackie Martinez of the Civil Service Commission, accompanied by Charles Shelton of the Navy's Office of Civilian Personnel-Western Field Division, was finished on August 25. A formal program evaluation report will be received, possibly in October.

During the 10 days the review members were at the Medical Center, they interviewed employees and supervisors, reviewed directives and personnel records, and audited several positions.

Position management, equal employment opportunity and position classification were given particular attention.

At the close-out, the team indicated that the areas which they evaluated were generally satisfactory. Where significant problems exist, they found that management was aware of them and that substantial planning is already progressing toward solution.

Fiddle-footed runners hit the trail

Had you been aboard in the early hours of September 4 and been able to see through sleepy eyes, you would have viewed an unusual sight.

Jeeps, Toyotas and a Ford—not just the everyday family cars—were lined up; and patients were climbing aboard for the "1976 Navy Vets Run" to the Sierras. The annual trek is sponsored by the Fiddle Footed 4-Wheelers and the Mountain Transit Authority Clubs of San Jose.

The trip was coordinated by HMC George Canning, of Special Services; patient escorts were HM2 Allen North, HM3 Mark Gainrich, HN Walter Adamczyk and HN William Hawkes, photographer.

On such a trip, nothing smells as good as food cooked over a campfire. And the only thing better than a first charcoaled 12-ounce rib-eye steak is a second one, cooked to a turn.

The Barney Riley Trail itself, in back country out of the town of Markleville, proved tough but challenging. There were a few casualties with men and machinery, but not a person who wouldn't do it again on the next long weekend—or any time.

PEDS/OB take early lead in flag football

It looks as if PEDS/OB is taking up right where they left off last year. They opened their 1976 campaign with a sounding 27-6 shellacking over Lab. They were off to a slow start however, as Lab battled them even for the first 10 minutes of the first half. But PEDS/OB worked their way down the field on an assortment of fine pass patterns.

Spearheaded by Quarterback Steve Baez, the pass finally connected with Al DeGraw from the one-yard line for the score. The P.A.T. try failed.

With 2 minutes left in the first half, Baez found Forest Beaty all alone in the end zone and connected on a 10-yarder for the score.

PEDS/OB led 14-0 at the half, as DeGraw added the extra point on the first extra point ever scored by kicking. (This is the first season for goal posts.)

Lab started things off in the second half as Howard Chase connected with Dave Laxton on a 40-yard aerial shot with 9 minutes left in the 2nd half. This was the only score recorded by Lab.

PEDS/OB scored later on a 1-yard pass from Baez to Jack Schwarte. Degraw picked up the P.A.T.

PEDS/OB also scored on a safety as Chase was deflagged in the end zone with a minute and 30 seconds left in the game.

As the seconds were ticking off to end the game, DeGraw booted a 42-yard field goal to round out the scoring for PEDS/OB.

PEDS/OB made it two in a row, as they easily defeated PT/OT by a score of 40-24. PEDS/OB seemed to score just about whenever they wanted. Baez to Beaty was more than PT/OT could contend.

DeGraw seems to be rated one of the top kickers with his soccer-style kick.

In the only other game played last week, Lab came back nursing their wounds from an earlier defeat to PEDS/OB, as they defeated a less experienced team from EENT by a score of 12-6.

In games played the week of September 13 to 15, PT/OT defeated EENT 1-0 by forfeit. PT/OT also defeated Lab by a score of 17-14, and PEDS/OB made it three in a row as they whitewashed EENT by a score of 52-6.

ALCOHOL IS A DEPRESSANT!

Credit Union keeps open house

All of the light fixtures were not in place and carpets were still being installed one hour before preview of the new Alameda Coast Guard Federal Credit Union building. However, the celebration of the new construction went on according to schedule and few people on that October 1 evening could have cared that telephones were not yet connected. Administrative officials joined with CU directors to put the stamp on approval on the architectural design.

Then on Saturday the 2nd, open house was held for the general public. As guests drank punch and nibbled dainty cookies, the cheerfulness of the decor permeated the spirits and dispelled the dampness caused by earlier rains. The tours included safety deposit vaults, conference rooms, kitchenette and patio areas.

The Alameda Coast Guard Federal Credit Union has had a phenomenal growth over the years. In 1972 Peggy Griffin was first coming over from Alameda 2 days a week to court accounts. Then her time was increased to a few additional hours, 5 afternoons a week. On the 17th of July, 1973, the Credit Union converted to real-time data processing, and on December 31 the dividend went from 6 to 7 per cent. About August of 1974 the hours were again expanded, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; expansions had likewise been made in physical facilities. But, from the start, the Command was aware that quarters were too small for growth; and it was determined that something should be done about it.

CFC CHAIRMAN SAYS 'Thanks'

Captain Petoletti, the chairman of the 1976 Combined Federal Campaign, has now had time to review the success of the effort on behalf of the United Way agencies, and to all the key persons and their assistants, and especially to the People Givers, he says a heartfelt "Thank you!"

In 1972 collections at NRMCO totaled $12,001.53; in 1973, $17,392.52; in 1974, $14,922.09; in 1975, $17,181.10. Count to date for the year 1976 has reached $16,658.41, which represents giving by 906 persons. There were 402 persons giving through payroll deduction. Vacationers and absentees at the time of the drive will be given an opportunity to contribute.

Just in case the tin man doesn't know it, there is a lot of symbolic hidden heart right here on base, and the giver list may be the clue as to where the "heart" may be found.

On February 6, 1976, ground was broken for a new building.

That new building is now completed.

With the new home for the CU, it is anticipated that there will be a continued surge in the growth pattern. Assets of ACGFCU in 1972 were $8,736,636.88. By 1975 they had soared to $23,479,557.85, and by September 1976 they had reached $27,500,000.

The Credit Union is now dealing in second mortgages for California, Oregon and Washington; safety deposit boxes; travelers checks and money orders are among the services offered. Seven employees will be on deck to offer other multi-services expected of such a financial institution. The insurance feature on accounts is worthy of investigation.

Even if you are not a member, visit the Credit Union, and when you have met the officers, you undoubtedly will want to join.

Statistically ours,

Operating Management Service statistically launders a lot of dirty linens. The workload increased from 1,450 tons in 1972 to 1,800 tons in 1975.

And visitors and personnel on base better mind their driving habits. Citations issued have increased from 4,863 to 7,046, ranging from parking violations to reckless driving and trespassing on a government reservation.

Housekeeping, too, comes under Operating Management, and, in 1975, 47 housekeeping aids cleaned 430,000 square feet daily for a cost of $480,000 per year. The average staffing guide per man is 7,000 square feet daily.

One to three Courts Martial cases a year are all that hit that discipline severity; and considering that we have been under regionalization since 1973, it would not seem that the increase in investigation or incident reports or referrals to CO/XO's Mast is up to any alarming degree. In 1972 there were 161 investigations other than traffic, 237 incident reports, 120 UCMJ (Uniform Code Military Justice) violation cases and 39 discipline referrals. In 1975 the comparable figures are 196 investigations, 264 incident reports, 126 UCMJs and 45 CO Mast referrals.

What matters is not being knocked down—but did you get up?

"How Green Was My Valley" is an unforgettable novel by Richard Lewellyn. There is a touching scene when the 11-year-old Huw goes off to school for his first day. He is neatly dressed and clean. In the late afternoon he returns home bleeding and bedraggled. School ground bullies have beaten him. His books are smeared and his pencil box broken. One eye is black and his face is bruised. His coal mining father looked at him for a long moment in silence.

"Are you willing to go back to school tomorrow?" he asks. Huw is afraid and he hesitates.

"Y-yes," he finally mutters.

"Good," replied his father, "from tonight you shall have a penny for every mark on your face, a shilling for a black eye and two shillings for a broken nose."

I've been touched by that partly because of little Huw's trembling resolve but mostly by the father's reasoning that troubles and unpleasant situations have to be faced.

Andrew Jackson was one of the most successful presidents to emerge in American history. A man who had been a neighbor of Jackson in his youth once remarked: "I done a heap o' wrestlin' with Andy, and I throwed him three times out of four, but he didn't stay throwed."

I will make book on the man who will go on trying after each failure. The man who, has the habit of renewing the struggle after each fall is going to make it somewhere, sometime. The man who ends up in a disastrous defeat is usually there not because he was thrown, but because he stayed down and refused any effort to get up.

THE MONTH OF SEPTEMBER was a record breaking month for the OB&GYN Service. There were six sets of twins and a total 149 babies born during the month.

VETERANS' DAY, October 25, is a holiday. See you at the Command Picnic! Bank of America will be closed that day.

Command Picnic October 25??

Rain, rain stay away, and don't come back on Veterans' Day!

Twice a Command Picnic has been scheduled for NRMCO staff and families. The October 2 date was cancelled because of rains; who wants to play softball in mud?

Hoping for better luck, the big get-together is again scheduled for October 25, Monday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Because of legal requirements connected with funds, civilian employees are required to pay $1 per person, but you can bet that buck will bring bonus returns. Military families will be free, but Special Services would still like to have an approximate head count in making food plans. So please obtain your tickets from Special Services before the deadline of October 19.

Sure the weekend is a holiday, but a good one to stay off the highways. Bring your swimsuits, running shoes, tennis racquets and a big appetite. Make your reservations now.

This time if it rains, the picnic will be cancelled until Spring, and refunds will be given.

RETIRING(?)

It is an impressive ceremony in the Navy when a sailor retires and is piped ashore by his shipmates of many years.

As tributes are said and awards presented in the offices of the Commanding Officer, the emotions which are in play are very mixed. Although many of our doctors and others depart to even expanded careers in civilian communities they may be aware that they also leave a Way of Life. Perhaps at the moment they do not fully realize how much that way of life in which they and their wives and families are entwined with friends and work will be missed by them.

However, the Command need not be told how much the services of these military staff members will be missed by Naval Regional Medical Center. There will be somewhat of a void that will have to be filled in time. For the now, we can only wish these retirees "Smooth sailing and fair winds."

Flu stay way from our doors!

In September the Hong Kong Flu shots were administered to some 862 military persons and 258 civilians and others.

Last week the Swine flu immunizations began at NRMOC Oakland. There were 647 active duty personnel and 131 civilians and high risk persons who received the immunizations.

October 20 and 21 are set for the final vaccination program insofar as inoculation with the bivalent Swine and Victoria influenza vaccine for all active duty and Selected Reserve personnel. Vaccine for the general military retired population and their dependents is yet to be received. When such monovalent Swine flu vaccine arrives, announcement will be made, and Preventive Medicine Service asks that you keep alert to various media notices.

For connoisseurs of sound

In case you haven't noticed, the audio department of the Navy Exchange is adding new merchandise. Special promotional buys enable the exchange to offer sophisticated stereo packages at prices that raise eyebrows. The units do not stay on the shelves very long, so it is wise to visit the audio section of the Navy Exchange regularly. Also, the same thing applies to the photo department.

This may be the year to buy just the camera or stereo sound that you've always wanted.

CHAMPUS nonavailable update

CHAMPUS beneficiaries can continue to use non-availability statements from a Uniformed Service hospital to obtain care at a civilian hospital which is located within 40 miles of another Service hospital.

DoD officials cite the following example to illustrate the present CHAMPUS policy:

If a Service hospital within 40 miles of a patient's residence cannot perform needed heart surgery, but a second Service hospital further away can, the patient will be encouraged to use the second hospital rather than a civilian one near it. However, he will not be prohibited from using the civilian hospital.

The officials also point out that it usually costs less for both a beneficiary and the Government when a Service hospital is used rather than a civilian hospital.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THESE NEW HM2s! The advancees are Alfonso Torres, William McDonald, John Sieber, Edward Duegaw, Joseph Bemrich, John Wheeler.

...Bits and Pieces...

Nature thru binoculars

Frustrated is the description of an editor with 4 pages to fill and 12 pages of material. The East Bay Regional Park District sends out wonderful teasers on such things as seeing nature on horseback or on a bicycle in Tilden Park; fall bird walks in the Coyote Hills, at Crown Memorial State Beach, at the Briones Regional Park, north of Lafayette, or at Wildcat Canyon, Richmond. An autumn leaf shuffle at Sunol Wilderness, east of Fremont, sounds like fun. If you're a real nature buff, you might phone 531-9300 for a calendar of listings. The park district even lists a wheelchair nature walk with a naturalist.

Crew's books

If you're not reading the Crew's Library notices, you're missing notice of some of their new titles. It now has the Time-Life Boating Series: Maintenance. The Kubler-Ross volume On Death and Dying or Nolen's book called Healing: A Doctor in Search of a Miracle. We won't tell if you're an adult and sneak into the Children's Corner to reread Winnie the Pooh and Tigger Too. If you've never read the Pooh Bear stories, no wonder you're uneducated when mention is made of Robin or Eore.

Special Services tidbits

Some of the information The Oak Leaf does not have room to carry is included in the leaflet gotten out monthly by Special Services. Stop by and pick up a flyer or watch the area near the mail room for the leaflets. You might learn through that media that "Swimming lessons are continuing into the fall months." Or that the Enlisted Wives Club had an organizational meeting.

Sailor of Month

September's Sailor of the Month, HM3 Michael D. Torrence, was a WW II baby; he was born in Hawaii, then transplanted to Iowa, and he now claims Mill Valley as home. His wife Suzy is a registered nurse, working for Kaiser Hospital, and with two boys, ages 8 and 6, it is not hard to imagine how Michael's evening are occupied.

At Medical Center, Petty Officer Torrence is Senior Corpsman in the Emergency Room. His Commendation reads, "Besides displaying extraordinary skills in various ancillary health care tasks, you have continually demonstrated concern for the well being of patients. Your sound decision making and diligence in difficult situations has not only earned you respect and admiration, but also has been responsible for inspiring others in the performance of their duties."

Michael Torrence is goal-directed toward getting into an independent duty school. He daily is earning credits toward career advancement, whatever his final decision about the future.

Thirty-four years of continuous training of Navy Physical Therapy and Occupational Therapy technicians came to a close with the graduation of Class #7602 on Thursday, November 4, 1976 at Naval Regional Medical Center Oakland. In keeping with Oak Knoll's threefold purpose to meet the highest professional, local community and Navy wide needs, the staff has indeed given their utmost. Five classes, some 145 students, have received their training and orientation here at NRMCO, including 3 from foreign countries.

The United States Navy has long been recognized and admired for outstanding training programs in nearly every professional and technical field and, especially, for those in medicine. There is no counterpart, either civilian or military, to the Navy hospital corpsmen. They are the very foundation upon which the success of the Navy's health care system rests—the direct result of superior training. The goal of every medical training program is to meet the educational needs of the students who in turn provide medical services to patients. PT/OT School did not fade away, nor was it phased out gently. The challenge had been met and we are all satisfied in knowing the job was well done.

Technicians have been trained by the Navy since 1942 at Bethesda, San Diego, and Oakland. From 1942 to 1969, two separate training programs were conducted: one for Physical Therapists and one for Occupational Therapists. In March of 1968 a special task force, formed by CAPT Ruth Moeller, MSC, USN, Assistant to the Chief, Medical Service Corps for Medical Specialists developed a combined training program in which the 21-week 'O.T.' course and the 26-week 'P.T.' course were consolidated into a 28-week combined course. The task force members were CDR Bertha Alvord and LCDR Mary Rooney, Occupational Therapists, and CDR Joan Beckwith and LCDR Jean Heath, Physical Therapists. The first class of combined technicians convened at the National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Maryland, in March 1969. The Occupational Therapy portion of this program was approved by the American Occupational Therapy Association in 1970, which enabled graduates to become eligible for national licensure as Certified Occupational Therapy Assistants. Due to a pressing need for additional technicians, a second program was established at Oakland Naval Hospital in 1973. In January 1974 DeAnza College, Cupertino, California granted 64 quarter hours of college credit toward the Associate of Arts degree as a Physical Therapist Assistant for technical course work completed at NRMCO.

Tri-Service PT/OT training now conducted at Ft. Sam Houston.

In considering why the PT/OT School program was so successful we need to acknowledge only that the atmosphere created by a dedicated professional group of specialists with multifaceted talents and resources was contagious. This exposure of the students in teaching/working situations accomplished the goal of producing some of the best Physical Therapy Occupational Therapy technicians trained anywhere. We wish them well, both staff and students, in their future endeavors and feel they merit the traditional Navy 'Well Done.'

CHAMPUS CORNER

The 40-mile radius has been eased. If a person can prove that the distance from his residence to the nearest military hospital by the most direct route is in excess of 40 road miles, a statement of noavailability, Form 1251, will be issued.

Your Health Benefits Counselor has Handouts that address themselves to the specific parts of CHAMPUS Program. Ask for them to help you better understand your individual benefits.

If you have submitted a claim before August, either to the old or to the new Contractor, and have received no information from them, resubmit your claim and mark the claim 'Resubmission.'

Happy Birthday Marines

From the Halls of Montezuma to the Shores of Tripoli. . .

At 1000, the 10th of November they snapped to attention. Our Commanding Officer strode briskly into the Main dining room. "As you were," he joined with Oak Knoll military and civilian staff in celebrating with the U.S. Marines their 201st birthday. We listened to a congratulatory birthday message from the Commandant of the Marine Corps. RADM Sparks wished them well on the completion of the first year of their third century. The Commanding Officer of the Marine Barracks, Treasure Island, COL Louis A. Bonin responded with the thought that "We like to be with friends and family on the important days of our lives. You at NRMCO are our friends. Whether they be doctors, nurses or corpsmen, we give a special thanks to our 'Docs.'" Strains of the Marine Hymn created the atmosphere and our Marine friends cut their cake and graciously served punch.

Santa Claus (Art Ames), Miss Mary Valle and RADM Sparks plan to remember patients hospitalized during the Holidays.

To those who gave we bring Christmas joy

What kind of people buy presents for those they don't even know? What kind of person spends hours wrapping and tying packages he won't see being opened? Who are they who leave families to go visiting patients confined in the hospital on Christmas mornings? What club decorates the wards of Oak Knoll for the Holiday? Their name is Veteran Hospitals' Christmas Committee. We call them friends indeed.

Thursday, November 11 at the Officers' Club, RADM Sparks and the Staff of NRMCO hosted a dinner for these dedicated ones. "We enjoy the assistance from the community. Our job is made easier. We appreciate the Christmas Committee. Those who are hospitalized on Christmas Day are those who must be. Those patients have never been forgotten. Thank you for 52 years. We wish you the best and continued success year to year. Yours is a most worthwhile program. We are in your debt."

'Tis the season,' said Mr. Felix Chialvo, President, 'that VHCC puts on its work clothes. We have one goal, to see a little more happiness and joy come into the lives of those confined Christmas Morning. Ours is not a simple task; it requires money, we work for this. We have public spirited people and the response has been magnificent.'

EEO News

The first Annual San Francisco Bay Area Equal Employment Opportunity Council was held on 3 November 1976. Mr. Weldon Miles, DEEO reports that topics discussed included building a strong program to further management involvement.

Summer jobs

The Civil Service Commission has announced the opening of its examination for summer jobs.

Are you the son or daughter of Naval personnel, either military or civilian? Are you 18 years old or a high school graduate and 16? You may be eligible to take this examination which is used to fill temporary jobs at the levels of GS-1 through GS-4.

There will be more applicants than positions, and those filing earliest will have the best opportunity for employment. The test will be given in January and February. Be sure your application is post marked before January 13. For further information call our Civilian Personnel Office at 2116.

Dear Jo,

You promised you'd be gone only a year. We found the keys in the office next door. (Don't like good-byes either). Thanks for sharpening the pencils, and filling the aspirin bottle. We're glad you left all those notes in the box labeled "Important." Your plant has been watered; we've adjusted the desk chair and taken off the typewriter cover. With a prayer we'll carry on while you're away in Oklahoma. Take care. . . we miss you already.

Thanksgiving Message

Psalm 107: 1

After a fruitful harvest, the Pilgrims of early America gathered together with their families and friends to celebrate the plenty with praise to their Maker and with a feast of Thanksgiving. This year we again set aside a day of praise and feasting to acknowledge our gratefulness and to count our many blessings. We at Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, do indeed, have much for which to be thankful. . . for our measure of health, for our families, for our joys and sorrows, for our nation, for freedom from want. We are thankful for the opportunities we have to learn and to teach. But most important, we are grateful for the privilege of serving, for the happiness we enjoy in helping to make another's pathway just a little bit smoother. We are truly thankful.

H.A. SPARKS

G.I. Bill Benefits are increased

There have been some changes made! The Congress has passed and the President has signed a new law that brings about three important changes:

- G.I. Bill educational benefits are increased by 8% in money and by 1 academic year in maximum entitlement, from 36 to 45 months.

- The current G.I. Bill eligibility is terminated for those recruited after December 31, 1976. The final date for all—in or out of uniform to complete their use of these benefits is December 31, 1989.

- A totally new approach to Veterans' Educational Assistance (VEA) for 1977 is established. This involves monthly contributions by the Service member and 2 to 1 matching funds by the government into the member's Veterans Administration account for education.

Surgeon General Visits NRMCO

LTJG Leslie Ingersoll greets VADM Arentzen, RADM Sparks, CDR Lewis and CAPT Davis at the Hemodialysis Clinic door.

On November 15 and 16, Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, enjoyed a visit by our new Surgeon General, VADM Willard P. Arentzen, MC, USN. VADM Arentzen's stay here was necessarily a short one. The well planned itinerary provided a base for the first time for our Surgeon General to see firsthand this Medical Center and some of the adjoining Medical Branch Facilities; Mare Island, our newest facility Moffett Field and NRMCO Treasure Island. VADM Arentzen saw both military and civilian personnel doing the day to day work of a first line health care facility.

One of his major concerns is continuing attention to keeping patient stay to a minimum; returning to active duty as soon as possible.

At a luncheon for Medical Center Department heads VADM Arentzen outlined the challenges that face us all currently. Later at a reception he found time to meet with members of NRMCO staff socially.

During his visits to some of our outlying branches he identified areas of challenge to enhance patient care.

ΕΙΝΑΙ ΜΙΚΡΟΣ ΚΟΣΜΟΣ ...it's a small world

In January 1976, LT Nikolas Skyvalos was on duty with NATO. His responsibility was with the Border Patrol along the borders of Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Albania and Greece. The mountainous countryside was barren and cold. Yet it was necessary to patrol every section of the border by foot. When his advance scout returned breathlessly to announce there were suspicious movements around the next hill, LT Skyvalos was alarmed. He rose to investigate and then it happened. A sniper's bullet rang out and met its mark. Through and through his lower abdomen it went and LT Skyvalos fell. He was only three feet from the border, and in falling activated a land mine which cost him his legs.

LT Skyvalos spent the next 3 1/2 months in the hospital, mending and regaining his strength. His wife, the lovely Helene, was at his side throughout his convalescence. Then came the challenge of learning to walk again. Through NATO prostheses were manufactured in a European country and were sent to Greece with a technician for fitting and instruction. These proved to be far too heavy and cumbersome and painful to use. Skyvalos was able to choose where he would go within NATO countries, to have new legs made. His choice was the United States. It was recommended that he be fitted at the Naval Prosthetics Research Laboratory, Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland. Incidentally, the Greek Government is paying the expenses of his hospitalization and transportation.

In the early hours of October 18,

CDR C.M. Belezos our Assistant Chief Nurse was on hand to interpret when he and Mrs. Skyvalos arrived. Thereafter, CDR Belezos and Mrs. Kathy Taylor, Decedent Affairs Office, shared the responsibility of communicating for the patient and staff. All who worked with the Greek couple marvel at the warmth and love their personalities radiated. LT Skyvalos sent Helene home to Greece to wait for his return. . . so she will only worry about when she is to see him again, for "she is my life, my love, my hope, my soul." In spite of the language barrier, LT Skyvalos' attitude has been positive. He has been willing and determined to walk again on his new legs. Now he claims he is Greek-American. . . with a Greek body and American legs. During his stay here he and LT Renish Patient Affairs discovered they shared not only a taste for Greek coffee, but also similar tastes in literature. Both CDR Belezos and Mrs. Taylor have relatives in Greece with whom he is acquainted. Indeed, it is a small world.

On Monday, November 8, 1976, 30 Navy Nurses from the West Coast gathered at the Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland for a five day conference entitled 'A Trend in Psychiatric Nursing.' This week-long session was the first event jointly sponsored by the Naval Health Sciences Education and Training Command and this Center. The content of the conference was developed with assistance from the Center's psychiatric and education departments. Using stress as the central theme, the lecturers focused on everyday coping strategies, alternative ways to cope (relaxation therapy and biofeedback), psychosocial changes that increase stress and how an individual may respond maladaptively through psychosomatic illness, child abuse, alcoholism, depression and suicide. The last two days of the conference centered on how nurses, as professionals can intervene effectively. The tool, crisis intervention theory and methodology, was introduced and explored. California Board of Registered Nursing granted 30 hours of Continuing Education to the participants of this program.

The majority of the speakers were members of our own psychiatric and nursing staff, but two nationally known lecturers also participated: CAPT Richard R. Rahe of the Naval Research Center in San Diego and Corrine L. Hatton, RN, MS, Assistant Dean at UCLA School of Nursing.

The participants concentrated on integrating new theories and exploring possible applications to their individual work settings. The Program Coordinator, LCDR Karen A. Rieder, reported that the seminar was extremely successful. The evaluations written by the participants confirmed this and repeatedly stressed the practical implications of the material. The Command can be justifiably proud of this well organized, dynamic conference.

Red Cross News

by Bill Hattwick

The national and regional presidents of the Fleet Reserve Association's Women's Auxiliary were recent guests of NRMCO's Red Cross office for a tour of NRMCO.

Touring the hospital were Mrs. Evelyn Harris of Norfolk, VA, national president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Fran Barker of San Leandro, regional president of the Oakland-San Leandro chapter. Escorting them through the hospital's facilities were Mrs. Ruth Haberman, national chairman of hospitals for the Fleet Reserve, and Mrs. Mary Passanisi. Both Mrs. Haberman and Mrs. Passanisi are Red Cross volunteers here at the Center.

The Fleet Reserve is a large organization of active duty or retired enlisted members of the sea services (Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard) representing some 128,000 members. The Women's Auxiliary has a membership of nearly 20,000 and is composed of members' wives or women who served in the sea services.

The purpose of the Fleet Reserve Association is to actively support benefits for members of the sea services. Emphasizing its objectives of loyalty and service to our country and protection of rights for servicemen and their dependents, the association and its auxiliary work closely with the government in Washington and the Veterans Administration concerning benefits.

The Fleet Reserve Auxiliary is active in volunteer work in areas benefitting members of the sea services. And, in areas where the Red Cross is involved with service hospitals, such as here at the Center, The Red Cross and Fleet Reserve cooperate in assisting each organization in promoting volunteer activities.

It was a gray day. In fact, November 11, was not only gray, it was cold and wet too. But, this was the day reserved by Dan Robinson, National Service Committee Chairman of Alameda Elks Lodge #1015, the day reserved to take NRMCO patients fishing on the bay. And so they went!

HMC George Canning, Special Services Entertainment Coordinator, gathered together foul weather gear, extra jackets and windbreakers. Twelve patients and three escorts from Oak Knoll met the sponsors from the Elks at Berkeley Pier. Indifferent to the rain and cold, they boarded the chartered fishing vessel, "Wild Waves" bound for Sausalito for bait. The best bait to use was live minnows. The knowing skipper covered the hot spots of the bay as far as hungry fish were concerned. They cruised around Tiburon, slipped through Racoon Strait, trolled by Angel Island and sought out that special place by Yerba Buena Island. Those cold, wet, tired, happy fishermen tell us, and we'd better believe it, that they brought home 23 fish. Yes, twenty-three 3 to 6 pound (best size for eating), stripped bass. Some were taken home to families; others were kept with plans made for a near future fish-fry.

Civilian Payday on Blue Monday

The Naval Supply Center, Oakland, who processes the payroll for the Naval Regional Medical Center has announced that plans have been developed to change civilian payday from Friday to Monday effective 10 January 1977.

For employees who participate in the net pay to bank program, the computer listings will be mailed on Friday or hand carried to the banks in the vicinity of NSC Oakland. The large local banks with centralized computer files will credit the employees accounts on Friday night, and the account holder can write checks as of Saturday morning.

Some good news comes in the announcement. The regular payday during Christmas week has been advanced to Thursday December 23.

7-East Curtains

Often we get a telephone call from the USS Enterprise Wives, says Nurse Virginia Willis. They ask what they can do for us. This last time I merely suggested new curtains for the playroom for the children on 7 East. Those ladies not only made the curtains, but took them out and had them flame-proofed before they brought them to us. Now we have Sunbonnet Sues and Farmer Johns parading across a gold and green patchwork curtain.

Christmas Party

To start your celebration of the holiday season, a Christmas party is planned for enlisted personnel on December 17 from 1900 to 2100 at the Officers' Club. There will be prime rib dinner from 1900 to 2100 and dancing from 2100 to 0100. Tickets for dinner and dance are only $5 per person. If you would like to come for the dance only, tickets are $1 per person. You may get your tickets now from HM1 Chinnery in the Career Counselor's Office or through Special Services in Building 38 or through any of the following salesmen:

HM2 T. Town—Photo Lab, HM2 C. Tilton—Education and Training, HM2 T. Noyes—Operating Room, HM3 R. Catabay—Personnel, HN L. Guerra—EKG, HN E. Uhlig—Outpatient Department, HM3 S. Elam—Inhalation Therapy.

New Year's Eve at the ENLISTED MESS!

Greet the New Year with your friends at the Enlisted Mess. Manager Jim Rosen plans a New York Steak full course dinner and before going home, a substantial complimentary breakfast. There will be champagne and wine and, of course, no-host cocktails. Space is limited. In fact, we can accommodate only 120. So make your reservation early; cut off date for tickets is 16 December. Oh yes, the cost is only $15 per person. . . a real bargain.

Program topics included: Environmental Health-NIOSH, Enforcement of 55 MPH speed limit, California Highway Patrol and Anatomy of Federal Safety and Health Program by the Department of Labor.

Transition Quarter Statistics

Early in November, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Manpower and Reserve Affairs) David P. Taylor announced Transition Quarter Statistics. The total active strength of the four Military Services at the end of September 1976 was 2,084,000 which was more than 99% of the September objective of 2,102,000. Recruiting shortages were due in part to the continued emphasis on recruiting high school diploma graduates.

GIVE BLOOD...

SAVE LIFE

Our goal for this Blood Drive through Irwin Memorial Blood Bank, is 300 volunteers. So said LCDR Phyllis Warren of NRMCO Laboratory. There is a special need during the holidays. . .any blood taken during this last campaign of the year will last to cover anticipated needs during the holiday season.

Be sure you reserve time on the 7th of December to take care of your contribution. Make a deposit in the 12th Naval District Blood Fund. You may make an appointment any time between 0800 and 1600 by calling 2283. Or, just walk in and take your turn. What are your benefits? Well, in addition to the feeling of compassion toward your fellow-man, you may, if you are military and your supervisor approves, be granted a 72 hour liberty. If you are civilian, at the discretion of your supervisor, you may take as much as four hours leave. In addition, three donors will be chosen from the staff to use the reserved parking space for four weeks each. Ten students are also eligible for three games of free bowling at the drawing.

*And the angel said unto them,
Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day... a Savior, which is Christ the Lord... glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men... And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them.*

Luke 2:10-18

*We do not need to wonder, for we know that God sent His Son, the Prince of Peace into this world, to be the Savior of mankind. May we take time during this holiday season, to consider the reason, the cost, and the Gift.
And then, let us rejoice in the realization that the Gift was for us. I wish each member of our staff and each of our patients here at Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, the joy of Christmas, and the hope of peace in a bountiful New Year.*

It is our privilege

During the last month one of our staff endured the painful tragedy of the sudden illness and death of his young wife, the mother of his children. Another staff member experienced the loss of all of her accumulated household goods through a fire in her home in Enlisted Housing. There came to us a stranger who needed the help provided by the specialists in NPRL.

How do we prepare for catastrophes? They happen. It does not matter whether we are ready or whether it is a convenient time.

We were able to provide the shoulder to cry on; the home for the homeless; care for children; the funds in the emergency; even such mundane supplies as towels. We offered compassion, stability, strength, understanding, encouragement, hope.

In the midst of his bereavement HMCS Leroy R. Ward wrote to say thank you. HM2 Mary Morrill wrote to express her gratitude. Greek Major Nikolas Skyvalos of NATO Forces offered heart felt thanks.

No, it is not our duty. Here at Naval Regional Medical Center, Oakland, we count it a privilege to care, to help, to serve.

Audiology Techo

train at NRMCO

On November 29, 30 and December 1, 1976, the Audiology and Speech Pathology Service, Department of Otolaryngology and Maxillofacial Surgery, NRMCO trained 14 occupational hearing conservationists by the Council for Accreditation in Occupational Hearing Conservation. In addition this course qualifies them for two quarter units of college credit from California State University, Hayward, Department of Health Sciences.

The problem of noise related hearing loss is of major concern in the Navy today. Trained Occupational Hearing Conservationists are indispensable to an effective hearing conservation program.

The course included an overview of the occupational noise problems in the Navy, the harmful effects of noise on man and the effects of hearing impairment on ability to communicate. The physical as well as the psychological attributes of sound, the audio-gram and the decibel were discussed. Further lectures focused on the anatomy and physiology of the ear as well as audiometric techniques and evaluation of test results.

Those completing the training course were: Lorraine Allen and Frank Willis of NARF Alameda, HM3 Richard Bruglia and HN Robert Hirsch of NSC Oakland, HM3 George Lindsey of NAS Fallon, HN Edwin Montoya of NAS Moffett Field, SSGT Louis Goldman of AFEES Oakland, HN John Larnard from Treasure Island, HMCS LeRoy Ward, HM3 Pete Stuntebeck, Nancy Strom, ENS Steve Sorgen, and HM2 J. Tod H. Mikuriya M.D., a Berkeley psychiatrist, demonstrates the use of an electroencephalograph with sound attachment to help HN Sunny Lodispoto make alpha waves while LTJG Schide uses an electromyographic recorder to learn to reduce tension in neck muscles. Biofeedback is the process of providing visual or auditory evidence to a person of the status of an autonomic body function so that he may exert control. Psychiatrists are using these instrumental training techniques to help patients reduce various medical problems related to autonomic responses, for instance migraine headaches, without the overuse of psychotropic drugs. The demonstration for nursing personnel inservice training was presented November 17 in the Clinical Assembly. Research is just in its infancy in this fascinating field of human behavior.
